Teen Center Will Open For Teens Friday Evening

Elk Grove Village teens will find music, food and recreation waiting for them Friday at the Lions Park Community Center.

The center will be open for teens from 7:30 to 11 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Elk Grove Park District, Community Service, Council of Churches and police department.

Sponsors of the program plan to have a coffee house set up in one part of the center, at 180 Kennedy Blvd., a music room with stereo tape deck and tapes available and a "rap room" for quiet conversation, according to Bill Hughes of the park district.

Refreshments will include free popcorn, Pingpong and pool tables will be available, he said.

The program is the first planned for the center by the four groups. From now on the program will be held each Friday night except for Christmas and New Year's Eve, Hughes said.

THE PROGRAM Friday will be first for teens run in a park district facility since last August, when the summer six-day-week program ended.

The program was held in the community center (formerly the teen center,) but members of the park board expressed concern that attendance was too low to justify continuing it.

In August the board changed the name of the center and ordered that it be scheduled with adult programs. At that time provision was made to open the building to teens on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays if there was sufficient interest.

Park district officials have said if the Friday night program is successful it will be expanded to include other nights.

Representatives from all four sponsoring groups will be on hand each evening to supervise the program. Community Service board members and youth service committee members have been encouraging teens who work with that youth program to attend and church youth groups have also been urged by church leaders to take part.

Stop Sign On Board Agenda

The proposed removal of a temporary stop sign on Arlington Heights Road at Oakton Street is among business to be discussed tonight by the Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees.

Other business to be considered tonight includes purchase of fire equipment and authorizing a response to a legal suit.

The proposed removal of the stop sign was proposed in a police department traffic study recommendation. The recommendation notes that the temporary stop sign combined with heavy traffic flow on Arlington Heights Road has caused long lines of traffic congestion and the increased use of interior residential streets to avoid the back-up of traffic.

Also, the report says, with Higgins Road now open to through traffic, the amount of traffic on westbound Oakton Avenue is not sufficient to justify stopping traffic on Arlington Heights Road.

FOUR BIDS for fire equipment for the department's new fire engines are under consideration. Fire Chief Allen Hulett has recommended accepting Able Fire and Safety Equipment Co.'s bid of $8,577. Two of the three other bids were for lesser amounts, but the companies did not bid on all items sought.

The board is to consider authorizing Village Atty. Ed Hofert to respond to the $150,000 suit filed against the village by Speelman Refuse Co. The suit charges the village illegally prevented Speelman from doing business within the village.

The board is also to consider establishing a $1 fee for transferring valid nonvillage vehicle stickers to village stickers.

Also on the agenda is a proposal to pass a resolution commending local barber Vincent Lawrence for receiving the 1972 "Barber of the Year" award recently.

Power Out In Area

More than 3,000 Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates customers of Commonwealth Edison were left in the dark this morning after a transformer failed.

Electric service was disrupted for a little over 30 minutes, from 8:52 a.m. until 9:24 a.m., according to a Commonwealth Edison official. Crews went to work on the transformer after the malfunction which caused the blackout.

SCOTT NAILOR and the homemaker who has cared for him since he broke his leg in October have made paper chains and other things. Vera Smogorzewski is a homemaker for Child and Family Service of Chicago.

2 Burglaries Over Weekend Are Reported

Elk Grove Village police are investigating two burglaries and one attempted burglary which occurred during the past weekend in the village.

Three typewriters were stolen between Friday and Saturday morning from the Custer Construction & Astro-Pak Co., 225 Arlington Heights Rd.

Burglars apparently entered the building by applying a wrench to the door knob and forcing the tumblers, police said.

Radio equipment valued at $5,000 was reported stolen from Wirtz Cartage, 2401 Pan-Am Ave. The theft, the second at the company in recent months, resulted in the loss of several two-way radios and microphones from the company trucks. Burglars gained entry by cutting a chain link fence and forcing the trucks vent windows.

Mrs. Francis Lukowitz, 371 Wellington Ave., reported an apparent attempted theft at her home Saturday. She said a woman and two men came to the home several times during the day and were apparently planning on breaking in. They returned several times during the day, she said, but left when she asked what they wanted.

Attend Conference

Three Elk Grove High School teachers attended the fall conference of the Illinois Business Education Association recently. The three are Sharon Cuculic, Helen Graves and Charles Harrington.

Homemaker Service 'A Godsend,' Mother Declares

by WANDALYN RICE

Scott Nailor had ridden his bike in back of the Eagles-on-Tonne Apartments in Elk Grove Village hundreds of times, and every once in a while he would fall when he ran into the loose gravel.

But one day early in October, the boy took a spill and landed wrong — with his leg tucked under him.

After a ride to the hospital in the fire department ambulance, Scott and his mother Gloria got the bad news. His leg was broken just below the hip and he was to spend the next eight weeks in a cast from the center of his chest to the tip of his toe.

For Mrs. Nailor the news was especially bad. She has a job at Hale Engineering Co. in the village and supports Scott and her other two boys. She couldn't afford too much time off work to care for her son.

"When you have a husband around, your job doesn't mean very much," she explained. "But, when you're the provider (as she is) it's important. I didn't know what I was going to do."

AT THAT POINT Mrs. Nailor's doctor referred her to the social service agency at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and they told her about the Homemaker Service provided by Child and Family Services of Chicago.

The service will provide a trained homemaker for any family which needs temporary help because of illness, injury or other emergency and charges on a sliding scale related to income. Mrs. Nailor made the necessary arrangements and just a few days after Scott came home from the hospital "Mrs. Smokey," Very Smogorzewski, came to work.

Since then she has taken care of Scott, helping with his homework and playing games with him. In addition, she cleans house and has the dinner ready when Mrs. Nailor gets home from work.

"It's really been a Godsend to me," Mrs. Nailor said. "I don't know what I would have done without her."

One thing she might have done, she added, was send Scott to stay with her married daughter, but that would have meant the tutor sent from Mark Hopkins School wouldn't have been available.

The Homemaker Service has been active in Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates and Streamwood since May, according to Charles Duffy, social worker for the agency.

SOMETIME NEXT year, assuming that money comes from other area United Funds, the service will be available throughout the Northwest suburbs. Duffy said the agency usually gets referrals from the hospital and other agencies when a family needs help.

In addition, he said the service is looking for more homemakers like Mrs. "Smokey." "They don't need any special training because we train them ourselves," he said.

Scott will only need Mrs. "Smokey" for another week, since he got his cast off Saturday. When she finishes the assignment she will have been with the family for nine weeks.

She and Scott, Mrs. Nailor said, "have gotten along very well. They've had their little scrapes, and she's had to be firm with him, but that's fine with me."

Scott is looking forward to getting back to school and back to the Cub Scout pack he joined while still confined to bed.

And his mother is relieved. "It seems like forever, since it happened," she said. Of course, she admits she will miss Mrs. Smokey. "Coming home and having dinner ready spoils you."

Henry Busse Services Are Tomorrow

Funeral services for Henry A. Busse, a veteran officer in the Wheeling Township Republican organization, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway.

Mr. Busse served for 24 years as a Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, succeeding the late Al Volz. He retired from active political life in 1962.

He died Saturday at Northwest Community Hospital.

"Henry Busse was the young Turk of his day," recalled Rep. Eugene Schlickman who said he first met Busse in 1956 when he and his wife moved to Arlington Heights from Washington, D.C.

"He was a very sensitive individual who never wanted to hurt anyone," Schlickman said.

BORN IN Elk Grove Township in 1897, Busse was a resident of Arlington Heights for 74 years. He was the owner and operator of Henry's Candy and Ice Cream Parlor.

Ethel Kolerus, an area chairman for the Wheeling Township Republicans, recalled Busse as a warm and personable individual.

"He was an outstanding man, not as aggressive as you need to be in politics today," she said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war. Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 80-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Baueles as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Barringer, 40, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Ill-

nois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller, a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Deah independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 600 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Pading, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

The Weather

Temperatures from around the nation:

The Market

Profit taking closed the door on a seven-day advance on the New York Stock Exchange. The day's widest swingers generally pointed lower and key market averages retreated. The Dow Jones Average had a net loss of 3.37 at 855.72. Of the 1,741 issues on the tape, 764 gained and 701 declined. Prices were mixed in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

New Tax Killed, Car Tax Is Next

One proposed tax ordinance was scuttled and another quickly substituted during a meeting of the Cook County Board yesterday as Board Pres. George W. Dunne continued his efforts to increase the county's revenue.

Dunne also strongly hinted at the possibility of a proposal for still another major tax ordinance before the week is out. During the board meeting Dunne first withdrew his proposed "service charge" ordinance and then proposed a new tax on the sale of all new cars, trucks and cycle-type vehicles in the county.

With the proposed service charge ordinance Dunne sought to collect about $10.5 million from all taxing bodies in the county as a fee for collecting the taxes for those bodies. Before the new constitution took effect, the county levied a flat one or one and one-quarter per cent charge on the taxing body and thereby received about $18 million.

When the controversial proposal came before the board at a hastily called meeting Nov. 24, a committee of the whole agreed to defer voting until a legal opinion on the ordinance could be obtained from the state's attorney's office.

Dunne said yesterday the legal opinion received was that the ordinance was unconstitutional.

THE BOARD president minutes later proposed a new ordinance, which he estimated would produce more than $2 million in revenue next year for the county if approved.

Dunne's latest proposal calls for a tax on the sale of every new motor vehicle sold in the county, to be paid by new car, truck and cycle-vehicle dealers weekly. A schedule of taxes includes a $5 tax on the sale of new two-wheel vehicles, including mini-bikes; $10 for four-wheel vehicles; and $15 for commercial vehicles. The tax will not apply to the sale of previously owned vehicles.

The proposal was sent to the board's finance committee for consideration. Committee chairman Jerome Huppert said a public hearing will be scheduled before the group makes a recommendation to the full board.

One of Dunne's aides said he expected the tax would apply to the sale of about 270,000 new car sales alone — producing $2.7 million for the county.

Two other tax ordinances proposed by Dunne, also aimed at feeding the county treasury, will be the subject of public hearings Thursday morning.

Beginning at 10 a.m., the finance committee will open hearings on a tax on mobile home owners and another on thoroughbred and harness racing.

THE MOBILE home tax, if approved, will levy a "privilege tax" of 15 cents per square foot on the owner of each mobile home in the county. Estimating an average of about 500 square feet per home, the tax would approximate $75 per year to the mobile home owner and would produce an estimated $766,000 for the county.

The "horse racing tax" is expected to net the county more than $1 million per year.

A license to conduct a horse racing meet would carry a $1,000 tax, with an additional $100 fee for each day the meet is conducted. Each paid admission to the track would be taxed 40 cents under the proposed ordinance.

A sliding scale, from one to four per

Look Before You Lick That Stamp

Be careful before you lick that stamp. The U. S. Post Office recently warned that only Post Office issued stamps will carry mail within the government postal system and other stamps, such as Christmas Seals and stamps issued by private post carriers will not be honored.

Stamps produced and issued by independent postal systems may not be used on matter deposited in U. S. mails, even if the piece of mail carries additional legal U. S. postage.

The Independent Postal System, part of which operates in the Northwest suburbs, recently issued private stamps for its own system in denomination of one to 50 cents per stamp. Mail with such stamps affixed will be returned to mailers with postage due charges added, according to post office officials.

Seek State Help In Mosquito Case

A special committee of the Palatine Environmental Control Board (ECB) has been formed to generate the interest of the Illinois Pollution Control Board in the current legal suit of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District against Palatine and Schaumburg.

The three-man committee, composed of board members Mrs. Sue Martin, Wayne Browning and Chuck Jeffries, will work with the village board and attorney.

The ECB suggested they start a petition proposing a hearing with the state pollution board for a formal decision on whether ordinances of Palatine and Schaumburg limiting the activities of the abatement district are valid.

The committee will contact various anti-pollution groups in the area and state to endorse the petition seeking a hearing from the state board.

The abatement district suit, filed in August, seeks a declaratory judgment from the Cook County Court to permit the spraying of Malathion, a chemical insecticide, within the corporate limits of the two towns. Palatine and Schaumburg's ordinances prohibit the spraying, which the abatement district claims interferes with the operation of their program.

HOWEVER, PALATINE Environmental Health Director Richard Dawson suggested to the ECB a decision from the state pollution control board, which has expertise in the area of insecticides, might be more helpful in resolving the suit.

Although attorneys for Palatine and Schaumburg filed motions to dismiss the suit of the abatement district, Judge Edward J. Egan denied the motions. This makes it necessary for village officials to take the case to trial to prove the validity of their ordinances.

Palatine and Schaumburg passed their ordinances because local officials contended the spraying operations are not effective methods of permanent mosquito abatement and have contributed to problems of water and air pollution.

WATCH THAT FORM! A youngster demonstrates his skating ability under the watchful eye of two judges at the 1972 Upper Great Lakes Regional Figure Skating Championships. The competition was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex Ice Arena. Participants, ranging in age from 8 to 25, came from Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin. Three winners in each of 11 divisions will go on to compete in the Mid-western Championships Dec. 16-18 in Weyzata, Minn.

Plan Suit To Get CCPA Recognized

by DOUG RAY

The Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA), representing 16 Rolling Meadows policemen, will file suit in Cook County Circuit Court this week in an attempt to force the City of Rolling Meadows to negotiate with the chapter's local collective bargaining agency.

Sgt. John Flood, CCPA president, told the Herald yesterday, "Our attorney has been directed to prepare a suit asking the city to bargain in good faith with local CCPA representatives."

Flood made the announcement after a Sunday meeting with the Rolling Meadows membership, and said the CCPA will intensify its effort to gain recognition for the patrolmen.

"We will use and choose any efforts necessary to make the aldermen and Mayor (Roland Meyer) change their irresponsible attitudes," Flood said.

Rolling Meadows officials refused to recognize the local CCPA chapter when it was formed in March. Present state statutes allow a municipality to decide whether to recognize a bargaining group for city employees.

Meyer said yesterday, in reply to Flood's comments, he "was waiting for them to file suit." He said he expects Flood "to make a lot of noise to show the men (Rolling Meadows CCPA membership) they are getting something for their money."

MEYER SAID the CCPA may not have sufficient funds needed to fight the city in a lawsuit. "If he has that kind of money he should have defended those men in Waukegan," Meyer said.

He was referring to a strike of CCPA policemen in Waukegan in 1970, which resulted in their firing by Waukegan officials. The Lake County courts originally, and higher courts in subsequent appeals, have upheld the policemen's dismissal.

Flood, who said he "won't be gaveled down by the mayor," plans to attend city council meetings to air the patrolmen's grievances.

"We were taking our time in Rolling Meadows," Flood said, awaiting the outcome of legislative bills which would force municipalities to negotiate with public employee organizations. But the bills are bogged down in legislative committee and another course of action is being taken, he said.

FLOOD SAID the Rolling Meadows patrolmen who belong to the CCPA "are behind the suit," in which the CCPA attorney will subpoena Rolling Meadows officials to testify.

He said Meyer and other city officials have used "psychology to try to push the patrolmen out" of Rolling Meadows. Flood suggested that he might organize pickets at city hall to demonstrate the CCPA's effort to gain recognition in Rolling Meadows.

Sixteen of the city's 20 patrolmen voted last March to join the CCPA for professional representation on economic and job conditions but were not recognized by the city council. The CCPA has been silent on the situation since May, when a final appearance before city officials failed to gain the sought recognition.

After the incident, in which CCPA vice president Gene Wolf was not allowed to speak to city officials, a number of grievances were released including an alleged standard salary schedule and an alleged breach of the patrolmen's contracts. The patrolmen said they were hired with the understanding they could reach the top of the salary schedule within three years but it was later changed to five years.

CCPA officials had hoped for passage of public employee bills in the state legislature during the past session, but the bills were returned to committee. Flood contends that two of the bills, House Bill No. 1 and Senate Bill No. 1112, have a chance of passage this spring.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1 "specifically grants public employee labor organizations the right to bargain collectively with public employers," according to a legislative digest. The senate bill asks for creation of an Illinois Public Employment Relations Act to set up standards for collective bargaining.

The CCPA recently challenged Harvey, Ill. officials who refused to recognize members of the CCPA there. The CCPA in Harvey was successful, Flood said, but the court decision requiring recognition of the Harvey CCPA, is being appealed.

Flood said the CCPA represents more than 1,200 policemen in 25 northern Illinois municipalities. Patrolmen in some Northwest suburban communities are represented by the CCPA including those in Palatine, Des Plaines and Wheeling. The CCPA was formed in 1969.

Tree Lights Catch On Fire

A new string of Christmas tree lights nearly brought tragedy to a Hoffman Estates couple Saturday when the lights caught fire.

The fire started in the kitchen in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lovejoy, 136 Patriot Ln., Hoffman Estates, where the lights were being tested.

"The fire started so quickly, my clothing caught on fire," Mrs. Lovejoy said. She said the lights were laying on the kitchen table when they burst and started to burn.

She had bought the lights recently from W. T. Grant's in Hoffman Estates. Mrs. Lovejoy said the flaming strand of lights was thrown on the back porch and some damage occurred there before the fire was extinguished.

THE MANAGER OF the Grant's store, Ken Dackre, said he had received no other complaints about lights similar to those purchased by Mrs. Lovejoy.

The lights, distributed by Grant's under the brand name "Grant-Lite," carried an Underwriter's Laboratory seal of approval, Mrs. Lovejoy said.

A spokesman in Grant's regional office said he had no knowledge of any other mishap occurring with those lights. An investigation is underway, he added.

Dackre said plans are also under way to take care of the damage to the Lovejoy home.

Mrs. Lovejoy said a fire commissioner planned to examine the house. "If the lights had been on a tree, the whole house could have gone up," she said.

The Lovejoy's managed to extinguish the fire without the assistance of the fire department.

"The fire should serve as a reminder to people to be careful handling Christmas decorations and lighting equipment," Mrs. Lovejoy said.

District Plans Curriculum Updating

by BETSY BROOKER

Updating curriculum is the major goal of the High School Dist. 211 curriculum committee this year.

In the past, the committee has concentrated on introducing new programs to the district. However, this year Supt. Richard Kolze has directed the committee to "evaluate, revise and reform existing programs. We need to delete courses no longer relevant to student life and long range needs."

The committee has spent three months studying district curriculum and plans to recommend specific changes in February. If the school board approves the changes, they will be incorporated into the budget. A preliminary draft of the budget is compiled in March. In spring, the committee will decide how to implement the changes.

THE COMMITTEE is composed of the four district principals, curriculum department chairmen, Assistant Supt. Keith Shelton and Associate Supt. Bruce Allergott.

In a report to the board Thursday, Allergott said one major consideration is a proposal to permit average students to choose between taking earth science or biology. The committee also is studying feasibility of offering a horticulture course now taught at Conant High School in other district schools. Teachers have proposed revamping the district's physics program to include more independent study.

In music, the committee is studying a proposal to put the course at full credit rather than half and to go to letter grades. The district may also expand its string instrument program.

The district's math program may be upgraded because of the growing math skills of incoming freshmen, according to Allergott. "Almost half of the freshmen are coming in with algebra skills now. We may have to offer calculus to the seniors."

Teacher Pay Hikes Near

Teachers in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 will receive average 6 per cent raises in their Dec. 16 paychecks. The raises were approved the first week of November.

At last week's meeting board of education members accepted the advice of Frank Hines, board attorney, to implement the raises beginning Nov. 14, without granting retroactive pay.

Hines was consulted after Phase II of the wage and price freeze stipulated a 5.5 per cent raise limitation.

He advised the board contract raises effective prior to Nov. 13 may be implemented on Nov. 14 without regard to 5.5 per cent limit. He added that no retroactive pay should be allowed.

nors." In addition, the committee is considering revamping the district's general math course.

"CREATIVE Composition" may be opened to average students in the future. And the district may expand its debate program. If physical facilities are available, a photography course also may be introduced.

Revamping of the foreign language program may include introduction of German I for juniors and seniors.

Band Honors 81 Year Old 'Avid Fan'

by KAREN RUGEN

He was thunderstruck as he opened the door on more than 75 smiling faces of the Forest View High School Marching Band.

As band member Barbara Jordan handed him the plaque dubbing him "our most avid fan," he smiled shyly. And he kept right on smiling, an embarrassed grin, as more than 75 voices called him "a jolly good fellow."

Since September, 81-year-old Christian Lay has been applauding the band during practices and football game half-time performances. Yesterday he got the applause. And he didn't know what to say.

"Were you surprised?" band director Fred Elliot asked the gentleman. "Yah," he answered looking slowly around the quiet band room.

"Did you know you were going to get this," Elliot asked. "Nah," he shook his head, then whispered something to the band director.

"Mr. Lay tells me he isn't much of a public speaker," Elliot told his band. "He wants me to convey to you his thanks for the thoughtfulness of this plaque. He has enjoyed all your rehearsals."

As he left the band room, Lay talked about how, since he moved to the suburbs three months ago, he has almost every day walked across the lawn of the Arlington Heights high school to hear the kids practice.

"I used to even get up from my dinner to go hear," the retired baker said. "I used to be in a band — a drum and bugle corps. I quit two years ago. But I still belong to the Chicago Master Bakers Drum and Bugle Corps."

Slowly, he walked through the high school glass doors and toward his condominium apartment across Goebbert Road, clutching the plaque. He paused and said, "I think they're good. They go to be the best."

Suburbanites 'Escape'!

A 'Barefoot' Cruise In Luxury Comfort

by CLARE WRIGHT

Tranquility is a West Indies cruise on a three-masted schooner called the Sundowner.

I decided that after talking with two enthusiastic Arlington Heights couples lucky enough (or smart enough!) to take Sundowner vacations last winter and really "get away from it all."

"It's the kind of perfect 'escape' you daydream about," declares Arlene Ahlman.

She and husband, Ron, 1030 N. Gibbons, boarded the 143-foot, air conditioned luxury schooner (a former Nova Scotia fishing boat) last February on a week-long Caribbean getaway they'll never forget.

Lowell and Roberta Oleson, 111 N. Windsor Drive, who took their Sundowner cruise during another week, feel the same way.

What's life like on the Sundowner — cruising in the "worlds-away" undiscovered paradise of the Grenadines?

According to the Ahlmans and Olesons, it's a "Vanderbilt" type barefoot cruise in total comfort — with a small (8 to 11 couples), congenial group of "escapes from the world" just like you.

It's spending lazy, wonderful days in warm sun and tropical waters — swimming in quiet coves — snorkeling and discovering magnificent coral reefs, tiny colorful fish and exotic sea creatures.

It's exploring tiny, unspoiled islands — some completely uninhabited, some with small native villages — with little activity except for sea birds diving for fish, or coconut palms waving gently in the wind.

It's swimming and sunning to your heart's content all day — then sitting down to a leisurely, graciously served candlelight dinner with exotic West Indies cuisine and French wine in pewter goblets.

Dress for dinner?

"Sure!" says Roberta Oleson — "But we were still barefoot!"

The food was excellent, reports the Arlington Heights cruisers.

"There was fresh caught lobster and paella, char-broiled filet mignon . . . and some marvelous native soups," commented Mrs. Oleson.

Three of her favorites were the calalou, pumpkin and green turtle soups.

Surely the native chef must have taken lessons at some elegant French restaurant!

After dinner there was coffee and liqueur — balmy Grenadine nights — and a wonderful peacefulness the Ahlmans and Olesons suspect they'll never again experience in quite the same way.

Mrs. Ahlman describes their carpeted, air-conditioned stateroom as luxurious and spacious.

"All eight of the staterooms have private enclosed lavatories and toilets."

On their Sundowner cruises, the Ahlmans and Olesons sailed the teal-blue Caribbean from Grenada (a rugged green jewel) and island-hopped to the dreamy isles of Carriacou, Petit Martinique, Petit St. Vincent, Palm Island and Tabago Cays.

"Our favorite was Tabago Cays," says Mrs. Oleson as she recalled an idyllic "far, far away from the world" afternoon they spent there.

"Just us . . . and the sand crabs . . . that's all." Sundowner had 17 special club cruises scheduled for the current season (which began Nov. 19).

According to Lois Homan, who works with reservations in the Chicago Heights office, all 17 cruises were solidly booked before the season even started.

"We added two more — and now one of those is filled!"

The latest cruise to be added to the schedule, leaving Martinique May 13, is — as of this moment — open.

Of course, you can always put your own private party together and charter Sundowner during the summer months.

On one of these cruises you can sail where you wish — when you wish.

See your travel agent (Roberta Fisher Travel Agency, 120 W. Eastman, Arlington Heights, booked the Ahlmans' trip) — or call Sundowner Club Cruises, 300 East Joe Orr Rd., Chicago Heights, Ill., 568-6400.

SUNDOWNER, a heritage-steeped Nova Scotia fishing boat, is now a luxury Caribbean cruise ship. The 143-foot, three-masted motor schooner is a familiar sight among the Windward islands between Grenada and Martinique. Recent passengers were Arlington Heights residents, Lowell and Roberta Oleson, and Ron and Arlene Ahlman.

So your Great-Aunt Hattie is finally getting that Caribbean cruise she saved and scrimped for all those 40 years. Ho-ho-ho!

Now REALLY? . . . don't you think a cruise could be a lot more fun NOW than in 1932?

Did you ever think of getting a bank loan — or checking the airlines about their famous fly-now-pay-later plans?

It might be easier than you think to chuck the snow and slush this winter and recharge your batteries on a wonderful fin-in-the-sun cruise. Bet your doctor will be all for you going too!

Here are a few goodies to mull over:

HOMERIC — the "fun ship" has a couple of holiday cruises to the Caribbean that could give you a wonderful new lease on life. Then starting Jan. 8, the luxury ship has regular seven-day winter cruises to the Bahamas — priced as low as $195.

FRENCH LINE AND AIR FRANCE have a glamorous sea/air Christmas vacation package — 18 days long. Leave New York Sat., Dec. 18, on an Air France 747, spend four days in Paris, then board the S.S. France for stops at Dakar, Agadir (Morocco), Santa Cruz and Lisbon.

COSTA LINE'S CARLA C., an Italian floating resort, has seven-day Caribbean cruises sailing every Saturday from San Juan, Puerto Rico. Fly directly to San Juan from O'Hare to board the ship. Ports of call are Dutch Curacao, La Guaira, Trinidad, Martinique and St. Thomas. Rates, including airfare, begin at $359 per person and range up to $710, depending on room accommodations.

NIEUW AMSTERDAM, Holland America's "floating palace," has 10-day West Indies cruises leaving Port Everglades, Florida, for Aruba, La Guaira (South America), Isla de Margarita, Martinique and St. Thomas. From $250.

MIAMI DEPARTURE. Eleven cruise liners are scheduled to make regular trips out of the Florida vacation port this winter. This includes two new ships — Royal Caribbean's Nordic Prince and Norwegian Caribbean's Southward. The Nordic Prince is offering 14-day cruises sailing every other Saturday to Nassau, St. Maarten, Martinique, Trinidad, Grenada, Barbados, Antigua, San Juan and St. Thomas. Prices start at $400.

The Southward sails on 14-day cruises to St. Thomas, Antigua, Martinique, St. Lucia, Barbados, Grenada, La Guaira, Curacao and San Juan. Fares start at $450.

QUEEN ELIZABETH 2 will cruise from Port Everglades Dec. 21 (for 11 days) and Jan. 31 (ten days).

SPANISH MAIN '72. German Atlantic Line's TS Hamburg, has a Port Everglades sailing Jan. 22, with these ports of call — Haiti . . . Colombia . . . Cristobal . . . Balboa . . . Acapulco . . . Los Angeles. From $685.

CUNARD ADVENTURER. Beginning Dec. 11, this glamorous new ship will make 22 fly-cruises. Jet to San Juan from O'Hare on a Saturday. Spend the afternoon and evening exploring fascinating San Juan — then sail at midnight for South America, Grenada, Martinique, Antigua, St. Thomas and back to San Juan for your return jet trip home. Rates for this eight day-seven night cruise, including round-trip air fare, begin at $379 per person.

COMING UP THIS SPRING — German Atlantic Line, along with KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, will have a 26-day sea-air "Spring Cruise to North Africa, the Mediterranean and Black Sea," departing from Port Everglades April 10, on the S.S. Henseatic. Ports of call — Fun-chal, Casablanca, Genoa, Valletta, Istanbul, Yalta, Odessa, Constanta, Piraeus (for Athens) and Genoa.

Or, you can take a three, four or seven-day Sun Line Odyssey cruise to the Greek Islands and Turkey, starting in March.

How does a 40-day cruise strike you? Holland America offers its "Spring Mediterranean Explorers' Cruise" on the newly-rebuilt S.S. Statendam, departing from New York April 29.

Holland America, in cooperation with Pan Am, also has a program of 25 "Cruise and Fly Vacations," beginning Jan. 18 — with some fascinating ports of call.

Your travel agent can give you more details on any one of these cruises — and show you brochures on others too.

TWA Invites Fido, Tabby To Join Family Vacation

NEW YORK — Trans World Airlines makes it easy for a traveler to take his pet along.

TWA, which has been flying pets for more than 25 years, offers four sizes of pet jet set kennels for sale, at cost.

TWA allows two small pets to be carried in the cabin on a first-come, first-served basis.

All of TWA's pet regulations conform to ASPCA guidelines. Here are some tips for pet travel:

* Advise TWA as early as possible that you plan to travel with a pet.

* Make sure you have a proper carrying case. Even though Fido may be allowed in the cabin, he still must be carried on and off the plane in a case.

* Be sure the carrying case is large enough. TWA recommends a case large enough to allow the animal to stand up, turn around and lie down.

* The animal should be familiar with the case before the trip.

* If traveling overseas, be sure to check local regulations. For instance, Great Britain requires a six-month quarantine of all entering animals.

TWA regulations for carrying animals in the cabin are:

* One animal allowed in first class, one in coach per flight, on a first-come, first-served basis.

* The animal must be carried on and off the aircraft in a container.

* The animal may be taken out of the container, but must be held by the passenger.

* The container must fit under the passenger's seat.

* The animal must be returned to its container during passenger service.

Animals too large to be carried in the cabin will be carried in a heated, pressurized cargo compartment.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has blocked a plan to require election of judges under political party labels, opening the door to legislation providing for non-partisan elections.

The governor vetoed legislation, passed in the closing hours of the General Assembly's autumn session, which provided that judicial candidates be nominated by political parties and run under their banners. The bills were opposed by bar associations and the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Pending in the legislature is opposing legislation which would provide for all judicial candidates to be listed on the ballot without party labels in the primary election. The two top vote-getters, under that legislation, would then run for the office in the general election.

"By drawing judicial candidates into the party primary state-making and party primary election process," Ogilvie

Coalition spokesmen said they enlisted more volunteer workers in the last Wheeling Township election than the regular Democratic organization. The group plans a cooperative effort with the Walker organization.

Elrod Hails High Court Drunk Driver Decision

Sheriff Richard J. Elrod has hailed a recent Illinois Supreme Court decision concerning a drunk driving case as a "far reaching and significant contribution to effective and impartial law enforcement."

The Supreme Court Wednesday ruled police could use audio-visual cameras and equipment to tape the results of coordination-performance tests in drunk driving cases. The ruling stemmed out of an arrest by Cook County Sheriff's police Dec. 10, 1968. Police arrested a motorist in the unincorporated area for drunk driving, and at the sheriff's police station recorded on tape the defendant's actions and voice during certain coordination tests.

The defendant was found guilty, and later appealed the case on the grounds he had not consented to be filmed and that his constitutional rights were violated. The Supreme Court ruled these rights had not been violated, and the defendant was aware of the fact a recording was being made.

Elrod said the high court ruling means every police department throughout the state can now use audio-visual equipment to aid the court's determination of guilty or not guilty in drunk driving cases.

"This will be a tremendous aid to effective and impartial law enforcement," Elrod said. "The courts will now be able to view and hear first hand the reactions and coordination of drunk driving defendants. This is much more effective and impartial than simply relying on the arresting officers observations. I think it would be a tremendous deterrent to Elrod said his office has been using audio-visual camera equipment for approximately three years, including several other drunk driving cases. However, this is the first one that has ever been tested in a higher court, he added.

Elrod said he hopes to set up audio-visual equipment in all three of the sheriff's police stations — Homewood, Bedford Park and Niles — before the Christmas holidays to test drunk driving defendants.

"This will be a test program to determine if it would be economically feasible to tape defendants in all such drunk driving arrests," Elrod said.

Christmas Stocking Gifts To Sew

by JOANE SCHRIEBER

Christmas stockings are a favorite gift-to-sew. They are quick and uncomplicated, they don't go out of style, they last practically forever, and they are always appreciated.

There's still plenty of time to stitch up a batch of felt stockings. And, in case you're tired of the strictly traditional approach, here are some ingenious new ideas from Necchi Sewing Machines of Italy, all designed to be made with the fancy embroidery stitches on your sewing machine, plus felt appliques, buttons, sequins and other whimsies.

Each stocking is made of two pieces of 12-inch-square felt, cut to a stocking shape about 7 inches along the foot and 12 inches from heel to boot top. Cut them good and wide, so they'll hold plenty.

Here are a few decorating suggestions for your basic stockings. Remember to do the fancy work before sewing the two sides together.

— MAKE GIFT BOXES of small squares of colored felt, using your zigzag stitch to simulate the ribbons and secure the boxes.

DECORATIVE MACHINE embroidery, bright felt squares, buttons and trimmings make these Christmas stockings. They can be copied for gifts and mantelpiece decorations. Designs are by Necchi.

— Write "Merry Christmas" with machine embroidery stitches; accent with felt balloons secured in the center by a decorative stitch. Use gold buttonhole thread for the balloon strings.

— Silver paper or aluminum foil backed with Pellon can be stitched just like fabric. Stitch each letter of "Merry Christmas" on one of 14 stars, scatter over a blue felt stocking and secure with a loose satin stitch.

— Show off your machine's talents with a stocking decorated entirely in row after row of fancy stitching in different colors and designs.

— TAKE A VARIATION on the basic theme and make a lady's boot. Cut the felt to shape, applique a contrasting heel section and add a high-button trim with real machine-made buttonholes and bright buttons.

— Embroider green holly leaves with red berries on a white felt stocking; accent with a decorative outline stitch.

— Applique a snowman, complete with scarf, boots, cap and broom.

— Make a stylized Christmas tree of green felt branches, and a center trunk of stitched-on green braid.

If there's a new baby on your Christmas list, make his own special Christmas stocking as a present for his first Christmas. Newlyweds will appreciate a matched pair of stockings. Tiny Christmas stockings can decorate the tree or a Christmas wreath, and you could even stuff a stocking with kapok for a Christmas pillow.

Possibilities are endless — so pick up a supply of felt squares, some trimming materials, and turn on your imagination to stitch up the stockings.

Robin Scherer

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Prasnkar, 10 S. Salem, Arlington Heights, announce the engagement of their daughter Michele Ann to John B. Keehan, son of the William E. Keehans, 1405 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights. The couple plans a June 10, 1972 wedding.

Both young people are graduates of the University of Dayton. Michele, also a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School, is employed by Norwesco Head Start, Arlington Heights. Her fiancé is studying dentistry at Loyola University Dental School, Maywood.

A June 3, 1972 wedding is planned by Robin Kaye Scherer and James William Jefford, son of the William H. Jeffords of Decatur. Announcing the couple's engagement and approaching marriage are Miss Scherer's parents, the Robert H. Scherers, 2 Shelley Road, Elk Grove Village.

Robin, a '70 graduate of Hersey High, studied at Eastern Illinois University and now attends Harper College. She is also employed at West Point Pepperell, Elk Grove. James will graduate from Eastern in the spring.

Next On The Agenda

JEWISH WOMEN

Speaker at Thursday's meeting of Northwest Suburban Unit of National Council of Jewish Women will be Mrs. Dee Keller who teaches hatha yoga, the system of physical discipline, at the Evanston YMCA. "Hatha yoga is necessary before one can meditate successfully," claims Mrs. Keller.

Members and guests have been invited to try the postures and those wishing to participate have been urged to wear loose, comfortable clothing.

Hostess for the evening will be Mrs. Frank Gold, 21 E. Burr Oak, Arlington Heights. The business meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. with the program following.

The Council is open to all women interested in education and social and political action. For further information readers may call Mrs. Rich Heinrich, 341-2085.

EXTRA CARE CLUB

Extra Care Club, an organization for wives of flight officers employed by United Air Lines, will hold a luncheon Saturday at Floyd's Restaurant, Carpentersville.

The luncheon will be served at 1, followed by a program on handwriting analysis by Mrs. Harold Jenkins. Members will also be bringing cookies for a cookie exchange.

Mrs. L. Carter, 695-0479, is taking reservations.

Santa To Visit
The Newcomers

Santa Claus is coming to the annual Christmas dinner of the Palatine Newcomers Thursday at the Arlington Heights Elks Club. Members are asked to bring a $1 gift exchange to the meeting. Cocktails will be served at 7 p.m. with dinner at 8.

Highlight of the evening will be entertainment by the "Sing Out Palatine" choral group whose members are chosen from the local high schools. These students are members of the national "Up With People" group whose purpose is to sing songs to make one think about his world, according to the director.

For more information area newcomers may contact Mrs. Brad Ayers, 359-6989.

English Boutique
Tomorrow Night

An unusual English boutique will be held tomorrow evening by the Daughters of the British Empire, Des Plaines Chapter, at St. Martin's Episcopal Church, Thacker and Margaret, Des Plaines at 6 p.m.

The boutique will feature an English booth where antiques will be displayed. Gene Murphy will greet guests, dressed in an authentic Beefeater suit which was flown in from England for the bazaar.

Another booth will have homemade baked goods for sale and as refreshments including mincemeat pie, tea and other English foods.

Brass rubbings, silk screens and other arts and crafts will be offered for sale by the members, and a white elephant booth will be included.

Proceeds will go to Brookfield Home for the Elderly, according to Mrs. Yvonne O'Tolle, chairman, Des Plaines. Members of the organization are from the northwest suburbs. Those interested in further information can contact Mrs. Jill Thornton, 824-1006.

Santa's Helpers
Visit Vets Ward

President Mrs. William Wilcox and Mrs. Francis Kruchten of Mount Prospect Woman's Club played Santa Claus a little early and last week delivered packs of gifts to the veteran's ward of the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

The gifts included stamped Christmas cards, scuffies, afghans, shirts, jackets, trousers, magazines and playing cards.

The gifts were collected through the Veteran's Service Department which is meeting Monday, Dec. 13, for dessert luncheon and to sew items for the Veteran's Hospital. The group will be meeting in the Mount Prospect Community Center and all area women interested in helping are invited. Helpers may call Mrs. Leslie Parker, chairman, at 392-5963, or her co-chairman, Mrs. Kruchten, 392-4942.

The Round Robin bridge of the club will meet in the Community Center at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 14. All proceeds of the bridge are used for club philanthropies.

No More 'Boys Only'
In Public Education

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has signed two bills passed by the Illinois General Assembly this fall that would prohibit sex discrimination in admission to public schools.

One bill applies to Chicago public schools and the other to all other public schools in Illinois. Under the new legislation schools may not exclude any student for reason of sex.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, D-3rd, was one of the most active lawmakers on behalf of this legislation.

Chinese Christmas Luncheon

A Chinese Christmas at Chin's in Arlington Heights has been planned for Arlington Heights Nurses Club.

The luncheon, to be held Thursday at 1 p.m., will be followed by a book review of "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee."

Reviewing will be Rev. Herbert Duenow. All registered nurses living or working in the area are invited to the luncheon and those wishing further information may call Mrs. James Bailey, 253-0161.

The club maintains a lending closet of medical and sick room supplies which are loaned free of charge to Arlington Heights residents. Closet chairman for December is Mrs. Raymond Shields, 392-3087. Mrs. Nicholas Raino, 394-1478, is in charge of crutches and Mrs. Richard Degener, 392-9016, vaporizers.

The club's cookbook, "Tender Loving Cookbook," goes on sale today from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights. Copies may also be purchased at any time from the White Hen Pantry on S. Arlington Heights Road.

Christmas Musical At St. Edna's

St. Edna's Women's Club will present a musical Christmas play, "Twas The Night Before," Wednesday, under the direction of Mrs. Pat Hutcherson, assisted by Mrs. William Gasser. Featured in the production are 150 elementary school children, all of whom are voluntary participants in what has become a Christmas tradition in St. Edna's Parish.

"Twas The Night Before" is a new, one-act play written expressly for this program by Mrs. Hutcherson, who has written and directed all of St. Edna's musical productions over the past seven years. The musical marks Mrs. Hutcherson's first venture into the field of children's plays. Focusing on the events of that very first night before Christmas, the play delivers the message: "Live every day like Christmas Day," according to Mrs. Hutcherson.

Members, parents, and friends are invited to the performance which will begin at 8 p.m. in the parish hall, 2525 N. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: With winter and its attendant colds, I'm wondering if it isn't important to add a disinfectant to the laundry to kill any germs. I especially worry when I use the laundromat. And what about cold water soap washes? Are the germs all wiped out in this method? —Mildred H.

It takes 3-5 minutes at 212 degrees or 20 minutes at a water temperature of 140 degrees to kill the common staphylococci germs. As it isn't possible to control temperatures and washing times so precisely, it's a good idea to use a disinfectant. Researchers recommend chlorine bleach for fabrics that can take it or disinfectants on the order of pine oil.

Dear Dorothy: Don't know why anyone should have trouble storing onions so they won't spoil. They freeze beautifully. I peel and chop some fine for frying and cut others in larger pieces for other dishes, then place them in plastic freezer bags. The needed amount can be easily slipped out. —Mrs. Josephine Solomon.

There's one caution here — be sure the container holding the onions is not porous. Certain plastic containers do a good job, but the onion odor might go through even a double plastic bag. Once stored rose potpourri in a double plastic bag designed for freezing — the drawer soon developed a beautiful fragrance. Most people would have a fit if they put frozen onion in the freezer and the odor penetrated to other things.

Dear Dorothy: I notice that when I add a teaspoon of lemon juice to the water when cooking cauliflower it seems to help keep the vegetable nice and white —

'Crafters' Plan
Sale On Thursday

A Holiday Treasures and Christmas Craft Sale will be held Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 943 Wilshire, Elk Grove Village.

Three area craftsmen are including handmade Christmas ornaments, artificial Christmas flower arrangements, wall plaques, owls, frogs, turtles, mushroom, statues, tiny animals for terrariums, candle holders, aprons and smile pillows in the sale articles.

Coffee and 'goodies' will be served to browsers and shoppers.

CHRISTMAS IS A TIME for giving. Mark Sager and Michelle and Renee Hoagland are following the spirit of the season and choosing the name of one of 2,300 children from the Northwest Opportunity Center, Rolling Meadows, to whom they will be sending a Christmas gift. Clothing or toys (ranging in price from $2-$5) will be delivered to the children, who are members of Spanish-speaking migrant workers, Dec. 17, by the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines, sponsors of the "Choose a Child — Buy a Smile For Christmas" project. Interested persons may contact Mrs. Frank Sager, 298-4791, for further information.

The Doctor Says

'Pink Water' Can Often Be 'Cure'

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — I have been reading about the B vitamins and how effective they are in promoting a sound nervous system. I decided to try the B complex, as I have been under considerable pressure in my work.

It may be my imagination, but I found they seemed to help calm my nerves some. As I do not want to even take a mild tranquilizer, I was wondering whether B vitamins really do any good or harm if taken for a long period of time. How about the one-day supplementary vitamins that contain all vitamins and minerals and also include the B complex? Would it be harmful taking the B complex vitamin I already have plus the one-day? I would like some information on this before I decide to continue to take any kind of vitamin.

Dear Reader — If a person is eating a balanced diet with all the essential food components, he is not likely to need supplemental vitamins. With so many refined foods, such as sugar, that contain no appreciable amounts of vitamins or minerals, and the need many people have to diet, especially if they are not active physically, it is easy to have a deficient diet. Older people, who live alone, are prone to eat an inadequate diet. Under these circumstances, added vitamins are helpful.

Unless taken in really huge doses, there is no evidence that taking vitamins, even if you don't need them, will cause any harm — except vitamins A and D. All other vitamins you take in usual excess amounts are simply eliminated by the body. Thus, taking the B complex vitamins you already have plus a one-day brand won't hurt you but it won't help you either.

In plain language, take one or the other or you will just be throwing your money away.

Now you say you feel better after taking vitamins. That is fine, but don't be so sure it is the vitamins. Doctors have known for centuries that giving a patient any medicine, even pink water, often makes a patient feel better. This is especially true if the patient has nervous symptoms. The confidence the patient has in the pink water and the doctor lifts his spirits out of the doldrums, he regains his energies and feels better. A lot of feeling bad is related to one's emotional outlook. A person can truly be "worried sick."

You might be shocked that a doctor would give his patient pink water. Fifty years ago, without antibiotics, and many of the medicines we have today, the doctor had little else to give some of his patients except hope, and hope came in a little bottle full of pink water. Phenobarb was the only tranquilizer he had and when pink water worked, it was wonderful. Moreover, it didn't cause any complications, like dependence upon drugs. Pink water, spiritual music, health spas, copper bracelets and other devices have brought relief to millions. The human mind is a strange and wonderful mechanism.

The Lighter Side
by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because of the dissension that has arisen over Phase II of President Nixon's economic program, many people probably are wondering how the Pay Board operates.

Being curious about that myself, I made arrangements to visit their ballroom and watch the board members in action.

The guide ushered me into a large room, the floor of which had been painted with white stripes running in tangents and random angles.

"Those are guidelines," the guide cautioned. "Be careful not to step over them."

In the center of the room was a rectangular green plywood table with a net across the center. The board members, each holding a small wooden paddle, were arrayed on either side of the table.

ON THE WALL was a rack containing a number of large and small issues, some lively, some dead, some hairy.

The board chairman went to the rack and selected a hairy issue marked "retroactive increases." He tossed it onto the table and the members began batting it back and forth.

"What are they doing?" I whispered.

"They're fighting inflation," the guide replied.

"It looks like ping-pong to me," I said.

The guide became surly. "If it works in diplomacy, it ought to do as well in economics," he snapped.

At that point, someone opened the door and lobbed a small brownish object into the room. The members grabbed it up and began gingerly passing it around from one to another.

"What's that?" I inquired.

"It's a hot potato," the guide explained. "The board has had a lot of those thrown at it."

WHILE THE potato was still in motion, some of the members went off in one corner of the room by themselves. They took along a leather spheroid, which they were kicking with vigor and elan.

"Who are they?" I asked.

"Those are the labor members," the guide reported.

"And is that thing they're kicking by any chance a political football?"

"You're catching on," the guide said.

"Why are the labor members permitted to play political football while the other members are batting hairy issues back and forth and juggling hot potatoes?"

"That's the only way to keep them from picking up their marbles and going home."

MONEY TALKS
Needed: A Method to Make Savings Automatic

By Donald F. Morton, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

What most of us seem to need is some way of enforcing savings upon ourselves. Unless the savings habit becomes an automatic thing, no great amount will ever be accumulated.

A widely read columnist made this point in a recently syndicated article in which she referred to an automatic payroll deduction for savings which was stopped when her husband changed jobs.

He thereby cut off a way of automatic saving that they had used for years. She pledged at the time: "Out of every paycheck that goes into our joint household account, I'll earmark exactly the amount we have been previously putting into savings... You can trust me to do this."

She confessed she proceeded almost immediately to forget the whole thing. The extra money they had been saving so painlessly was not added to the account; its total was about the same as it was before her husband's paycheck deductions stopped. And they don't know where the money went.

"We haven't done or bought anything unusual; our cost of living hasn't been advanced sharply upward. I can only admit that the money has been frittered away in dribs and drabs."

The heart of the program's value, she points out, "lies in the discipline of savings which a payroll savings program imposes on us — in the 'magic' way a few dollars saved regularly every week becomes hundreds of dollars saved over a year."

The vast majority of American families desire to save, but many find it a difficult goal to achieve. A study conducted by a survey research center revealed that only one-third of the families felt they had a regular savings plan.

Of those who were participating in the payroll savings plan for Treasury Department bonds, the survey found that 97% expressed unequal approval of the plan as a systematic method of putting funds aside.

Some business and industrial firms cooperate with local financial institutions by authorizing savings programs set up by payroll deduction.

As with the Treasury bond program, employees express enthusiasm for a method that makes them save easily and regularly. Employers too are finding benefits from savings programs, in terms of less absenteeism and personnel turnover, fewer accidents and greater employee responsibility.

Where systematic saving through payroll deduction is not possible, the average person needs some other method that will provide a pattern of saving and the inducement to carry it through.

To Students Northwest Education Cooperative

Management Export Hired

by BETSY BROOKER
A management consultant has been hired by the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) to study the organization structure of the school district cooperative.

The NEC governing board voted Saturday to hire Oscar Chute, dean of academic affairs at the National College of Education in Evanston, to conduct the study.

NEC is a cooperative of school districts organized in 1969 to develop areawide programs and solve mutual problems. It includes school districts 15, 21, 23, 25, 26, 54, 57, 59, 211 and 214.

The NEC governing board decided earlier this year to turn to an outside firm to help it develop a more efficient operation. A NEC committee interviewed several firms before selecting Chute.

Chute will be paid $2,500 for his report, which is slated for completion on June 1, 1972.

NEC's organizational problem evolves chiefly from the complicated relations between the governing board and other NEC groups. For example, the governing board is technically an authority over the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO), yet the two groups are growing into separate independent entities. And the High School Dist. 214 Board is legally the administrative district of the cooperative, but it does not exercise full administrative powers.

"RESOLUTION AND identification of the governing board role has become a necessary first step in the reorganization effort," Richard Schlott, Dist. 25 and governing board member, told NEC officials Saturday.

Schlott predicted the dissolution of NEC unless "we end our self-generated doubt and faltering purpose." He charged that the governing board partly views its function as that of a school board. He said the Illinois School Code does not grant the governing board this power.

Schlott also charged that the governing board limits its goals to reviewing disbursements and policy manuals. "Operational minutiae cannot continue to consume so much of our attention and energy."

The primary role of the governing board should be leadership, according to Schlott. "We should exercise our influence to ensure success for our stated aim — cooperation. Our common need is to benefit from our collective strengths and to overcome our individual weaknesses. That need requires creative leadership, not obsession with minor detail."

Schlott proposed that the governing board surrender its advisory fiscal function to a "wholly separate group, specifically charged with reviewing fiscal and operational matters."

The governing board has taken no official action on Schlott's recommendations. His report may be forwarded to Chute to be included in his research.

River Basin Unit Discusses Flooding

The Des Plaines River Basin Steering Committee met Thursday in the Mount Prospect Village Hall to discuss Salt Creek flooding in an effort to draw a flood plain map of the area.

The committee was formed to design a comprehensive flood control plan for the Northwest suburban area to be included in the Chicago Metropolitan Area River Basin plan.

Included in the basin are the Des Plaines River, Poplar Creek, McDonald Creek and Salt Creek.

'Conservative' Synagogue To Be Organized

A new "conservative" synagogue, called the Woodfield Jewish Congregation, will be officially organized Sunday.

Melvin Budish, temporary congregation president, said the official signing of the "congregation charter" will be held at 8 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Margolis, 231 Serenade Ct., in Schaumburg.

Budish said the congregation, composed by 30 families, will serve the villages of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Mount Prospect, Hanover Park, Arlington Heights and Elk Grove. The movement began two months ago with just four families are involved; "now we are 30 and we hope to number 50 by Sunday," he added.

WOODFIELD JEWISH Congregation is affiliated with the United Synagogues of Chicago, he explained.

Other business to be discussed at Sunday's meeting will progress toward the finding of a location where the congregation can meet for weekly services. The congregation will meet each Friday evening beginning Jan. 1, Budish said.

The congregation intends to initiate its own school in Sept., 1972, he added. Interested area families are invited to attend Sunday's meeting, he said. Information also may be obtained by calling 894-0626.

Ask Gifts For Mental Patients

St. Gerards Guild of St. Thomas of Villanova, Palatine, has issued an appeal to Northwest suburban residents to donate Christmas gifts to young mental patients in Chicago.

A member of the guild said it has received only a few presents so far. The guild hopes to provide the 16 boys and 14 girls in a ward of the Chicago State Mental Hospital with the gifts they have requested.

Most of the requests are for clothing. The youngsters range in age from 11 to 18 years.

Items or money donated for the patients will be given to them Dec. 22.

Persons interested in contributing are asked to call Mrs. Carol O'Shea, 392-6445, to find out a specific gift request.

Private Schools Show Diversity

Over the past several years, the northwest suburbs have seen the resurgence of a different — if not new — educational system and a flourishing new type of private school.

As part of the enthusiasm growing nationwide for the Montessori system of pre-school training, the northwest suburbs have been the scene of rapidly growing interest in private, Montessori inspired schools.

Today in the Chicago area, there are more than 40 Montessori schools, the majority of which are in the suburbs. Locally, there are six Montessori schools within reach of northwest suburban residents, and new ones such as Discovery School in Hoffman Estates seem to arise to meet new growth in population.

Although the Montessori system and the schools themselves have occasionally been the point of controversy within education circles, we believe that the opportunity these schools offer to parents of pre-schoolers make them a welcome addition to the educational environment of the northwest suburbs.

Begun by Dr. Maria Montessori in the early 1900s in Italy, the Montessori method is aimed at introducing young children to the world around them and to give them practice in the techniques of the mechanical tasks of daily life. This environment, Montessori proponents claim, stimulates the child's creativity and forms the basis of habits which allow the child to grow in a creative and inquisitive sense.

and especially parents of Montessori children — sometimes become evangelical in their fervor for the program, some public educators remain skeptical of the techniques, prompting intellectual debates on the merits of Montessori which rival the theological conundrums of 15th Century monks.

Despite this debate among educators, suburban Montessori schools appear to be diverse and wide-ranging in their pursuit of worthwhile educational programs. As pointed out by Herald writer Eleanor Rives in a two-part look at Montessori schools, the local classrooms are reflective of the needs of parents and as formal or informal as the various interpretations of Maria Montessori's teachings.

Northwest suburban Montessori schools seem to be lively, innovative private schools with a high degree of parental involvement.

It is this last reason which causes us to commend their efforts here and to include them in the spectrum of Northwest suburban educational systems.

Of all the reasons families move to the suburbs — and the Northwest suburbs in particular — surely the matter of good educational opportunities is a prime motive.

The access to private Montessori schools adds to the total enrichment of this area and creates within it alternatives to nursery schools and public schools at the pre-kindergarten and kindergarten level.

By providing this kind of diversity, Montessori schools are contributing to the intellectual wealth of the whole community.

Ralph Nader's Idealism

Who would ever have suspected Ralph Nader of idealism?

Of course, it has been a species of idealism that has motivated the consumer advocate all along. When he points out the warts on the corporate and governmental face of America, it is only because he has a vision of the beauty he thinks could and should be there.

Yet his minicrusades, ranging from unsafe cars in Detroit to unwise dams in California, and his attacks on "corporate criminals" and misfeasant and malleasant public servants, have not been hard-bitten, hard-working and, it seemed, somewhat cynical realist.

Thus the surprise is not in his announcement that his most ambitious project so far — a 1,000-member "Nader's Raiders" investigation of the Congress of the United States — but in his high hope of reforming that institution (with the help of a mobilized citizenry) and of what it will mean for the future of the Republic.

Congress is potentially "the prime lever of change and justice in our country," says Nader. "Nothing remotely compares with the Congress as the hope of reclaiming America."

It's enough to start at least one venerated American to spinning in his grave.

"Reader," wrote Mark Twain in one of his milder moments, "suppose you were an idiot. And suppose you were a member of Congress. But I repeat myself."

Surviving The Yuletide

A fascinating bit of trivia sparked a lively party conversation recently when somebody asked everyone to guess which month of the year had the highest divorce rate. Almost everybody guessed one of the hot summer months, but the right answer was January. I came closest. I said December, figuring that any marriage which can survive the holidays can survive anything.

Part of every pre-marital course on How To Be Happy Though Married should include holiday survival training, with heavy emphasis on Christmas. All husbands-to-be ought to know that all women go a little nuts at this time of the year and that Yuletide insanity costs money.

It isn't only that women love to shop for gifts and will buy something for their dearest enemy out of the sheer joy of gift-shopping. It is also that the old drapes from the boys' bedroom that have done fine as a window covering for the laundry room all year suddenly have to be replaced come Christmas. To my knowledge no one has ever done any holiday entertaining in the laundry room but at Christmastime that has nothing to do with anything.

To a holiday-mad wife, a bedspread that was beautiful last week turns ugly overnight, almost-new bathroom accessories clash with the toilet paper, and brand new lamps that were color coordinated for the perfect living room simply don't go with the Christmas ornaments.

That's one side of the story.

In a holiday survival class I would also remind brides-to-be that all men are blood relatives of Scrooge.

At any other time of the year the man of the house will cheerfully pour his best Scotch into a passing stranger or the town drunk, but at Christmas the Scotch is suddenly guarded with a jealous passion. Your favorite uncle, a near teetotaler, will allow as how he'll have a wee one and Scrooge acts as though all your relatives are liches and survive only by virtue of their yearly raid on his liquor supply.

He will turn off the lights while you're addressing Christmas cards to offset the cost of having ornamental lights burning outside and he will go without lunch (or claim to) in a declared effort to help balance the food budget. Finally, he will sigh the Martyr's Sigh and say that all he really expects for Christmas is a new pair of socks because "that's all we can afford with the way you're buying for everybody else."

Husbands and wives also get a little demented in non-fiscal areas at this time of year. I have — I mean, I know of a husband who decided to rod out the kitchen sink trap one half hour before 12 holiday dinner guests were due to arrive.

A friend's husband chose Christmas morning to decide that the sofa looked shabby — something his wife had been pointing out since the Christmas before. He said, "Well, what are we going to do about it, my folks are coming at one o'clock," and his wife, with five kids and dinner to worry about, said, "I don't care what you do about it — you can take it out in the backyard and burn it for all I care." So he did.

The husband of another friend began panelling the living room (newly polished, waxed and scrubbed, of course) at 8 p.m. on December 23, then went out and got drunk because his wife became hysterical at 8:30.

Fortunately, none of the above case histories resulted in divorce — only the rich can afford Christmas and a divorce too. God bless poverty.

Expect 'Confusion' During Phase 2

by RAY CROMLEY

The longer Phase II lasts, the more confusing it may become, except to lawyers.

This is in part intentional.

For Phase II is designed to bend with political pressures from all sides, then snap back like a willow tree.

That is, Phase II is designed to defuse confrontations like that involving AFL-CIO chief George Meany. It is structured hopefully to absorb the strains set up by the 15 per cent wage raise agreed in the coal settlement, the 7.2 and 7.6 per cent increases on tin plate products, the 8 per cent increase on some steel rails and some even hotter gas price boosts in New York.

This may seem like some pretty weak defusing.

Certainly the word battles will continue as long as Phase II lasts. But the actual day-to-day working battles are over an endless number of detailed points. The strategy is for the heat to frazzle out in a long series of technical battles over individual cases.

The administration figures it can afford to compromise its stand in many of these arguments, after suitable delaying actions that are calculated to soften the impact of greater-than-guideline wage and price boosts.

Contrast this with what the situation would have been had Nixon, Secretary Connally or a government board set down hard-and-fast ceilings for wages and prices, instead of the vague guidelines which can be argued and negotiated.

The architects of Phase II feared that if the program were definite and precise it would break in the first strong push from labor, industry, Congress or protesters.

Phase II's indefiniteness is a result, too, of the fight that went into putting it together.

First, it was designed by men who did not fully believe in what they were doing. Second, the basis was and is political, both in the good sense and in the bad.

As a result, no one is satisfied with Phase II as it stands, not even those who wrote the scenario.

City Battles Jet Noise

We read with considerable interest the excellent editorial in your November 22 edition, entitled: "Callous Logic in Jet Ruling."

We think you might be interested to know that the City of Park Ridge, together with Bensenville and Schiller Park, have agreed to appeal the decision of Judge Cohen. To date, the legal expenses incurred in this battle to make our residential areas livable have been substantial. The City of Park Ridge has borne 62 per cent of the legal expense on this case

To one of these men, it is a compromise which recognizes "the bases of power."

To another, Phase II has enough "give" so that it can be jerry-fixed as things go wrong without tearing up the whole deal and starting again from scratch.

Phase II to a considerable extent reflects Nixon's own personality. He has a predilection for the adversary approach common to American courts and labor-management contract negotiations. He shuns absolutes.

The adversary approach makes compromise possible. Hopefully, no one gets hurt too badly, no one wins too much.

It puts the burden "for getting what they want" on the men representing each segment of society — labor, business, the public, the government. It places the blame on these men when they do not achieve what their clients want. It can help the President sidestep blame.

So count on confusion until the end. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Mental Health Funds Wanted

As president of the Mental Health Association of Greater Chicago, I wish to express my personal appreciation for the fine cooperation your newspaper gave in covering our 1971 campaign headed by William N. Clark. The campaign was launched on April 28th with a goal of $325,000.

Although the major thrust of the campaign takes place during spring, it continues until the goal is reached. The Association depends on private contributions in order to maintain and preserve its independent citizen's voice. It receives no funds from the government nor does it share in the Crusade of Mercy.

As the year draws to a close, I not only commend your newspaper's help in highlighting our financial needs, but also would like to point out that our goal is still short $45,000. If the balance is not raised, curtailment of some of our programs is a distinct possibility. Considering the high incidence of mental illness, this would be tragic.

I urge all who have not yet made their contributions to send a check as soon as possible to the Association at 407 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, 60605. Their wholehearted support is needed at this most crucial time.

Don't Leave A Mess

On Friday, Nov. 23, the school kids were at the mall, taking a survey on pollution and what we could do to improve our community. A worthwhile questionnaire, I think. People paint, clean, rake and pick up their property so that they'll have a better looking community, but once it gets dark the vandals come out and spread toilet paper in every bush and tree they can reach.

On the way to Salk School one morning, I saw seven yards just plastered with tissue. It's a shame those involved in these pranks don't realize how ugly this looks and how tough of a job it is to remove all this paper.

Just wait, kids, someday you'll be homeowners working to improve your property. Find something worthwhile to do.

Chief Says Thanks

In your October 4 issue, the front page carried an interesting new column called "Good News." It described the efforts of the Blackfoot Tribe — Winnepeg Nation — to collect warm clothing for the Chipewia Indians of Watermeet, Michigan.

Thanks to this single article, about 600 lbs. of assorted useful clothing was gathered. It was recently delivered to the Vice-Chairman of the Lac Vieux Desert Council to help his people thru the North Woods winter.

Thanks are given to the many people who took the time to select clothing and deliver it to the pick-up point. Their thoughtfulness will be appreciated by the men, women and children of the Chipewia Tribe. Also, without Paddock's publicity this collection would never have been so successful. All the Big and Little Braves of the Blackfoot Tribe give a big "HOW! HOW!" (thanks) to everyone who participated.

BUSINESS

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The rich and super rich are more numerous than most people suppose. Many are shy, mysterious figures. Some are even difficult to identify.

Even in the United States, where concealment of wealth from tax gatherers is difficult, there may be centimillionaires hiding from public view. In some foreign lands it is relatively easy to hide a big fortune — but it's also harder to accumulate one.

There are at least 150 centimillionaires in the United States, probably nearer 175. In the Old World, fortunes often are kept intact or nearly so for generations despite inheritance taxes through arrangements that keep the principal in the family. American law forces breakups.

John Paul Getty, considered the richest man in the world today, insists that "it's no bargain to be rich." Taxes hurt too much. It is too painful, he told United Press International in London, to see 80 to 90 per cent of your income vanish into the tax gatherer's maw.

ALTHOUGH IT has been calculated that Getty controls an empire worth $12 billion, this has to be exaggerated unless it includes ventures in which his supposed control rests on extremely thin leverage. Experts put his wealth at $2 billion.

Howard Hughes, possessor of the next largest American fortune, has held the headlines for years yet nobody knows him. While there is no reason to doubt that the shy and somewhat misanthropic billionaire is still alive, the state of his health is as much a mystery as his whereabouts.

Hughes' money came from Hughes Tool Co. of Houston, which he inherited, from Hughes Aircraft Corp., from successful motion picture ventures, real estate speculations and other enterprises.

H. L. Hunt, 82, no longer is in the public eye. Two of his sons, N. Bunker Hunt, following his father's path in oil and real estate, and Lamar, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs football team, are. The Hunts, between them, may be almost as rich as Hughes, and old H. L. never has denied being a billionaire.

Most creative of the billionaires is Daniel Keith Ludwig, 74, a native of South Haven, Mich., who now lives in New York. Besides his vast shipping fleet, Ludwig controls real estate, resort hotels and mining and ranching operations in Mexico, Australia, Germany, the Caribbean, Brazil and many parts of the United States.

His latest venture, on which he plans to spend $60 million, is the growing of new hardwood forests on 2.4 million acres of Brazil's Amazon Valley on the Jari River. He has chosen the Asian gmelina tree.

H. ROSS PEROT learned the fundamentals of business as a lad attending his father's weekly mule auctions in Texarkana, Tex. Next he talked the circulation manager of the Texarkana Gazette into letting him start a new route in a black neighborhood where no carrier ever had succeeded and allowing him 70 per cent of the gross instead of the usual 35 per cent. He delivered the 12-mile route on muleback and netted $40 to $50 a month.

Perot first hit headlines by spending $2 million on a venture to send two chartered plane loads of Christmas gifts to American war prisoners in North Vietnam. The Communists wouldn't let the packages through and ultimately most of them went to Texas tornado victims.

Dr. Edwin Land, 61, of Cambridge, Mass., inventor of the Polaroid camera, is another of the new big rich. He had a hard struggle to perfect and market his invention, then it took off like a space vehicle. Dr. Land still is more a scientist than a business man, a world famous expert on optics and light. In recent years he has turned to the behavioral sciences and sociology.

Paul Mellon, the 77-year-old son of Andrew Mellon, the banking, oil and business magnate who was secretary of the Treasury in the 1920s, is known chiefly as a patron of the arts and is president of the National Gallery in Washington.

JOHN D. MACARTHUR, who managed to avoid the limelight until one of his disgruntled ex-employees wrote a book about him called "The Stockholder," admits he, rather than Howard Hughes, is the misanthrope billionaire. Author William Hoffman said in the book that MacArthur despises humanity and has expressed the hope that he is forgotten when he passes on.

Besides his insurance empire, MacArthur is said to be the biggest landowner in Florida.

English-born comedian Bob Hope is unique among the big rich because he had an easy time accumulating his pile — no setbacks and not much sweat. Hope apparently is four times as rich as his nearest rivals in the entertainment world — Bing Crosby, Fred MacMurray and Randolph Scott, and a lot richer than any of the motion picture and TV magnets, including the Sarnoffs, Stantons and Paleys. Hope put his savings from early vaudeville and radio successes into oil ventures in partnership with Bing Crosby. Then he sold the oil holdings and bought 5,000 acres of choice real estate in the San Fernando Valley and Malibu areas of California. He also made enormous profits from his films, in which he always had a big equity interest as well as the talent fee.

Robert E. Smith, 76, was a semi-pro baseball player for 10 years and worked as a "roughneck" or laborer in Texas and Louisiana oilfields. He started his own wildcat operation in 1920 and within a few years was able to buy out his partners for $1.5 million. He built a large fortune in oil without having a geologist on his staff. "I just found oil," he says. Then he ventured into real estate and cattle ranching.

Electronic Credit Test Under Way

The BankAmericard division of the First National Bank of Chicago is testing a new electronic credit authorization system at 15 Chicago area retail outlets including several in the Northwest suburbs.

"If the test is successful, we will expand the system which could revolutionize the charge card industry and provide unmatched customer service for all BankAmericard holders in the Chicago area," said Frank E. Kalapos, marketing manager for BankAmericard.

The terminals or readers have been installed at 15 high-volume BankAmericard retail outlets in the Chicago metropolitan area for a three-month test. The equipment is connected to a computer system in Atlanta, operated by National Data Corp.

When a customer charges merchandise on his BankAmericard, the sales person need only enter the amount of the purchase and insert his BankAmericard into the terminal. Because BankAmericard numbers are embossed or raised on the plastic card, the reader will automatically scan the card and transmit the credit card sales information to National Data. In a matter of seconds, the reader will automatically return information regarding the lost or stolen status of the card and authorize the purchase amount.

LOOKING INTO the future, Kalapos said, "If we took this concept one step further, we could eliminate the need for merchant sales slips." By adding a few more buttons to the reader, the merchant could conceivably eliminate costly and time-consuming paperwork and reduce errors by transmitting the purchase amount, type of merchandise to be charged and the BankAmericard number directly to the computer center for billing purposes.

Participating merchants include M. Hyman & Son, Community Family Center, Becker's, Stuarts, Martin Oil Station, and the First National Bank of Chicago, all in Chicago. Also Polk Bros., Melrose Park; Karols and Richman Bros., Golf Mill Shopping Center; Baskins, Randhurst Shopping Center; Lane Bryant, Oakbrook Shopping Center; Walgreens, Des Plaines; Klein's Sporting Goods, Woodfield Mall; Marianne, Yorktown Shopping Center; and E. G. Home Center, Carol Stream.

Water Bottler Is Exhibitor

Mountain Valley Water Co. of Elk Grove Village will be among the exhibitors at the first Illinois Food Exposition to be held Wednesday in Chicago.

The exposition will be at the Continental Plaza Hotel according to Chuck Bloomberg, assistant director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture. Illinois food products available for domestic as well as for export to foreign markets will be featured in the show.

Bloomberg said he hopes to increase sales of Illinois-produced food products, thus creating more jobs for Illinois residents and more income for Illinois farmers. Exhibitors will range from small firms such as a Hoopston canner of kidney beans to a major Chicago dairy. Popcorn, eggrolls, turkeys, horseradish, pork, apples and cheese are among the products to be included in the exhibition.

Industrial Robot Goes On Display This Week

An industrial robot will be demonstrated Wednesday through Friday at Kane-matsu-Gosho, 543 W. Algonquin Rd., Arlington Heights.

In addition to punch presses, the Robot can be adapted for die cast machines, injection molding machines, welding, painting and machining operations.

The Kawaguchi Roks Model IB consists of an extendible and retractable piloting arm, and adjustable hand or gripper, that can be programmed to perform the same functions normally done by workers. Under the new Federal Safety Act no human hands will be allowed under a press or other machine where injury may be inflicted to the operator.

Equipped with a pinboard, electrical control system, the Robot can be programmed for fully automatic operation. According to G. W. Petrucci, sales manager, the payback period based on a two-shift basis, is less than one year.

K-G is holding the open house from 3 to 9 p.m. at its showroom, where this and other industrial machines will be shown.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The Headliners: California Gov. Ronald Reagan is a scheduled guest for ABC-TV's Dick Cavett Show Dec. 17, and Tommy Smothers is penciled in for Dec.
15... host Cavett, meanwhile, will do a guest spot as a sheriff on ABC-TV's tongue-in-cheek Western series, "Alias Smith and Jones," Jan. 6.

NBC-TV's Bob Hope plans to leave on his annual around-the-world Christmas tour of American military bases Dec. 15, and his yearly 90-minute special about the trip will be broadcast on the network
Jan. 17... Hope's one-hour comedy special next Thursday features Lee Marvin, Barbara Eden and Smokey Robinson and the Miracles... Fred MacMurray's CBS-TV prime time series, "My Three Sons," will also be on the air as a half-hour daytime entry starting Dec. 20 when the network begins Monday-through-Friday reruns of the program.

What's Ahead On Television

VIVACIOUS SANDY Duncan had the toughest break of the season when a serious eye ailment necessitated an operation midway through production on her CBS series, "Funny Face." This was one of the few new network programs that apparently was catching on. The network felt that she should have a long convalescence, so has discontinued the program for the present, expressing the hope that she will return next season.

AUTHOR OF "The Glass House," adaptation of a Truman Capote-Wyatt Cooper story, which is due on "The New CBS Friday Night Movies" series is Tracy Keenan Wynn, son of actor Keenan Wynn and grandson of the late great comedian, Ed Wynn.

CO-HOSTS FOR Miami's annual Orange Bowl parade, to be televised Dec.
31 by NBC, will be singer Anita Bryant and spieler Joe Garagiola.

DANNY THOMAS, a video absentee this season so far as a regular series is concerned, will star in an ABC special Dec. 21, at 10 p.m. The theme of the music-comedy hour is advantages and disadvantages of city versus country living.
Guests will include Milton Berle, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Florence Henderson and Anne Murray.

CBS WILL telecast play on late holes of the last two rounds of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Invitational golf tournament at Los Angeles on Jan. 8 and 9.

WARNER BROS. Television is producing a pilot for a possible 1972-73 NBC series in which Darren McGavin stars as a widower-judge, father of six, who has problems both at home and in the courtroom. His marriage to an actress doesn't help much, "Father on Trial" is the title of the item.

NBC'S "MEET the Press" network television's oldest regularly scheduled program, began to talk its way through its 25th year on Nov. 7. Producer-panelist Lawrence E. Spivak started the prime interview program on radio in October, 1945 to promote the American Mercury magazine, which he published, and shifted to television two years later.

SEN. HUBERT Humphrey visits NBC-
TV's morning Dinah Shore show next Thursday... Israeli Prime Minister
Golda Meir is interviewed on the same network's "Meet the Press" Sunday... same day, Egypt's foreign minister,
Mahmoud Riad, is the guest on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation"... Johnny Carson is reported interested in moving his NBC-TV "Tonight" show from New York to Hollywood.

"WILL Rogers' U.S.A.," an acclaimed one-man show in which veteran actor
James Whitmore portrays the great American humorist, is scheduled to be presented as a special on CBS-TV early next year... CBS-TV had considerable success when it offered Hal Holbrook's one-man special, "Mark Twain Tonight," some seasons back.

Chuck Connors, Edmond O'Brien, Stela
Stevens, Richard Conte and Eartha Kitt star Dec. 19 in ABC-TV's Sunday Night Movie, "Synanon," which concerns the well-known Synanon House in Southern California, where narcotics addicts try to help each other get on their feet again...
Keir Dullea, who starred in the movie
"2001: A Space Odyssey," will narrate a program about the film Sunday on CBS-TV's "Camera Three."

THE BROADCASTS: NBC-TV's recent, brilliant production of Paul Gallico's
"The Snow Goose" happily did very well in the national ratings too, coming in 23rd... hot hot is CBS-TV's "All In The Family" series? It's this hot: It got a 70-share in the New York overnight ratings
...repeat: that's a 70-share... a documentary hour entitled "What's Happened to the Army" airs on CBS-TV Dec. 21... it is described by the networks as "an overview of the agonizing problems confronting the United States Army — drugs, race relations, morale, discipline and corruption — and how the Army is trying to combat them."

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Joel Gaines, the inventor of Bridgette, the two-handed bridge game that is achieving great popularity, is also a very good player at bridge itself.
Here we see Joel sitting East with his brother Jud sitting West.
We hold no brief for South's bidding.
The four-spade contract is not unreasonable and would make against ordinary defense.

Jud opened the queen of clubs and Joel won the trick with his ace. There was no trouble about Analyzing the lead, but a Review of the bidding was most instructive. South probably held exactly three diamonds. In that case Jud, sitting West, would hold a doubleton. If he also held a trump trick something nice might develop for the defense.

Could Jud hold a singleton diamond?
Possibly, but not probably. He might well have opened a singleton.

How could Joel beat the contract? If West held exactly two diamonds and three trumps to the ace or king.

After all this thought it was easy for Joel to lead a low diamond. South went up with his king and led trumps, but it didn't matter whether Jud won the first or second lead of the suit. He was able to lead his other diamond to Joel's ace and

THE WAY THE situation in big-time football has gotten to be reminds me of a side show upstaging the main event at a circus.

For some years as a pigskin fanatic, I considered the professional game the king of football and the college game sort of an afterthought.

In my naivete, I smugly looked at myself as a "purist" football fan. To me that meant that since pro football has by far the best players in the world, then it must necessarily be the best game.

This year I have at last seen how superficial and faulty that reasoning is.

I was also foolish enough to swallow all that garbage propaganda dealt out by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle and others in his empire about how pro grid is the "game of our times" — how its violence, individual excellence and scientific, precise nature are supposed to represent the character of our contemporary society.

The arguments of schoolboy fans against this thinking include the abstract and hard-to-support contention that there is more enthusiasm and spirit in college ball. They'd tell me that at a pro game you don't find blaring, colorful bands, acrobatic cheerleaders and vivacious pom-pom girls, guys turning cartwheels on the sidelines, fans going bananas for Dear Alma Mater U., and students raiding the opposing school's campus the night before the Big Game and burning a bright red "AMU" on the chapel steps.

I'd come right back with "Who gives a hoot about that kid stuff? A real football fan cares only about what happens on the field of battle. If I wanted to hear bands and watch cheerleaders, I'd watch the Homecoming parades and skip the game. Lots of leading college players can't even make a pro roster and lots of fair-to-middling college players might be laughed right out of a pro camp."

How cold and unfeeling and blind I was. I take it all back, college buffs. Please accept my apologies. I now see that the best player talent isn't all there is to making up a truly exciting game. The whole isn't the sum of the parts after all. Football is not like a mathematical equation.

Maybe the truth was best stated in the title of a prize-winning magazine article co-authored some years ago by Army's Col. Earl Blaik and Stanley Woodward, a New York sports editor. The piece was called, "The Pro Game Isn't Football."

Well, maybe it's football, but not the most exciting kind. I would never have said that a few years ago and maybe it wasn't true then. But it is today.

It's sort of sad when you think about it. Whatever happened to the good old days (as recent as four or five years ago) when pro football was a wide-open offensive circus? Remember those pulsating, draining runs by the old Gale Sayers? Remember the frequent long bombs, before the advent of zone pass defenses? Remember the old AFL, with the games making fans' heads turn back and forth like a tennis match? A three-touchdown lead in the fourth quarter wasn't safe and 28 points often wasn't enough to win. Ah, those were the days, my friend.

College football has taken the place of this kind of drama. It has evolved into the same entertaining show of fireworks that pro football used to be. At the same time, sadly, the pro game has become one giant yawn — somehow, almost miraculously, continuing to thrive on a gimpy, crumbling foundation of field goals and defense.

Maybe — just maybe — if you're lucky, you'll see one exciting play in a pro contest. Yet crowds keeps storming the turnstiles more heavily than ever — probably from a combination of force of habit and the effective propaganda of Rozelle and other NFL top men.

On the other hand the college game, since the advent of the triple-option wishbone in 1968, becomes ever more intriguing. Even if you forget the frills that go along with it — the aforementioned rah-rah enthusiasm — the college game on the field itself is today infinitely more fascinating.

One game that helped to open my eyes was that fantastically exciting Thanksgiving showdown between Oklahoma and Nebraska. As you know, the final score was 35-31 and that was indicative of the kind of game it was. After watching that one especially, and a few others as well, I would have to be deaf, blind and dumb (I don't think I'm any of those) to still say the NFL is king.

The simplest of evaluations is all that is necessary to realize the superiority, entertainment-wise, of the college game. Just look at a sampling of scores. (And if you don't think the vast majority of fans prefer lots of offense and scoring, you're crazy.)

In the NFL this season, eight of the 26 teams have not scored three touchdowns in one game more than twice. Minnesota, Philadelphia, Denver and Houston have scored three touchdowns ONCE each in 11 games. The Bears, New York Jets, Buffalo and St. Louis have managed three touchdowns twice.

Seven of the pro teams — mostly the same ones as above — have not once this season scored 30 points in a game. Think about that — their HIGH totals in 11 games are in the 20's. And in 10 games this year in the NFL, the winning team has scored 13 or less points.

Meanwhile, in college ball, major-status teams have scored over 50 points at least 35 times this season. In the last four seasons there have been 19 games in which the two teams combined for 90 or more points. (The granddaddies of offensive festivals were in 1968 — Virginia over Tulane 63-47 and Ohio U. over Cincinnati 60-48.)

Eight college teams this year averaged better than 32 points a game. Penn State averaged 44.3 and Oklahoma 43.6.

And all of this data does not even count the hundreds of small-college teams, which have shown the same trend.

The pro game's scoring decline has been very sharp in the last five years. It was in 1966 that the all-time total single-game scoring record was set when the Redskins outpuffed the Giants in a 72-41 "track meet."

As for this year, pro teams have scored 40 or more points in 10 of 264 games.

(All of these figures do not include games from this past weekend.)

Anyway, we're taught that when you discuss a problem — which I feel the pro game definitely has in its bo-hum style of play — you're supposed to offer a solution. I just happen to have a couple in mind. But they're another story.

If pro football people can wait, I'll offer the master solutions next week.

Injuries, Illness Hit Hersey; Gym Team Makes Debut

by KETIH REINHARD

To hear Don Von Ebers tell it, the institution over on Thomas Street in Arlington Heights should be called Hersey General Hospital.

The veteran gymnastics coach is not exactly an optimist to begin with. Last season he was worried and very skeptical at the outset and then went on to claim number two honors over the entire state for the second straight year.

This year he claims he's REALLY worried. Could that mean a state title in the offing?

"Not really," the easy going helmsman offered. "We may get better as the season progresses but right now I don't even feel we're in condition to beat a good team in a dual meet."

Injuries and illness are the big enemies of the Huskies right now according to Von Ebers. Sure enough, the gym practice area must have seemed more like ward five at the Mayo clinic a bit earlier with two kids hit by mononucleosis, another with his hand in a cast, another off to have his appendix removed, two more suffering from back injuries and yet another out with pneumonia.

"We've got them all back now and on the mend except for Ed Paul, who broke his hand. It will take time for some of them to get into top form again though and we're not going to be exceptionally strong in the meantime."

Von Ebers also feels his team doesn't have quite the depth of his previous entries. "We're going to be going with more underclassmen than usual including some sophomores I'm bringing up. In a couple of years we could be state contender again but some of these youngsters are going to have to develop first."

For all his woes, it's doubtful Von Ebers' outfit will be taken too lightly by anyone, beginning with their first opponents, Maine South and West Leyden, due in for a double dual at Hersey Tuesday evening.

There will be eight returning lettermen on hand when everyone is healthy plus several outstanding prospects. Leading the list are a trio of youngsters who placed in the state prelims a year ago.

Pat Treacy, a senior, is one. He will head up a trampolining contingent the coach expects to be a strong suit for the Huskies this season. The other two are Jack McLaughlin, just off the sick list, and Steve Schwabe, a pair of juniors labeled for tramp duty and free exercise respectively.

Paul, another senior, is expected to head up the sidehorse unit when he returns to action around the end of the year.

And senior Keith Meyers, another just shaking off a prolonged illness is tabbed as top Husky on the still rings when he regains his form.

Other returnees include Tom Doxli, who placed in the district on the rings as a sophomore last year along with seniors Hank Milins on the high bar and all around man Gary Knutson. Milins is rebounding from a back injury as is junior Joe Shepard, a promising all around candidate who in last winter's sophomore conference meet placed third on the rings, first on the p-bars, third on the high bar and second in all-around competition.

Von Ebers is also looking for help from sophomore Jeff Meessmann, minus his appendix, on the parallel bars and junior John Braddock, returning from a bout with pneumonia, to provide support on the tramp.

Two others with potential are Ron Mitos, a sophomore and cousin of the former Elk Grove standout, on the free ex mats and sophomore Mike Murphy on the parallel bars.

"We're a young team and not overly experienced but the potential is there," summarized Von Ebers, who is looking for part-time work as an ambulance driver.

STRAINING for this rebound are Jim Sander (21) of Palatine and an unidentified teammate. The Pirates held their own on the boards, but not in

Schaumburg Posts 38-23 Mat Win Over Arlington

Schaumburg stunned hosting Arlington with a solid 38-23 victory Friday night in the Mid-Suburban League opener for both wrestling teams.

The Saxons finished strong with three pins in the last five weights. Glenn Komerska started the heavy scoring when he stopped Mike Reitmeyer in 1:10 at 145. Rich Butler followed with a pin over Mike Stanczak in 1:36 at 155.

Mike Jones finished out the string with a pin over heavyweight opponent Dean Powell in 4:25.

Helping out the Saxons a lot were three forfeits at 98, 105 and 185. Arlington also racked up points with a pair of forfeits.

The Cardinals also had a pair of pins. Tom Dal Campo nailed Rich Kuchnia in 2:12 of the 119-pound battle and John Chapman stopped Dan Young in 2:44 at 167.

Schaumburg also won two out of three meets on the lower levels. The junior varsity (37-21) and freshmen (39-15) won and the sophomores lost to Arlington, 33-30.

Four Pins Aid Falcon Matmen In 33-24 Win

Forest View overcame a slow start and used four pins to take a come-from-behind 33-24 wrestling victory at Fremd in a Mid-Suburban League opener.

After losing three of the first four bouts the Falcons of coach Dave Theesfeld were behind 13-5. But they came back to take six of the last eight matches for the win, looking especially impressive at 145, 155 and 167 when they took the lead.

Fremd took its early lead when 98-pounder Dan Neubauer racked up a pin in 1:36. Jeff Alvis at 112 did likewise in 5:01, and Dave Motta won 2-1 at 119. But the only Viking victors the rest of the way were Steve McGuinn with a pin in 1:30 at 138 pounds and Joe Marzik with a 4-0 win at 165.

The Falcons' winners Steve Egesdal with a 5:32 pin at 105, Mark Hyneman with another fall in 1:20 at 126, Bob Callagrine with a 5-0 shutout at 132, Gordon Moore with a 1:22 pin at 145, Steve Dolphin with still another pin in 4:30 at 155, Matt Cotten with a 6-0 blanking at 167 and Mike Petran with a 3-2 triumph at heavyweight.

The Falcons also won two of three lower-level meets, from the Vikes, with the junior varsity squad taking a 28-22 verdict and the sophomores winning 29-23. Fremd's freshmen won 37-24.

Hersey Matmen Handle Conant In League Debut

Undefeated in loop action last winter, the Huskies commenced the 71-72 campaign with a 38-15 victory over the Cougars.

The guests managed only four individual wins but one was an impressive one. Al Gordon, a 96 pounder last year, came from behind to upset Husky Don Robinson 5-2 in the 119-pound fray.

Robinson was a conference meet champ last season.

Another Conant vet, John Beck, pinned his foe at 4:17 in the 112-pound match. The other Cougar victories were recorded at 126 by Rick Thomas 3-0 and at 145 by Terry Stenger via a 7-2 decision.

Hersey grapplers dominated the remainder of the meet. Kurt Weisenborn was a 5-2 winner at 98, Bill Hellyer earned a 7-2 nod at 105, Brad Smith collected a third round pin at 132 and Paul Naylor fashioned a 13-0 shutout at 138.

The final four events on the card were all captured decisively by the hosts. Tad DeLuca won at 155 by default but was ahead 13-0 at the time, Bob Verduyse netted a 10-2 conquest at 167, Pat Teeley won on a first round fall at 185 and Kevin Pancratz was also a victor by pin in the heavyweight bout.

Hersey also annexed decisions in all the lower level faceoffs, the frosh winning 35-20, the Jayvees winning 58-3 and the sophs racking up a 47-8 triumph.

Palatine Wrestlers Top Knights

Palatine used a fast start in the lower weights to run up a big lead and coast to a 31-21 victory over visiting Prospect in a Mid-Suburban League wrestling meet.

The Pirates used two pins among their eight individual triumphs against the Knights. They were by Chuck Tuttle in the leadoff match at 98 pounds and Kevin Lonergan at 138. Tuttle's pin was in a snappy 0:32 and Lonergan's in 3:46.

Other winners for Palatine by decision were Bob Wahl at 105, Rich Harold at 119, John Lonergan at 126, Jim Bambrick at 145, Tom Dillman at 155, and John Van Wolvelear at 167.

Prospect's winners were Ron Cherwin at 112 in a 5:09 pin, Rick Schultz at heavyweight in a 1:35 pin, John Layer by an 8-0 decision at 132, and another victory by forfeit.

Palatine made it a clean sweep over Prospect by winning on all levels over the weekend. The junior varsity Pirates won 33-25, the sophomores 42-14 and the freshmen 46-12.

Sophomores — Palatine won 42-14.
Freshmen — Palatine won 46-12.

Meadows Mat Team Suffers 41-14 Reversal

Rolling Meadows' young junior varsity wrestling team still is learning, as was evident from their 41-14 defeat to Glenbard North in a Mid-Suburban League opener.

Only the beginning and end of the meet were favorable for the Mustangs, who had just three winners. Mark Fava led off at 98 pounds with an 8-5 victory, Mike Carvello took a 6-3 win at 185, and Bill Blackmore then closed out with a pin in 2:40 at heavyweight. Kevin Harrington forged a 1-1 tie at 167.

In between, there were six setbacks for the Mustangs, four of them by pins and another by forfeit.

Meadows' next meet, another jayvee affair, will be a week from Friday when they host Elk Grove. The following day they entertain Forest View in an afternoon meet.

The two squads exchanged narrow wins in the next two matches, Grenadier Ron Vylasek edging Kent Smith 3-2 at 167 and Mike Pavlick of the hosts slipping past Jeff Steinbeck 2-1 at 185. The heavyweight win went to Tim McGowan of Wheeling by forfeit.

The lower level Wildcat units had better success than their varsity counterparts. The jayvees triumphed 38-20, the sophs won 48-15 and the frosh posted a 61-0 whitewash. Wheeling's freshmen, in three duals have outscored their opponents 175-7.

Elk Grove Wrestlers Whip 'Cats In League

Elk Grove wrestlers picked up victories in four of their first five matches and then held on to nose out Wheeling 27-24 in a conference lifeliner on the Wildcat mats Friday.

Mike Beard was the only 'Cat among the first five to stop the Grenadiers as they moved out in front 15-6. Later the Byrne brothers posted a pair of crucial victories to assure the triumph and send Wheeling down to defeat for the first time this winter.

Beard worked for a first round pin at 105 pounds and Ed Idrizovic blanked his Elk Grove foe at 132 pounds, 5-0. All the other bouts on the first half of the card went to the guests with Bob Ancona winning at 98 pounds 4-0, Rick Morris posting a second round pin at 112, Greg Mann pinning in the first round at 119 and Jim Martin gaining a 4-0 verdict at 126.

At 138 Gary Hess of the Wildcats triumphed via a second round fall. At 145 Dave Byrne came away with a hard-earned 9-8 victory over 'Cat Steve Jorgenson while at 155 Dennis Byrne rang up a 7-0 shutout.

Busy, Impressive Weekend For St. Viator Wrestlers

The busy St. Viator varsity wrestling team made three impressive showings over the weekend as it crushed Maine South, 45-9, notched the first conference victory of the season over St. Joseph, 26-19, and placed fifth in a tough Niles East Invitational.

The Lions bowed only twice to South Friday night and hit a streak of nine consecutive decisions to win going away. Tim Marwitz started the onslaught with a 5-0 win at 98, but Tim Sullivan was blanked, 4-0, at 105.

Tom Hughes earned Viator's first of five pins in the match at 142 in the 112 bracket while John Marwitz shutout his opponent, 4-0, at 119. Bill O'Donnell, Kevin Ryan and Dave Nozicka all earned sticks at 5:31, 4:44 and 5:21, respectively, through the next three classes.

Mike Mooney kept the skins intact with an 11-7 verdict at 145 and Ed Hellesen doubled his foe, 8-4 at 155. Clem Macys added another pin at 3:59 of his 167-pound match and Ralph Beach culminated the scoring with an 8-1 decision at 185. Kurt Heerdegen was forced to default his heavyweight contest.

The St. Viator junior varsity conquered, 51-21, while the sophomores were routed, 60-3 and the freshmen, 46-15.

Lion head coach John Zid employed an entirely different lineup against St. Joseph, but five Charger forfeits put St. Viator in the driver's seat.

Pete Cavers, Steve Swellenbach, Chris Laub, Greg Romanello and Tim Dougherty all were credited with forfeit victories. Otherwise, John Coates tied his opponent, 6-6, at 138 and Bob Reszke deadlocked his foe, 4-4 at 155. Wally Irmen posted a 10-7 victory at 167.

The Lion sophs suffered a 39-19 setback, but the freshmen nailed down a 37-12 triumph.

Conant Wrestlers Falter

Conant's wrestling season took a frustrating turn Saturday when the Cougars dropped a 22-20 heartbreaker to visiting Fenton.

It was essentially a one-point difference with the Bisons getting an extra gift point on an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against Conant.

"Our condition is not the best yet," commented Conant coach Merv Miller. "Fenton already has four meets under their belts and this was only our second. And our first was only Friday night."

The Cougars actually lost the meet in the first three bouts, all losses which put them down 11-0 right off the bat. Miller's men rebounded to win six of the last nine matches, but the comeback fell just short. All of the wins, though, were on decisions. Just one pin would have meant victory.

Al Gordon rolled up the biggest winning margin at 119 pounds, a whopping 24-3 that included five near falls. Other Cougar victories were by Dick Thomas (3-1 at 126), Sherrill Dodson (6-2 at 138), Joe Kotovsky (12-2 at 158), Steve Andrews (9-1 at 167) and Bill Koppari (13-6 at heavyweight).

Taking the losses were Keith McCreary (5-0 at 98), Bob Fisher (knelt in 5:36 at 106), John Beck (8-3 at 112), Steve Lawson (4-1 at 132), Terry Stenger (4-3 at 145) and Bob Zepeda (10-3 at 165).

Conant's junior varsity, sophomore and freshmen squads all were victorious.

The Cougars have two more non-conference meets on tap this weekend, hosting Warren Friday evening and journeying to New Trier West Saturday afternoon.

Meadows Falls In Cage Action

by DON FRISKE

After losing a close battle the previous night, 55-54, the Mustang cagers of Rolling Meadows were faced with the same problem they encountered last week, a varsity opponent.

Last week it was St. Edward's of Elgin and this past Saturday night it was the Patriots of Adlai Stevenson. The outcome was almost as bad as last week (82-37) with the Mustangs losing, 71-49, to the hosting Patriots.

"Varsity opponents are just too much for us at this point," said Ken Arneson, the Mustangs' head coach. "You can easily tell the difference between a varsity squad and a junior varsity team."

The main differences were speed and experience of the ballplayers. Arneson feels his Mustangs need more experience before they can really compete against varsity teams.

"We were dead from the first quarter on and we should not have been," said Arneson. "I can't really explain this but it might have been that we were too tired from playing Glenbard North the night before."

Playing two games in a row can be tough for a young inexperienced team. On Friday night the Mustangs were in the game all the way. But with six seconds remaining, a Glenbard North player was fouled in the process of shooting and he hit both shots to give the Panthers a 55-54 lead. Time ran out on the Mustangs.

Three Cage Games Set For Tuesday

Three Herald area basketball games are on tap today.

Harper College, which has won three of four games for its best start, will host Amundsen at Conant High School. It should be a stiff test for Harper in a contest starting at 8 p.m.

At about the same time, the night's only Mid-Suburban League game will have Arlington traveling to Elk Grove. This one will feature two teams that apparently have jelled and are coming off very impressive weekends, both having won twice. Elk Grove pulled a stunning 64-63 upset over Wheeling and then clubbed Fenton 66-50, while Arlington routed Schaumburg 93-70 before shading Barrington 75-69.

In the other game, St. Viator will be at Lane Tech in Chicago at about 5:30 this afternoon. The Lions lost two heartbreakers over the weekend (64-62 to Notre Dame and 63-60 to Palatine) and are 1-2 overall. The preliminary game will start at 3:30.

Top scorer for both teams was Jack Lloyd with 23 points.

But in Saturday night's contest the Mustangs were never really in the game.

One high point in their play so far is free throwing. In Friday night's game they were 16 of 25 at the line and Saturday they were 17 of 22.

High scorer for both teams on Saturday was Adlai Stevenson center Roy Coomans with 15 points. Len Link led the Mustangs with 12 points.

Next week the Mustangs play their first games at home. Their stadium should have a seating capacity of 3,000 when completely finished. Maybe the home advantage will turn things around for Arneson's youngsters.

How Kemper Insurance policyholders will benefit from the new Illinois Modified No-Fault Auto Insurance Plan.

Starting Jan. 1, 1972, Illinois private passenger automobile policyholders insured under the Kemper Flag will enjoy expanded protection, plus faster payments for expenses resulting from bodily injury. The new Illinois Modified No-Fault Auto Plan makes these improvements possible. The Plan deals mainly with the way persons injured in auto accidents are paid. Property damage coverage remains unchanged.

While the Illinois Plan does provide improved protection for Illinois motorists, it will not affect the rate reductions recently announced by two of the Kemper companies—Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company and American Motorists Insurance Company. Those reduced rates will remain in effect.

Here is a digest of important benefits provided to Kemper policyholders under the new Illinois Modified No-Fault Insurance Plan:

1. Virtually everyone injured will be paid for hospital and medical expenses, regardless of who is at fault. Kemper pays you and your passengers directly, without delay. The Basic Personal Injury Protection coverage provides hospital and medical payments up to $2000 per person.

2. Most wage earners injured and unable to work will be compensated for loss of income. Under the new Illinois Plan, Kemper provides basic benefits of 85% of wages lost (up to $150 a week maximum) for up to 52 weeks.

3. Loss of services of a non-wage earner, such as a housewife, are also covered. Under the new Illinois Plan, Kemper will repay the cost of essential services for outside help (such as cooking or housework), up to $12 a day for up to 365 days.

4. Every Kemper policyholder has the option to purchase Excess Personal Injury Protection coverages. This means additional hospital and medical expenses, survivors benefits, and up to 5 more years of income continuation and loss of services benefits are available—up to $50,000 per person and $100,000 per accident.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE— Here's how to work it:

is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The History of Arlington Heights by Daisy Paddock Daniels

Young, affluent, educated, sophisticated in taste and aspiration. This is the profile of Arlington Heights today.

Hardy, self-reliant, oriented to the soil, simple in taste and modest in aspiration. This is the Arlington Heights of yesterday.

How this change evolved and came about is told in "Prairieville, U.S.A.," a new book by Daisy Paddock Daniels which traces the history of Arlington Heights and surrounding communities from the time of the French and Indian Wars to the present.

Seeks To Repay Bankruptcy Victims

Judge Favors Development Of Howie-In-The Hills Area

by NANCY COWGER

Judge William Campbell, presiding in a Cities Savings and Loan Association liquidation hearing, indicated yesterday he prefers to see holdings of the association, including Howie-In-The-Hills, developed for housing before any payments are made to depositors in the bankrupt firm.

The defunct subdivision is located at the north end of Hoffman Estates adjacent to Palatine Road.

No distribution of assets held by the firm is possible, until the appeals on a decision by Judge Campbell giving preference to late depositors over early ones are completed, he said. But a plan for liquidation can be adopted, so that the receivership can proceed immediately once authorization is received, Judge Campbell told the depositors.

"The plan that returns the largest amount to the depositors at the earliest possible date is the plan I will adopt," said Campbell, senior judge of the U.S. District Court.

JUDGE CAMPBELL made it plain he thinks joint development of the real estate holdings of the association, including the Howie-In-The-Hills development, by the receivership and a developing firm, would return the highest amount of money.

However, he said, it would require more time than auctioning off the land now to the highest bidder.

"The real question before me is 'are you going to get the most out of this by selling it now at forced sale under the hammer . . . or by developing it with builders and selling houses on lots,'" he said.

The liquidation is not the same as a federal reorganization proceeding, said Judge Campbell, although it has many similarities, chiefly that the assets in question are real estate.

"In every reorganization I've ever had in this court, due to effective work on the part of trustees and receivers, I've been able to pay off creditors 100 cents on the dollar. That's what I want to do here. That's what I've appointed competent receivers to do," he said.

Judge Campbell instructed the depositors present, an estimated 150 persons, to write to him personally, indicating whether they would prefer immediate sale of the land or the development proposal.

THOSE WHO DO not speak English were invited to talk to attorneys repre-sending them and the receivership. The savings house was in a heavily Polish neighborhood, and many of the depositors speak only Polish.

Judge Campbell allowed only a few questions before adjourning the session before the angry crowd of depositors. One of those was put by Harry Mazzoni, whom many of the 13,000 depositors recognize as their spokesman.

Mazzoni asked why there have been no criminal indictments against persons responsible for the association's bankruptcy and the alleged fraud on depositors. Judge Campbell said he had recommended the officials be prosecuted, but that Cook County and state authorities had not acted on his recommendation.

MAZZONI ACCUSED Judge Campbell of failure to grant immunity to one of the responsible persons. Judge Campbell said he did not have the power to do so.

Yesterday's session is a separate case from a Teamsters Union Pension Fund suit, pending before the Cook County Circuit Court, which alleges fraud on the part of former Hoffman Estates village officials in spreading a special assessment on the Howie-In-The-Hills development.

No Funds To Improve Golf, Higgins

There are no funds available for straightening the intersection of Golf and Higgins Roads, located in both Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, an engineer for the Illinois Highway Department said Monday.

Henry Yamanacka, highway department design engineer, said the state is currently seeking financing to improve the intersection. Funds for the work were not budgeted into the costs of the improvements currently being made on Higgins Road.

"We originally intended to budget the intersection improvement, along with improvements of Golf Road between Higgins and Meacham Roads," Yamanacka said.

Currently the intersection has only stop signs. There are no electric signals. The traffic situation is further complicated by the fact that Higgins Road intersects with Golf at a sharp diagonal. Plans call to have the two roads come together at a 90 degree angle after improvements.

HIGGINS ROAD is currently being expanded from two to four lanes on either side of the intersection. Similar improvements are planned for Golf Road, according to the highway department.

Plans for the improvement definitely have not been scrapped altogether, Yamanacka said. He said the plans have been deferred, adding that currently the highway department may try to find the necessary money to join the two four lane segments of Higgins Road in the near future.

added fuel because there are no commercial passenger flights going into or leaving India. The father, who has been in contact with the major airlines, said he was told the airlines "are not flying anything out of New Delhi over Pakistan."

KAREN, A 17-year-old senior at Conant High School, left for India in September as a foreign exchange student sponsored by the Schaumburg Rotary Club.

She is living with the P.N. Paushiri family in Allahabad. Mr. Paushiri is a "judge advocate of the Supreme Court" in India, Schumacher said.

He last heard from his daughter via a letter received a week ago. "The letter didn't indicate any problems," he added.

Meanwhile local, national and international Rotary officials are trying to arrange Karen's return.

"We are aware of the situation and we there," he said Monday afternoon.

Schumacher is referring to daughter, Karen, a foreign exchange student living in Allahabad, India. India, as the headlines have been screaming, is at war with Pakistan. Because of the war situation and subsequent declining relations between India and the United States, Schumacher would like to get his daughter home to 349 Nottingham Lane. . . immediately.

"We (Schumacher and his wife) don't want to get her trapped there if India breaks off relations with the U.S.," he said. The U. S. State Department Sunday lodged a formal protest with the Indian ambassador here calling reported attacks on U.S. merchant ships by Indian naval vessels "discriminatory straining and bombing."

A new string of Christmas tree lights nearly brought tragedy to a Hoffman Estates couple Saturday when the lights caught fire.

The fire started in the kitchen in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lovejoy, 136 Patriot Ln., Hoffman Estates, where the lights were being tested.

"The fire started so quickly, my clothing caught on fire," Mrs. Lovejoy said. She said the lights were laying on the kitchen table when they burst and started to burn.

She had bought the lights recently from W. T. Grant's in Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Lovejoy said the flaming strand of lights was thrown on the back porch and some damage occurred there before the fire was extinguished.

THE MANAGER OF the Grant's store, Ken Dackre, said he had received no other complaints about lights similar to those purchased by Mrs. Lovejoy.

The lights, distributed by Grant's under the brand name "Grant-Lite," carried an Underwriter's Laboratory seal of approval, Mrs. Lovejoy said.

A spokesman in Grant's regional office said he had no knowledge of any other mishap occurring with those lights. An investigation is underway, he added.

Dackre said plans are also under way to take care of the damage to the Lovejoy home.

Mrs. Lovejoy said a fire commissioner planned to examine the house. "If the lights had been on a tree, the whole house could have gone up," she said.

The Lovejoy's managed to extinguish the fire without the assistance of the fire department.

"The fire should serve as a reminder to people to be careful handling Christmas decorations and lighting equipment," Mrs. Lovejoy said.

READING ONE OF the first letters to mailbox, Santa finds out what an arrive at Schaumburg Park District's area child wants for Christmas.

Fireman's Mattress Catches Fire

The Hoffman Estates Fire Dept. answered a call at a fellow firefighter's home Sunday after a mattress caught fire.

The fire at the home of Richard Knapk, 279 Alcoa Ln., Hoffman Estates occurred about 8:30 p.m. Fire department officials estimated damage at $300.

The Red Cross took the family to a nearby motel for the night. There were no injuries.

False Alarm At Conant High

A false alarm yesterday afternoon caused the evacuation of Conant High School, Higgins and Plum Grove roads, Hoffman Estates.

The school, was evacuated after an alarm box was broken at the northeast corner of the building's first floor, according to Hoffman Estates police.

The incident is under investigation.

Santa Giving Answers, Too

A letter to Santa has become somewhat of a tradition about this time of year. But how many youngsters have ever received a reply?

This year, children of the area will have that opportunity if they place their letter to Santa Claus in a specially decorated mailbox in front of the Jennings House Youth Center, 220 Civic Dr., Schaumburg.

The letter must be accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope to receive the reply from Santa. Replies will be written on green paper with red ink, in keeping with the Christmas season.

The mailbox will be in front of the youth center beginning today during the hours of 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Children are encouraged to send Santa their Christmas lists.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war. Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 89-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Bauekos as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Barringer, 40, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Ill-

nois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller, a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Desh independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 600 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Padeng, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

The Market

Profit taking closed the door on a seven-day advance on the New York Stock Exchange. The day's widest swingers generally pointed lower and key market averages retreated. The Dow Jones Average had a net loss of 3.87 at 855.72. Of the 1,741 issues on the tape, 764 gained and 701 declined. Prices were mixed in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

SCOTT NAILOR and the homemaker who has cared for him since he broke his leg in October have made paper chains and other things. Vera Smogorzewski is a homemaker for Child and Family Service of Chicago.

Mother Praises The Service

Family Service 'A Godsend'

by WANDALYN RICE

Scott Nailor had ridden his bike in back of the Eagles on Tonne Apartments in Elk Grove Village hundreds of times, and every once in a while he would fall when he ran into the loose gravel.

But one day early in October, the boy took a spill and landed wrong — with his leg tucked under him.

After a ride to the hospital in the fire department ambulance, Scott and his mother Gloria got the bad news. His leg was broken just below the hip and he was to spend the next eight weeks in a cast from the center of his chest to the tip of his toe.

For Mrs. Nailor the news was especially bad. She has a job at Hale Engineering Co. in the village and supports Scott and her other two boys. She couldn't afford too much time off work to care for her son.

"When you have a husband around, your job doesn't mean very much," she explained. "But, when you're the provider (as she is) it's important. I didn't know what I was going to do."

AT THAT POINT Mrs. Nailor's doctor referred her to the social service agency at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and they told her about the Homemaker Service provided by Child and Family Services of Chicago.

The service will provide a trained homemaker for any family which needs temporary help because of illness, injury or other emergency and charges on a sliding scale related to income. Mrs. Nailor made the necessary arrangements and just a few days after Scott came home from the hospital "Mrs. Smokey," Very Smogorzewski, came to work.

Since then she has taken care of Scott, helping with his homework and playing games with him. In addition, she cleans house and has the dinner ready when Mrs. Nailor gets home from work.

"It's really been a Godsend to me," Mrs. Nailor said. "I don't know what I would have done without her."

One thing she might have done, she added, was send Scott to stay with her married daughter, but that would have meant the tutor sent from Mark Hopkins School wouldn't have been available.

The Homemaker Service has been active in Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates and Streamwood since May, according to Charles Duffy, social worker for the agency.

SOMETIME NEXT year, assuming that money comes from other area United Funds, the service will be available throughout the Northwest suburbs. Duffy said the agency usually gets referrals from the hospital and other agencies when a family needs help.

In addition, he said the service is looking for more homemakers like Mrs. "Smokey." "They don't need any special training because we train them ourselves," he said.

Scott will only need Mrs. "Smokey" for another week, since he got his cast off Saturday. When she finishes the assignment she will have been with the family for nine weeks.

She and Scott, Mrs. Nailor said, "have gotten along very well. They've had their little scrapes, and she's had to be firm with him, but that's fine with me."

Scott is looking forward to getting back to school and back to the Cub Scout pack he joined while still confined to bed.

And his mother is relieved. "It seems like forever, since it happened," she said. Of course, she admits she will miss Mrs. Smokey. "Coming home and having dinner ready spoils you."

Hallmark Chorus To 'Sing In Season'

The Hoffman Hallmark Chorus and the Hoffman Hallmark Boys' Chorus will sing in the Christmas season Sunday with the choral presentation "Welcum Yole."

The concert name is taken from the title of an Old English Christmas carol in the program. The program will be at 3:30 p.m. at Jane Addams Junior High School, 700 S. Springsguth Rd., Schaumburg.

The 40-voice male and female Hoffman Hallmark Chorus will join the 26 member boys' chorus to present portions of Handel's Messiah and "A Ceremony of Carols" by B. Britten.

Tickets for the program are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. They will be available at the door or by calling 837-3464.

Judge Receives Jayne-Related Documents

A sealed envelope containing documents relating to the murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne yesterday was presented by assistant state's attorneys to Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald to help determine their importance to the defense in the case.

Asst. State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said in the past three months of pre-trial hearings he has turned over to defense attorneys thousands of pages of police and crime lab reports and grand jury testimony to assist them in the preparation of their case.

However, the packet of documents Motherway gave to Judge Fitzgerald yesterday in Criminal Court represents those the state would like to withhold from the defense.

A recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling requires the state and defense, through the filing of motions for discovery, to turn over prior to the trial evidence they accumulated during investigations. If one side refuses to voluntarily provide the other with particular information, the presiding judge determines its importance and whether it should be provided.

Robert D. Boyle, one of the four defense attorneys in the Jayne murder, objected yesterday to the absence of one page from a Palatine Police report that was not included with the rest of the information.

"We have no explanation of its whereabouts," Motherway told him. Judge Fitzgerald gave Motherway 10 days in which to try to locate the missing page.

Boyle also suggested Motherway submit a complete list of titles and pages of all documents given to the defense to date.

"Because of the voluminous amount of records, there could be room for error," Boyle said, suggesting the list as a safeguard to keep track of the information.

"This case, if nothing else, has to be, in terms of documentation, the most massive thing I've ever heard of," Motherway said, objecting to Boyle's idea because of the additional work it would bring his office.

"I think we have complied with the discovery motions," Motherway said. "The absence of one page should not stand as a bar to compliance."

Judge Fitzgerald said he would evaluate the documents in the sealed envelope and make his determination at a hearing set for Dec. 28. Following this, the defense attorneys would be given 20 days in which to answer the state's motion for discovery and begin handing over evidence to them.

Charged in four two-count indictments of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the death of George Jayne last Oct. 28 are George's brother Silas, of rural Elgin; Joseph LaPlaca, of 321 McClure, Elgin; Edwin Nefeld, of 22341 Sherman Rd.; and Julius Barnes, of 7318 S. University, Chicago.

Boyle suggested yesterday a trial date be set soon on the case, which has dragged on since the arrest of the men in May.

Dirksen PTA Will Install Officers

Mrs. Hazel Dahlstrom, Dist. 37 director of the Illinois Parent Teacher Association (IPTA), will install officers of Everett McKinley Dirksen PTA elected at the unit's first meeting tonight.

A slate of officers, headed by Mrs. Donald O'Hara, candidate for election to unit president, will be presented for membership approval, at 8 p.m. at Dirksen School.

Other names being proposed by the Dirksen PTA nominating committee include Mrs. Michael Smith, first vice president; Mrs. Ronald Oas, second vice president; Mrs. Jerome Mayone, recording secretary; and Mrs. Ronald Benjamin, treasurer.

Speakers will include Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne E. Schaible; Karl Plank, Dirksen School principal; and Mrs. Mary Mozal, president of Schaumburg Area Council of PTA's.

Following the business meeting, members of Dirksen School's sixth grade chorus, under the direction of Miss Linda Haller, will present a Christmas choral program.

Not Ready For Reciprocal Borrowing

Several details must be cleared up before the Arlington Heights Library Board will consider joining the North Suburban Library System's (NSLS) reciprocal borrowing plan, according to Robert Melroy, chairman of the library board's ad hoc committee on reciprocal borrowing.

In recent conversations about reciprocal borrowing with Robert B. Lyons of the Schaumburg Township Public Library Board, Melroy said that the basic idea of reciprocal borrowing wasn't the main question. Lyons is also the chairman of the NSLS reciprocal borrowing committee.

"The basic issue, as I see it, is that we want to be sure we have the right to withdraw from reciprocal borrowing, if the plan turns out to be detrimental to the people of Arlington Heights, without being thrown out of NSLS," Melroy said. "And we want that in writing."

MELROY SEES the possibility of poorer library systems feeding off the Arlington Heights library instead of building up their own system. Reciprocity could also leave Arlington Heights citizens with a crowded facility with fewer books available.

Robert R. McClarren, director of NSLS, says that the reciprocal borrowing plan is voluntary and the word mandate was carefully omitted from any mention of reciprocal borrowing. However, he admits that the right to withdraw without sanctions is not stated in writing.

"We are not, and have not been opposed to the concept of making books and knowledge available to all," Melroy said. "But we have a responsibility to the people of Arlington Heights who had the foresight to develop a fine facility, and pay for it with a higher tax rate than surrounding areas."

The last time reciprocal borrowing was brought to a vote of the library board was in March. The board endorsed the basic principle of reciprocal borrowing as being potentially advantageous to the purposes of the library and the residents of Arlington Heights. But the board did not elect to participate in the NSLS permanent reciprocal borrowing program at that time, voting 6-0 against it with one abstention.

Lyons feels that the questions asked by Melroy about reciprocal borrowing can be resolved. That is the reason he reported to the Schaumburg Township Board that he thinks Arlington Heights may be ready to participate in a reciprocal borrowing plan.

42,000 Coupons Down, 558,000 To Go

A Hoffman Estates woman collecting Betty Crocker coupons and cash to help her hometown hospital buy a kidney machine reports 42,000 coupons and 25 cents in cash have been contributed.

A Dec. 15 deadline for the coupons collection has been extended by the General Mills Redemption Center offices until Dec. 31.

Mrs. John Parrish of 182 Meyer Rd., learned about the Paris, Illinois Community Hospital Fund and coupon drive during a hometown visit several months ago.

Nursing Services at the hospital, which serves a population of 10,000, is collecting the coupons found on General Mills product boxes and labels and turning them in for a half cent each.

The hospital's goal is to collect 600,000 coupons and turn them in for $3,000 in cash. This should be enough to buy a kidney machine.

WHEN MRS. PARRISH took a collection of coupons from her neighbors, clubs and area residents the hospital had collected 400,000 coupons.

Short 200,000 of their goal the hospital asked for and received the two-week deadline extension for redemption of the coupons.

Mrs. Parrish said small cash contributions turned in to the hospital have been used to defray mail expenses. The 25 cents she collected also will go for mailing.

Anyone wishing to mail coupons or cash donations for the Paris hospital may send them to her at 183 Meyer Rd., Hoffman Estates, or to the Hospital at Paris, Ill., 61944, or directly to the General Mills Redemption Office, Second Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn. Coupons sent directly to the center should be marked for the Paris Hospital Alumni Association account.

Ask State To Help Halt Spraying Of Mosquitoes

A special committee of the Palatine Environmental Control Board (ECB) has been formed to generate the interest of the Illinois Pollution Control Board in the current legal suit of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District against Palatine and Schaumburg.

The three-man committee, composed of board members Mrs. Sue Martin, Wayne Browning and Chuck Jeffries, will work with the village board and attorney.

The ECB suggested they start a petition proposing a hearing with the state pollution board for a formal decision on whether ordinances of Palatine and Schaumburg limiting the activities of the abatement district are valid.

The committee will contact various anti-pollution groups in the area and state to endorse the petition seeking a hearing from the state board.

The abatement district suit, filed in August, seeks a declaratory judgment from the Cook County Court to permit the spraying of Malathion, a chemical insecticide, within the corporate limits of the two towns. Palatine and Schaumburg's ordinances prohibit the spraying, which the abatement district claims interferes with the operation of their program.

HOWEVER, PALATINE Environmental Health Director Richard Dawson suggested to the ECB a decision from the state pollution control board, which has expertise in the area of insecticides, might be more helpful in resolving the suit.

Although attorneys for Palatine and Schaumburg filed motions to dismiss the suit of the abatement district, Judge Edward J. Egan denied the motions. This makes it necessary for village officials to take the case to trial to prove the validity of their ordinances.

Palatine and Schaumburg passed their ordinances because local officials contended the spraying operations are not effective methods of permanent mosquito abatement and have contributed to problems of water and air pollution.

Atcher, Santa Claus Share Top Billing

Robert O. Atcher, Schaumburg mayor, and Santa Claus share top billing as honored guests at tonight's 7:30 meeting of the Edwin Aldrin PTA.

Children of the school will present a Christmas program that will feature caroling by fifth and sixth graders.

The meeting and festivities will be held in the school, 617 Boxwood Dr., Schaumburg.

Refreshments will be served. School children, their brothers and sisters are especially welcome at this meeting, a PTA spokesman said.

Karen Schumacher, Please Come Home

"We have sent a cable to her and have placed a phone call," Conroy explained. The police chief said he expected to hear from Karen by Wednesday. He expressed confidence in her well-being.

"I'M SURE the Rotary Club in India is just as aware of students over there and will make provisions to see she is safe," he said.

Working with Conroy on the matter is Lynn Stone, the International Youth Exchange chairman for Schaumburg Rotary and a member of Rotary District 644's "International Exchange" program. Schaumburg is one of some 70 Rotary Clubs comprising District 644.

"This is giving me grey hair," Stone said. He has contacted Senator Charles Percy requesting he make contacts on the matter through the "ambassadorial level."

"Our ultimate goal is to bring her home," he said. "We are trying every avenue."

"We're not getting totally clear information because of conditions existing in India," Stone said. He admitted concern because of "reports of bombing in various cities" in India.

A problem has been that Karen just recently moved to the Pashir family from another Indian family, thus neither her parents or local Rotary officials have her current phone number. The confusion in India has made obtaining the phone number difficult. Stone said telephone calls have been made and Karen has been directed to "make preparations to come home."

HE ADDED the mail from India "has been kind of goofed up" lately. Recent letters from Karen have mentioned things apparently contained in letters written to Mr. and Mrs. Schumacher that were never received.

Chief Conroy said the local Rotary's executive board is meeting this morning at the A. N. Palmer Co., 1720 W. Irving Park in Schaumburg, to hold a business meeting. The situation will be discussed there, Conroy said.

Political Plans Question Called 'Unreasonable'

Wheeling Trustee Albert Lang wants the village board to revise its interviewing procedure for village commissions and boards to eliminate questions about politics.

Lang said Friday he thinks asking applicants whether they have political amcants it was "a loaded question."

But Berger explained the board asked the question because they did not want to have a person learn the intricacies of a complex commission only to resign in a year and a half and force the commission to train another novice.

Most of the applicants questioned, said they had no political plans. William Rogers, who sought a seat on the village plan commission, said he was unsure of his plans at this point. The next village election will be in April, 1973.

Even though applicants often say they have no interest in a village board seat, most of the trustees actually do come to the board with some commission experience.

THREE TRUSTEES who have filled board vacancies in recent years — William Hart, Ronald Bruhn and most recently, William Hein — have come to the board from the chairmanship of the fire and police commission.

Other trustees currently on the board served on other commissions — Michael Valenza was a plan commissioner, John Koeppen was a zoning board member, and former Trustee Roger Stricker was on the plan commission. Only Trustees Lang and Berger who were elected to the board on Koeppen's ticket last April have not served on village commissions.

At the public relations commission meeting Friday, commission chairman D. Wray Peal said he had been asked about his political aspirations three years ago when he was interviewed.

"It's been going on for a long time, but I think it's time we changed it," Lang said.

The discussion on the question began when Commissioner Sheila Schultz pointed out that a story in the last village newsletter said the only requirement to serve on a commission was an interest in the village.

She said several people had asked her about the question which seemed to imply that if you had political goals in the future, you were unlikely to get a commission seat.

Albert

bitions — or specifically if they plan to run for the village board in the next election — is "an unreasonable question."

The board held interviews for 13 people last week, and was to interview additional applicants last night.

The trustee, who heads the board's judiciary and purchasing committee, is in charge of scheduling and presiding at interviews for the various voluntary commissions.

Lang made his comments about revising the question system and eliminating the political question at a meeting of the village public relations commission Friday night.

Asking whether potential commissioners plan to seek a village board seat "puts people on the defensive when they shouldn't be," he said.

THE BOARD asked all men interviewed in last week's sessions whether they planned to run for the board. The two women who were interviewed for commissions were not asked the question.

Trustee Edward Berger, who asked the question at the interviews, told the appli-

Toy Safety Laws Needed Parents Say

With Christmas near, safety in toys appears to be a concern of all parents and in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove sentiment appears in favor of laws regulating toy safety.

All those interviewed by the Herald this week said they favored some sort of toy safety law. Most also said parents should closely check all toys used by their children.

MRS. BILLY TEW, 750 N. Green, Wheeling, said that with two small children of her own she favors laws against dangerous toys.

"I'm home all the time, but even then I can't watch them all the time. They can be in another room playing, and my boy, 4, gets into everything," Mrs. Tew said.

"And even if you are watching them, if a toy's dangerous they can get hurt even if you're right there."

MRS. WENDELL SCHWARTZ, 409 Indian Hill, Buffalo Grove, another mother of small children, also favored such laws but said that she was "basically concerned with toys for pre-school children."

"Some kind of law is needed," said Mrs. Schwartz, who has children one and three years old. "A lot of people just go by the ads and don't check toys out. I'm very careful about what I buy but I think a lot of people don't worry."

She said that she would not ban toys, such as darts, that could harm very young children. "But, of course, you don't buy that kind of toy for a pre-school child," she said. "And if you have a pre-school child, you are careful he doesn't get it."

MRS. CHARLES PIERCE, 83 N. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, thinks, "It's up to both" parents and lawmakers to keep toys safe.

"There should be laws," Mrs. Pierce said, "and parents should check toys before they buy them. We do for our two children."

She said that she has discovered wire in the ears of a stuffed dog her son received as a present. "We didn't buy it ourselves, but I'm going to take the wire out." This kind of hidden danger should be prevented by laws, Mrs. Pierce said.

MRS. AL MUNDT, 244 E. Jeffery Ave., Wheeling, said that laws are a necessary "double check" even for parents who are careful in buying toys.

"I definitely favor this kind of law," Mrs. Mundt said. "I have a three year old, a two year old and a newborn baby, and we found dangerous things even in baby toys. We've had to chuck some of the toys because they're dangerous. And you just can't watch the children all the time."

RICHARD HENRY, 279 Rosewood, Buffalo Grove, said that "some sort of regulation" is needed but he also was critical of parents who fail to check toys.

Henry said that he was most disturbed by "the nature of the promotion" of toys. "Children are misled on TV on what toys will do. I think there should be more truth in advertising toys."

Eyesores, Zoning Concern Village Residents

Wheeling residents are concerned about eyesores — such as abandoned gas stations — and they want to know what improvements the village is planning for Wheeling.

That's what a survey of local residents by the village public relations commission showed after it was compiled Friday.

Residents were asked about the types of articles they want printed in the quarterly newsletter published by the village. They were also asked for comments.

Many of those responding to the survey included specific questions or objections.

In addition to wanting to learn about future improvements to the village, the persons responding to the survey also gave high priority to explanations of zoning procedures and codes in the village.

Feature articles on various aspects of village government came in third in the number of persons interested while the information on the village flood control program, once a major item of concern to waterlogged residents, received the lowest number of votes.

IN ADDITION to several comments about eyesores such as restaurants and gasoline stations (especially the two vacant ones on the corners of Dundee Road and George Road), there were numerous requests for sidewalk repair and installation.

Strong Street, Dundee Road in front of the K Mart, and Berkshire Drive were among the streets residents said need sidewalk work.

There were requests for street repairs of Manchester Drive between Wolf Road and Milwaukee Avenue, and of Mockingbird Lane, questions about the progress of the Wheeling Park District's ice hockey rink, and two requests that the newsletter include a list of the times, places and agenda for village meetings.

One resident proposed a village ordinance which would outlaw giving candy or other edible things to children trick-or-treating on Halloween. Designed to eliminate the chance of children being poisoned or drugged, the law would call for residents to give out pennies, balloons, or small toys instead, the resident suggested.

Public relations commission members discussed referring the proposal to the village board, then decided to study it further before making a decision.

Residents also wanted to learn about job descriptions for elected officials, a request for a list of salaries of local officials, and a tongue-in-cheek proposal that the village hire a second village attorney.

THERE WERE TWO comments about Pal-Waukee Airport — one backing the airport and another endorsing a current suit to make the airport follow flight restrictions placed on it by Cook County.

One person objected to the fact that people burn leaves in the village even though it is illegal.

Several people gave what public relations commissioner Sheila Schultz called "lengthy and vehement" objections to dogs and cats in the village.

They complained, she said, about animals being allowed to roam free, and about dogs messing up lawns. One person called for an ordinance licensing cats and requiring them to be leashed.

Public relations commissioners said two senior citizens complained about the lack of public transportation in the village.

Mrs. Schultz also said there were "three very strong suggestions to 'get rid of Stavros' and clean up the town." Another person asked "Why Jim Stavros has keys to the village hall and access to the files," according to Mrs. Schultz.

A list of people and businesses which violate village ordinance and zoning violations each month was proposed for the newsletter.

Three comments suggested that the village lower taxes, one asked for "decent water," and two asked about per-

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war. Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 89-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Batuelas as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Barringer, 40, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Ill-

nois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller, a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Desh independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 600 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Paden, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

Holiday Concerts Slated

Residents of Buffalo Grove and Wheeling will be entertained by local students at a series of holiday season concerts.

The orchestras of Jack London Junior High School will present their annual winter concert at the Wheeling school at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The intermediate and concert orchestras will play a variety of selections, including Christmas music. The members of the beginning orchestra will demonstrate work done in their classes.

Thomas R. Hageman and Mrs. Deborah Shea will conduct the orchestras. The concert is free and open to the public.

Three concerts, including one at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, will also be presented this month by London pupils.

The eighth grade chorus will perform in the Christmas tree area in the museum at noon Dec. 22. The chorus will also sing at the Woodfield Mall in the evening on Dec. 20.

ON DEC. 17, London students will present a winter concert at their own school at 8 p.m.

The girls chorus, the boys ensemble and the mixed chorus — all under the direction of Mrs. Joan King, will perform. The seventh grade chorus, under Sarah Ward, will also perform.

Band director Gail Grissen will lead a brass octet at the concert, and a chorus of sixth graders from the Eugene Field School will sing.

The concerts are free and open to the public.

Adlai Stevenson High School's seventh annual Christmas concert will be held in the auditorium of the Prairie View school at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Dec. 16 and 17.

More than 225 music students will participate in the program including the symphonic band, girl's concert choir, men's chorus, Madrigal singers and a cappella choir.

There is no admission charge, but to be sure of a seat, the public is requested to pick up free tickets in advance by calling the high school.

The 100 piece symphonic band under the direction of Dave Habley will present Roy Anderson's "Christmas Festival," "Sleigh Ride," Alfred Reed's "Russian Christmas Music," and "Prayer and Dream" from the opera Hansel and Gretel.

THE VOCAL music department under the direction of William Misik, music chairman, will present a wide variety of light and sacred music highlighted by the traditional candlelight processional featuring the a cappella choir.

The girl's concert choir will sing "As It Fell Upon A Night," "Sing Gloria," "Do You Hear What I Hear," and "A Holly Jolly Christmas."

Park Director Coleman Resigns Post

Wheeling Park District Recreation Director Bruce Coleman has resigned his post only five months after he was hired.

Coleman, who came to the district last July, told park board members he planned to return to college and then go into teaching.

The park district board voted to accept the resignation Thursday with only commissioner Lorraine Lark voting against accepting the resignation.

Mrs. Lark explained that she voted against accepting the resignation because she is "reluctant to see him leave."

She said that it was a benefit to the community to have a recreation director as young as Coleman, and that she ent work with the recreation director.

"We're not acting like a board," he said.

Coleman has clashed with park commissioner Gus Nizzi at several recent meetings as to how programs should be run. Most recently Nizzi insisted that Coleman run a "Turkey Trot" cross country race by age classes while Coleman had said he thought competition by grade level would be fairer.

The board met in executive session Thursday before voting to accept the resignation which is effective Jan. 2.

The board also directed the district superintendent to place advertisements seeking a replacement for Coleman.

Coleman came to Wheeling from a job as a track coach at St. Procopius College in Lisle. A 1970 graduate of the University of Illinois, he holds a bachelor of science degree in recreation.

Plan Suit To Get CCPA Recognized

by DOUG RAY

The Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA), representing 16 Rolling Meadows policemen, will file suit in Cook County Circuit Court this week in an attempt to force the City of Rolling Meadows to negotiate with the chapter's local collective bargaining agency.

Sgt. John Flood, CCPA president, told the Herald yesterday, "Our attorney has been directed to prepare a suit asking the city to bargain in good faith with local CCPA representatives."

Flood made the announcement after a Sunday meeting with the Rolling Meadows membership, and said the CCPA will intensify its effort to gain recognition for the patrolmen.

"We will use and choose any efforts necessary to make the aldermen and Mayor (Roland Meyer) change their irresponsible attitudes," Flood said.

Rolling Meadows officials refused to recognize the local CCPA chapter when it was formed in March. Present state statutes allow a municipality to decide whether to recognize a bargaining group for city employees.

Meyer said yesterday, in reply to Flood's comments, he "was waiting for them to file suit." He said he expects Flood "to make a lot of noise to show the men (Rolling Meadows CCPA membership) they are getting something for their money."

MEYER SAID the CCPA may not have sufficient funds needed to fight the city in a lawsuit. "If he has that kind of money he should have defended those men in Waukegan," Meyer said.

He was referring to a strike of CCPA policemen in Waukegan in 1970, which resulted in their firing by Waukegan officials. The Lake County courts originally, and higher courts in subsequent appeals, have upheld the policemen's dismissal.

Flood, who said he "won't be gavelled down by the mayor," plans to attend city council meetings to air the patrolmen's grievances.

"We were taking our time in Rolling Meadows," Flood said, awaiting the outcome of legislative bills which would force municipalities to negotiate with public employe organizations. But the bills are bogged down in legislative committee and another course of action is being taken, he said.

FLOOD SAID the Rolling Meadows patrolmen who belong to the CCPA "are behind the suit," in which the CCPA attorney will subpoena Rolling Meadows officials to testify.

He said Meyer and other city officials have used "psychology to try to push the patrolmen out" of Rolling Meadows. Flood suggested that he might organize pickets at city hall to demonstrate the CCPA's effort to gain recognition in Rolling Meadows.

Sixteen of the city's 20 patrolmen voted last March to join the CCPA for professional representation on economic and job conditions but were not recognized by the city council. The CCPA has been silent on the situation since May, when a final appearance before city officials failed to gain the sought for recognition.

After the incident, in which CCPA vice president Gene Wolf was not allowed to speak to city officials, a number of grievances were released including an alleged substandard salary schedule and an alleged breach of the patrolmen's contracts. The patrolmen said they were hired with the understanding they could reach the top of the salary schedule within three years but it was later changed to five years.

CCPA officials had hoped for passage of public employe bills in the state legislature during the past session, but the bills were returned to committee. Flood contends that two of the bills, House Bill No. 1 and Senate Bill No. 1112, have a chance of passage this spring.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1 "specifically grants public employe labor organizations the right to bargain collectively with public employers," according to a legislative digest. The senate bill asks for creation of an Illinois Public Employment Relations Act to set up standards for collective bargaining.

The CCPA recently challenged Harvey, Ill. officials who refused to recognize members of the CCPA there. The CCPA in Harvey was successful, Flood said, but the court decision requiring recognition of the Harvey CCPA, is being appealed.

Flood said the CCPA represents more than 1,200 policemen in 25 northern Illinois municipalities. Patrolmen in some Northwest suburban communities are represented by the CCPA including those in Palatine, Des Plaines and Wheeling. The CCPA was formed in 1969.

SCOTT NAILOR and the homemaker who has cared for him since he broke his leg in October have made paper chains and other things. Vera Smogorzewski is a homemaker for Child and Family Service of Chicago.

Mother Praises The Service

by WANDALYN RICE

Scott Nailor had ridden his bike in back of the Eagles-on-Tonne Apartments in Elk Grove Village hundreds of times, and every once in a while he would fall when he ran into the loose gravel.

But one day early in October, the boy took a spill and landed wrong — with his leg tucked under him.

After a ride to the hospital in the fire department ambulance, Scott and his mother Gloria got the bad news. His leg was broken just below the hip and he was to spend the next eight weeks in a cast from the center of his chest to the tip of his toe.

For Mrs. Nailor the news was especially bad. She has a job at Hale Engineering Co. in the village and supports Scott and her other two boys. She couldn't afford too much time off work to care for her son.

"When you have a husband around, your job doesn't mean very much," she explained. "But, when you're the provider (as she is) it's important. I didn't know what I was going to do."

AT THAT POINT Mrs. Nailor's doctor referred her to the social service agency at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and they told her about the Homemaker Service provided by Child and Family Services of Chicago.

The service will provide a trained homemaker for any family which needs temporary help because of illness, injury or other emergency and charges on a sliding scale related to income. Mrs. Nailor made the necessary arrangements and just a few days after Scott came home from the hospital "Mrs. Smokey," Vera Smogorzewski, came to work.

Since then she has taken care of Scott, helping with his homework and playing games with him. In addition, she cleans house and has the dinner ready when Mrs. Nailor gets home from work.

"It's really been a Godsend to me," Mrs. Nailor said. "I don't know what I would have done without her."

One thing she might have done, she added, was send Scott to stay with her married daughter, but that would have meant the tutor sent from Mark Hopkins School wouldn't have been available.

The Homemaker Service has been active in Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates and Streamwood since May, according to Charles Duffy, social worker for the agency.

SOMETIME NEXT year, assuming that money comes from other area United Funds, the service will be available throughout the Northwest suburbs. Duffy said the agency usually gets referrals from the hospital and other agencies when a family needs help.

In addition, he said the service is looking for more homemakers like Mrs. "Smokey." "They don't need any special training because we train them ourselves," he said.

Scott will only need Mrs. "Smokey" for another week, since he got his cast off Saturday. When she finishes the assignment she will have been with the family for nine weeks.

She and Scott, Mrs. Nailor said, "have gotten along very well. They've had their little scrapes, and she's had to be firm with him, but that's fine with me."

Scott is looking forward to getting back to school and back to the Cub Scout pack he joined while still confined to bed.

And his mother is relieved. "It seems like forever, since it happened," she said. Of course, she admits she will miss Mrs. Smokey. "Coming home and having dinner ready spoils you."

Henry Busse Services Are Tomorrow

Funeral services for Henry A. Busse, a veteran officer in the Wheeling Township Republican organization, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway.

Mr. Busse served for 24 years as a Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, succeeding the late Al Volz. He retired from active political life in 1962.

He died Saturday at Northwest Community Hospital.

"Henry Busse was the young Turk of his day," recalled Rep. Eugene Schlickman who said he first met Busse in 1956 when he and his wife moved to Arlington Heights from Washington, D.C.

"He was a very sensitive individual who never wanted to hurt anyone,"

Schlickman said.

BORN IN Elk Grove Township in 1897, Busse was a resident of Arlington Heights for 74 years. He was the owner and operator of Henry's Candy and Ice Cream Parlor.

Ethel Kolerus, an area chairman for the Wheeling Township Republicans, recalled Busse as a warm and personable individual.

"He was an outstanding man, not as aggressive as you need to be in politics today," she said.

"It was during Henry's days that the township organization really developed," Schlickman said. "During Al Volz's time there were just the Northwest suburbs, but under Mr. Busse, the township organization developed its own identity."

Henry Busse is survived by two sons, Jon H. Busse, 510 N. Arlington Heights Rd., and Jay H. Busse of Des Plaines.

Other survivors include three grandchildren, four sisters, Alma Taege, thought his youth made it easier for community residents to identify with him.

Bruce Coleman

She also said she was "reluctant to accept the resignation due to the fact that we have no one in mind to fill the post."

"Recreation is the primary business of the park district and we need someone on top of it at all times," she said.

COMMISSIONER Gene Sackett said Friday that he felt Coleman had been required to obey "six bosses" — the park commissioners and superintendent. He said he thought the board should confine itself to policy and have the superintendent

Training In Memphis

Naval Airman Apprentice Alan M. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max I. Taylor of 636 Hickory Dr., Buffalo Grove, has completed the recruit phase of the Navy's "Four-to-Ten Month" active duty program at the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, Memphis, Tenn. He is a 1971 graduate of Wheeling High School.

A brother, Larry Schwartz, also lives in Arlington Heights.

Mr. Busse will be buried in Bohemian National Cemetery, Chicago. Rev. Dr. Paul L. Stumpf of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights will preside at the services.

manent recycling drop off point for newspapers, glass containers, and cans.

PUBLIC RELATIONS commission chairman D. W. Ray Peal said after the brief review of the comments that some of the comments which were on questionnaires with names and addresses included would be acknowledged by the commission in letters, and that the questions and answers would be included in future issues of the newsletter.

Peal said the commission received approximately 30 responses to the questionnaire it sent out with the last village newsletter.

The commission is also studying the results of a survey which former Village Mgr. Matthew Golden mailed to residents in January, 1970.

The results of the survey which questioned local residents asked them to judge the overall services of village government, and to suggest areas for expanded services.

The questionnaire also asked what could be done to improve the police, fire, and public works departments, and asked "in what areas do you feel the general environment of the village might be improved?"

Because Golden left the village in March, 1970 the results of the survey were not tabulated until recently.

At the Friday Public Relations commission meeting Trustee Albert Lang cautioned the commissioners about the survey because many things have changed in Wheeling since the survey was made two years ago.

Christmas Lights Catch Fire

A new string of Christmas tree lights nearly brought tragedy to a Hoffman Estates couple Saturday when the lights caught fire.

The fire started in the kitchen in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lovejoy, 136 Patriot Ln., Hoffman Estates, where the lights were being tested.

"The fire started so quickly, my clothing caught on fire," Mrs. Lovejoy said. She said the lights were laying on the kitchen table when they burst and started to burn.

She had bought the lights recently from W. T. Grant's in Hoffman Estates. Mrs. Lovejoy said the flaming strand of lights was thrown on the back porch and some damage occurred there before the fire was extinguished.

THE MANAGER OF the Grant's store, Ken Dackre, said he had received no other complaints about lights similar to those purchased by Mrs. Lovejoy.

The lights, distributed by Grant's under the brand name "Grant-Lite," carried an Underwriter's Laboratory seal of approval, Mrs. Lovejoy said.

A spokesman in Grant's regional office said he had no knowledge of any other mishap occurring with those lights. An investigation is underway, he added.

Dackre said plans are also under way to take care of the damage to the Lovejoy home.

Mrs. Lovejoy said a fire commissioner planned to examine the house "if the lights had been on a tree, the whole house could have gone up," she said.

The Lovejoy's managed to extinguish the fire without the assistance of the fire department.

"The fire should serve as a reminder to people to be careful handling Christmas decorations and lighting equipment," Mrs. Lovejoy said.

To Receive Federal, State Money

Sewage Treatment Plant Purchase Tops Fund List

A plan to have the Lake County Public works department purchase and operate Buffalo Grove's sewage treatment plant as part of a county wide system is near the top of a list to receive federal and state funding.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson told the Herald yesterday the project, which would take the village out of the sewage treatment business, has a "number four priority rating."

He explained that means the project "fourth in line" to get federal and state money.

Larson said the grant, which would pay for about 80 per cent of the cost of the $2.25 million project, has not been approved.

Larson, however, expects approval and said bids for the work will probably be advertised in January, with construction starting in spring.

THE PROPOSAL was endorsed by the Northeastern Illinois Planning commission Nov. 16 and now must get the final approval from the federal government.

The plan calls for construction of a large sewage treatment plant on Pekara Drive in Lake County, north of Wheeling to serve the Buffalo Grove-Long Grove area.

When the plant is finished, the village will be dismantled and interceptor sewer lines will be installed to channel the sewage to the Pekara Drive plant. The new plant will handle sewage from the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove, Long Grove, Riverwoods and southeastern part of the county.

Sewage from the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove is treated by Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) plants.

A bill is pending in the state legislature for creation of waste water districts in Lake County which would operate in the same manner as MSD in Cook County, and have taxing and bonding power.

Larson said the purchase of the plant by Lake County is not part of the bill, and will take place even if the waste water bill is not passed.

Purchase of the sewage treatment plant is seen as a stimulant to further expansion by Buffalo Grove into Lake County.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong has said the present plant is operating "at or near capacity" and cannot be expanded. This would limit both residential and commercial growth.

Larson said the present village plant could serve some new developments, but Lake County's proposed sewage system would allow for more development, particularly north of Rte. 83.

Speeders Beware: Limits To Be Enforced

The Buffalo Grove Police Department has started enforcing new village speed limits now that new speed signs have been posted on most main streets, Chief Harold Smith said Friday.

Smith said the speed limits will be enforced "on streets we do have posted," and added the village has run out of signs to post the other streets.

"We tried to post the main streets with the signs we had," Smith said.

Smith said a traffic survey is being conducted on newly-repaired Checker Road to determine what the speed limit should be. He added field work will probably be completed today.

A TRAFFIC survey was conducted for the rest of the village last spring and summer because drivers ticketed for speeding were successfully contesting their tickets in court because the village never had a traffic survey.

Village trustees approved the survey, calling for increased speed limits on most streets last month. They took the action reluctantly, and over the objections of residents who felt increased speed limits on residential streets would be dangerous to children.

The survey increased the speed limits from 5 to 10 m.p.h. on most residential streets. The former speed limit was 20 miles per hour on most streets in the village.

The traffic survey was conducted by Traffic engineer Paul C. Box, with village policemen doing the field work from May to September. The policemen measured by radar the actual speed of 3,100 different vehicles at 32 locations of 30 streets in the village.

The survey designated major routes, collector streets and local streets and set the limits for each designation.

Massive Effort Pays Off: Gates Are In

Shiny new red-and-white striped crossing gates were in place at the Soo Line Railroad crossing at Dundee Road in Wheeling on Friday.

The gates were to have been installed by mid-November under an Illinois Commerce Commission order, but the installation was delayed.

The gates are the result of a massive effort by Wheeling village officials and residents which began almost two years ago in January, 1970, with letters to railroad officials, the state highway department, and the Illinois Commerce Commission.

In addition to the red-and-white striped barriers the crossing was also improved with new circuitry to keep the gates and lights from being activated by nearby trains switching tracks instead of trains that were passing the crossing.

The problem with the gates stems from an ICC rule that only crossings which have two tracks or more can be protected with gates.

EVEN THOUGH Dundee Road is a major highway and even though the accident rate at the crossing was above average, the rules said there was no need for a pair of crossing gates.

And so, in February, 1970, Wheeling petitioned the ICC to hold public hearings and to order the railroad to install the gates at the crossing.

Village policemen took videotaped movies of the crossing to present at the hearing. Wheeling Jaycees collected 750 signatures on petitions asking for the gates, and a formal presentation to the ICC was made by the village.

Both the railroad and the state highway department opposed the gates.

The primary part of the village's argument was that the location of the crossing made it difficult for motorists to see the flashing red lights because they were blinded by the sun.

The village also pointed out that because the lights often were activated when trains were only switching on nearby sidings motorists had to outrun trains.

THE ACCIDENT record shows that three persons have been killed and at least eight have been injured in accidents at the crossing since 1953.

After the village made its presentation in May the ICC deliberated on the proposal until October, 1970 when it granted the village's request.

Arrangements to finance the new gates were finalized at that time and then the railroad began designing layouts for the new crossing protection. The layouts were approved by the ICC in April, 1971.

The remaining delay included the time necessary to order the materials for the work. In fact, because of a delay in delivery of the materials needed, the railroad asked for and received from the ICC a postponement of the final installation date from a Sept. 16 to a Nov. 16 deadline. Even so, the gates were not actually installed until last Friday.

Financial arrangements for the new gates are that Wheeling pays up to $11,729.20 out of motor fuel tax rebates, the state highway department pays up to 50 per cent of the cost, but not more than $29,298. The railroad is responsible for the remaining 10 per cent. The annual maintenance costs of more than $2,100 are to be paid by the railroad under the ICC order.

Amvet Post Slates Poster, Essay Contest

The Albert Emmerich Amvets Auxiliary post is holding an Americanism poster and essay contest for sixth graders attending school in Buffalo Grove and nearby villages.

Students are to write on "What Is An American?" Schools involved are Aptakisic Tripp, Kildeer, Joyce Kilmer, Louisa May Alcott and St. Mary's.

Members of the auxiliary have also "adopted" two residents of Addolorata Villa. Members will visit the residents and bake cookies for them.

Patients at Downey Veterans Hospital will also be aided by the auxiliary. Members will help stage a Christmas party and give Christmas presents to the patients.

Toy Safety Laws Needed Parents Say

With Christmas near, safety in toys appears to be a concern of all parents and in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove sentiment appears in favor of laws regulating toy safety.

All those interviewed by the Herald this week said they favored some sort of toy safety law. Most also said parents should closely check all toys used by their children.

MRS. BILLY TEW, 750 N. Green, Wheeling, said that with two small children of her own she favors laws against dangerous toys.

"I'm home all the time, but even then I can't watch them all the time. They can be in another room playing, and my boy, 4, gets into everything," Mrs. Tew said.

"And even if you are watching them, if a toy's dangerous they can get hurt even if you're right there."

MRS. WENDELL SCHWARTZ, 409 Indian Hill, Buffalo Grove, another mother of small children, also favored such laws but said that she was "basically concerned with toys for pre-school children."

"Some kind of law is needed," said Mrs. Schwartz, who has children one and three years old. "A lot of people just go by the ads and don't check toys out. I'm very careful about what I buy but I think a lot of people don't worry."

She said that she would not ban toys, such as darts, that could harm very young children. "But, of course, you don't buy that kind of toy for a pre-school child," she said. "And if you have a pre-school child, you are careful he doesn't get it."

MRS. CHARLES PIERCE, 83 N. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, thinks, "It's up to both" parents and lawmakers to keep toys safe.

"There should be laws," Mrs. Pierce said, "and parents should check toys before they buy them. We do for our two children."

She said that she has discovered wire in the ears of a stuffed dog her son received as a present. "We didn't buy it ourselves, but I'm going to take the wire out." This kind of hidden danger should be prevented by laws, Mrs. Pierce said.

MRS. AL MUNDT, 244 E. Jeffery Ave., Wheeling, said that laws are a necessary "double check" even for parents who are careful in buying toys.

"I definitely favor this kind of law," Mrs. Mundt said. "I have a three year old, a two year old and a newborn baby, and we found dangerous things even in baby toys. We've had to chuck some of the toys because they're dangerous. And you just can't watch the children all the time."

RICHARD HENRY, 279 Rosewood, Buffalo Grove, said that "some sort of regulation" is needed but he also was critical of parents who fail to check toys.

Henry said that he was most disturbed by "the nature of the promotion" of toys. "Children are misled on TV on what toys will do. I think there should be more truth in advertising toys."

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war. Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 99-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Baucos as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Barringer, 40, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Illinois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller, a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Dosh independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 600 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Pading, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

SCOTT NAILOR and the homemaker who has cared for him since he broke his leg in October have made paper chains and other things. Vera Smogorzewski is a homemaker for Child and Family Service of Chicago.

Mother Praises The Service

by WANDALYN RICE

Scott Nailor had ridden his bike in back of the Eagles-on Tonne Apartments in Elk Grove Village hundreds of times, and every once in a while he would fall when he ran into the loose gravel.

But one day early in October, the boy took a spill and landed wrong — with his leg tucked under him.

After a ride to the hospital in the fire department ambulance, Scott and his mother Gloria got the bad news. His leg was broken just below the hip and he was to spend the next eight weeks in a cast from the center of his chest to the tip of his toe.

For Mrs. Nailor the news was especially bad. She has a job at Hale Engineering Co. in the village and supports Scott and her other two boys. She couldn't afford too much time off work to care for her son.

"When you have a husband around, your job doesn't mean very much," she explained. "But, when you're the provider (as she is) it's important. I didn't know what I was going to do."

AT THAT POINT Mrs. Nailor's doctor referred her to the social service agency at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and they told her about the Homemaker Service provided by Child and Family Services of Chicago.

The service will provide a trained homemaker for any family which needs temporary help because of illness, injury or other emergency and charges on a sliding scale related to income. Mrs. Nailor made the necessary arrangements and just a few days after Scott came home from the hospital "Mrs. Smokey," Vera Smogorzewski, came to work.

Since then she has taken care of Scott, helping with his homework and playing games with him. In addition, she cleans house and has the dinner ready when Mrs. Nailor gets home from work.

"It's really been a Godsend to me," Mrs. Nailor said. "I don't know what I would have done without her."

One thing she might have done, she added, was send Scott to stay with her married daughter, but that would have meant the tutor sent from Mark Hopkins School wouldn't have been available.

The Homemaker Service has been active in Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates and Streamwood since May, according to Charles Duffy, social worker for the agency.

SOMETIME NEXT year, assuming that money comes from other area United Funds, the service will be available throughout the Northwest suburbs. Duffy said the agency usually gets referrals from the hospital and other agencies when a family needs help.

In addition, he said the service is looking for more homemakers like Mrs. "Smokey." "They don't need any special training because we train them ourselves," he said.

Scott will only need Mrs. "Smokey" for another week, since he got his cast off Saturday. When she finishes the assignment she will have been with the family for nine weeks.

She and Scott, Mrs. Nailor said, "have gotten along very well. They've had their little scrapes, and she's had to be firm with him, but that's fine with me."

Scott is looking forward to getting back to school and back to the Cub Scout pack he joined while still confined to bed.

And his mother is relieved. "It seems like forever, since it happened," she said. Of course, she admits she will miss Mrs. Smokey. "Coming home and having dinner ready spoils you."

Henry Busse Services Are Tomorrow

Funeral services for Henry A. Busse, a veteran officer in the Wheeling Township Republican organization, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway.

Mr. Busse served for 24 years as a Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, succeeding the late Al Volz. He retired from active political life in 1962.

He died Saturday at Northwest Community Hospital.

"Henry Busse was the young Turk of his day," recalled Rep. Eugene Schlickman who said he first met Busse in 1956 when he and his wife moved to Arlington Heights from Washington, D.C.

"He was a very sensitive individual who never wanted to hurt anyone,"

Schlickman said.

BORN IN Elk Grove Township in 1897, Busse was a resident of Arlington Heights for 74 years. He was the owner and operator of Henry's Candy and Ice Cream Parlor.

Ethel Kolerus, an area chairman for the Wheeling Township Republicans, recalled Busse as a warm and personable individual.

"He was an outstanding man, not as aggressive as you need to be in politics today," she said.

"It was during Henry's days that the township organization really developed," Schlickman said. "During Al Volz's time there were just the Northwest suburbs, but under Mr. Busse, the township organization developed its own identity."

Henry Busse is survived by two sons, Jon H. Busse, 510 N. Arlington Heights Rd., and Jay H. Busse of Des Plaines.

Other survivors include three grandchildren, four sisters, Alma Taege,

Holiday Concerts Slated

Residents of Buffalo Grove and Wheeling will be entertained by local students at a series of holiday season concerts.

The orchestras of Jack London Junior High School will present their annual winter concert at the Wheeling school at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The intermediate and concert orchestras will play a variety of selections, including Christmas music. The members of the beginning orchestra will demonstrate work done in their classes.

Thomas R. Hageman and Mrs. Deborah Shea will conduct the orchestras. The concert is free and open to the public.

Three concerts, including one at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, will also be presented this month by London pupils.

The eighth grade chorus will perform in the Christmas tree area in the museum at noon Dec. 22. The chorus will also sing at the Woodfield Mall in the evening on Dec. 20.

ON DEC. 17, London students will present a winter concert at their own school at 8 p.m.

The girls chorus, the boys ensemble and the mixed chorus — all under the direction of Mrs. Joan King, will perform. The seventh grade chorus, under Sarah Ward, will also perform.

Band director Gail Grossen will lead a brass octet at the concert, and a chorus of sixth graders from the Eugene Field School will sing.

The concerts are free and open to the public.

Adlai Stevenson High School's seventh annual Christmas concert will be held in the auditorium of the Prairie View school at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Dec. 16 and 17.

More than 225 music students will participate in the program including the symphonic band, girl's concert choir, men's chorus, Madrigal singers and a cappella choir.

There is no admission charge, but to be sure of a seat, the public is requested to pick up free tickets in advance by calling the high school.

The 100 piece symphonic band under the direction of Dave Hahley will present Roy Anderson's "Christmas Festival," "Sleigh Ride," Alfred Reed's "Russian Christmas Music," and "Prayer and Dream" from the opera Hansel and Gretel.

THE VOCAL music department under the direction of William Misik, music chairman, will present a wide variety of light and sacred music highlighted by the traditional candlelight processional featuring the a cappella choir.

The girl's concert choir will sing "As It Fell Upon A Night," "Sing Gloria," "Do You Hear What I Hear," and "A Holly Jolly Christmas."

Park Director Coleman Resigns Post

Wheeling Park District Recreation Director Bruce Coleman has resigned his post only five months after he was hired.

Coleman, who came to the district last July, told park board members he planned to return to college and then go into teaching.

The park district board voted to accept the resignation Thursday with only commissioner Lorraine Lark voting against accepting the resignation.

Mrs. Lark explained that she voted against accepting the resignation because she is "reluctant to see him leave."

She said that it was a benefit to the community to have a recreation director as young as Coleman, and that she ent work with the recreation director.

"We're not acting like a board," he said.

Coleman has clashed with park commissioner Gus Nizzi at several recent meetings as to how programs should be run. Most recently Nizzi insisted that Coleman run a "Turkey Trot" cross country race by age classes while Coleman had said he thought competition by grade level would be fairer.

The board met in executive session Thursday before voting to accept the resignation which is effective Jan. 2.

The board also directed the district superintendent to place advertisements seeking a replacement for Coleman.

Coleman came to Wheeling from a job as a track coach at St. Procopius College in Lisle. A 1970 graduate of the University of Illinois, he holds a bachelor of science degree in recreation.

Plan Suit To Get CCPA Recognized

by DOUG RAY

The Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA), representing 16 Rolling Meadows policemen, will file suit in Cook County Circuit Court this week in an attempt to force the City of Rolling Meadows to negotiate with the chapter's local collective bargaining agency.

Sgt. John Flood, CCPA president, told the Herald yesterday, "Our attorney has been directed to prepare a suit asking the city to bargain in good faith with local CCPA representatives."

Flood made the announcement after a Sunday meeting with the Rolling Meadows membership, and said the CCPA will intensify its effort to gain recognition for the patrolmen.

"We will use and choose any efforts necessary to make the aldermen and Mayor (Roland Meyer) change their irresponsible attitudes," Flood said.

Rolling Meadows officials refused to recognize the local CCPA chapter when it was formed in March. Present state statutes allow a municipality to decide whether to recognize a bargaining group for city employees.

Meyer said yesterday, in reply to Flood's comments, he "was waiting for them to file suit." He said he expects Flood "to make a lot of noise to show the men (Rolling Meadows CCPA membership) they are getting something for their money."

MEYER SAID the CCPA may not have sufficient funds needed to fight the city in a lawsuit. "If he has that kind of money he should have defended those men in Waukegan," Meyer said.

He was referring to a strike of CCPA policemen in Waukegan in 1970, which resulted in their firing by Waukegan officials. The Lake County courts originally, and higher courts in subsequent appeals, have upheld the policemen's dismissal.

Flood, who said he "won't be gavelled down by the mayor," plans to attend city council meetings to air the patrolmen's grievances.

"We were taking our time in Rolling Meadows," Flood said, awaiting the outcome of legislative bills which would force municipalities to negotiate with public employee organizations. But the bills are bogged down in legislative committee and another course of action is being taken, he said.

FLOOD SAID the Rolling Meadows patrolmen who belong to the CCPA "are behind the suit," in which the CCPA attorney will subpoena Rolling Meadows officials to testify.

He said Meyer and other city officials have used "psychology to try to push the patrolmen out" of Rolling Meadows. CCPA's effort to gain recognition in Rolling Meadows.

Flood suggested that he might organize pickets at city hall to demonstrate the Sixteen of the city's 20 patrolmen voted last March to join the CCPA for professional representation on economic and job conditions but were not recognized by the city council. The CCPA has been silent on the situation since May, when a final appearance before city officials failed to gain the sought for recognition.

After the incident, in which CCPA vice president Gene Wolf was not allowed to speak to city officials, a number of grievances were released including an alleged thought his youth made it easier for community residents to identify with him.

She also said she was "reluctant to accept the resignation due to the fact that we have no one in mind to fill the post."

"Recreation is the primary business of the park district and we need someone on top of it at all times," she said.

COMMISSIONER Gene Sackett said Friday that he felt Coleman had been required to obey "six bosses" — the park commissioners and superintendent. He said he thought the board should confine itself to policy and have the superintendent Tootie Petersen and Evelyn Helfers, all of Arlington Heights; and Edna Fischer of Twin Lakes. Wis.

A brother, Larry Schwartz, also lives in Arlington Heights.

Mr. Busse will be buried in Bohemian National Cemetery, Chicago. Rev. Dr. Paul L. Stumpf of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights will preside at the services.

Training In Memphis

Navy Airman Apprentice Alan M. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max I. Taylor of 636 Hickory Dr., Buffalo Grove, has completed the recruit phase of the Navy's "Four-to-Ten Month" active duty program at the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, Memphis, Tenn. He is a 1971 graduate of Wheeling High School.

Christmas Lights Catch Fire

A new string of Christmas tree lights under the brand name "Grant-Lite," carried an Underwriter's Laboratory seal of approval, Mrs. Lovejoy said.

A spokesman in Grant's regional office said he had no knowledge of any other mishap occurring with those lights. An investigation is underway, he added.

Dackre said plans are also under way to take care of the damage to the Lovejoy home.

Mrs. Lovejoy said a fire commissioner planned to examine the house. "If the lights had been on a tree, the whole house could have gone up," she said.

The Lovejoy's managed to extinguish the fire without the assistance of the fire department.

"The fire should serve as a reminder to people to be careful handling Christmas decorations and lighting equipment," Mrs. Lovejoy said.

See Whippetree Court Action

The Whippetree Village trailer park sales office was cited for a zoning violation two weeks ago but continues to operate under what county officials say is improper zoning.

The citation was issued to Ernie Stavros, sales manager for the Wheeling trailer park, according to Edmund Kornowicz of the Cook County Department of Building and Zoning.

When told that the office was still open, Kornowicz said the case "is out of our hands." It has been turned over to the state's attorney's office for court action, he said.

"They can be fined $200 a day if they violate our stop order," Kornowicz said. Asked if he would take any more action, he said, "We could call in the sheriff," but added that usually the department allows the courts to settle such cases.

The trailer park sales office is located at 1040 S. Milwaukee Ave., south of the Wheeling village limits. It is located on land zoned for manufacturing.

The owners of the trailer park — whose identities are hidden in a bank trust — have asked the county to allow the sales office property to rezone "mobile home sales and outdoor display."

HOWEVER, TRAILERS have been displayed and on sale at the office for several months and when called by the Herald last Friday, a woman employee said the sales office is "open from 10 to 7 p.m." daily.

Paul Marcy, secretary for the county zoning board of appeals, said that because of a heavy schedule the request to rezone the property from M-1 (restricted manufacturing) to B-5 (general commercial) will not be heard by the board until "March at the earliest" and perhaps not until April.

By that time, the trailer park on McHenry Road in Wheeling will have been in operation for several months. The sales office handles trailers for the park.

Zoning OK'd, But Pocketed, For Townhouse Plan

Zoning for a planned 2,500 unit townhouse-apartment complex in the extreme northeast corner of Palatine Township was approved by the Cook County Board yesterday, but will be pocketed pending an answer to a legal question.

The board, in a 9-5 vote, approved both the zoning change from R-3 single-family to R-6 multiple-family and a special use permit for the property known as the Bittner farm.

Before the approval is passed back to the county Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) and then to the county recorder to make the rezoning official, however, a legal opinion will be sought from the state's attorney's office. Comr. Charles S. Bonk, chairman of the board's zoning and building committee, agreed to the request of Comr. Floyd Fulle that the board seek an updated opinion on the number of votes required for the board to override an objection filed by a neighboring municipality.

The zoning change was granted for a 120-acre parcel in unincorporated area just north of the Pinehurst Manor subdivision, also in unincorporated Cook County. The "L-shaped" property is located on the northeast corner of Long Grove Road and Gardenia Lane.

THE PLANNED development will consist of about 2,500 residential units, comprising condominiums, townhouses and high-rise apartments, and 20 acres of retail shops.

Consideration of the rezoning, delayed several times in the past because of legal questions, came to the county board with the recommendation of the ZBA to approve the rezoning and special use request.

The ZBA also reportedly said in their report that the Village of Palatine had objected to the rezoning, but noted that municipality is not the closest to the property.

The Palatine boundary reportedly is about 5,000 feet from the property at its closest point. The extreme northwest corner of Arlington Heights, however, extends to within 5,000 feet of the property.

In the past, according to Fulle, State's

Atty. Daniel Ward said only an objection from the closest municipality — in this case Arlington Heights — necessitates a three-fourths majority of the vote to approve. Fulle added, "Since then, former State's Attorney John Stamos gave me a verbal opinion that because of the tremendous growth in suburbia, an objection by any municipality within one-and-one-half miles would necessitate the three-fourths vote."

Fulle said this rezoning request is the first one since 1965 in which he recalls anyone pointing out that an objecting municipality is not the closest one to the property in question.

THE COMMISSIONER said he thought Arlington Heights did not object to the project because it is not in any danger of realizing increased flood problems from developments of the property.

Before the vote was taken Fulle asked the board to either delay action on the matter for at least two weeks or vote against rezoning.

Fulle said although the property is not actually in the flood plain of Palatine Township — an area he called the most critical in the county — but if taken out of "raw land" it "will affect critically the flood plain adjacent to it, including Pinehurst Manor."

Another objection — this one from the residents of Pinehurst Manor — reportedly was filed, but also apparently carried little weight.

Theoretically, according to Fulle, an objection from 20 per cent of the residents adjoining the land also makes necessary the three-fourths vote. "But the 20 per cent aspect has never been recognized by the state's attorney's office," Fulle said. "And through the board's whole history it has only recognized objections from municipalities filed with the county clerk."

The Pinehurst Manor objection may have been in vain, however, only because it was filed with the wrong office.

Paul Marcy, secretary of the ZBA, said yesterday the objection was filed with the ZBA and not the county clerk, as required, and therefore did not necessitate the larger majority.

A LIGHT DISPLAY IT ISN'T, but it did add some spark to the sewer work going on in Palatine. Confronted recently with a small technical problem, a worker lowered himself to weld some digging equipment that had broken down. The large sewer interceptor being constructed at Brockway and Colfax was the scene of this last minute repair. Photo by Dom Najolia.

The patrolmen said they were hired with the understanding they could reach the top of the salary schedule within three years but it was later changed to five years.

CCPA officials had hoped for passage of public employee bills in the state legislature during the past session, but the bills were returned to committee. Flood contends that two of the bills, House Bill No. 1 and Senate Bill No. 1112, have a chance of passage this spring.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1 "specifically grants public employee labor organizations the right to bargain collectively with public employers," according to a legislative digest. The senate bill asks for creation of an Illinois Public Employment Relations Act to set up standards for collective bargaining.

Scouts Help Recycle Refuse

Fighting to clean the fight to clean the environment had to be done in Palatine over the weekend.

Eleven boys from Scout Troop 182 at the Palatine Presbyterian Church worked about four hours Saturday to clean up the excess paper and glass left lying behind the Jewel Food Store on Plum Grove Road when the recycling bins were removed from there.

Because of the continuous misuse of the glass and paper bins there, health department officials decided to move the whole thing to behind their office at 49 S.

Greeley St. Once the move was made, however, much of the mess stayed behind. Untied papers and broken glass were left in heaps outside of the bins.

As a service project, the Scouts agreed to get out and help clean the area. Their efforts almost filled one entire paper bin. They also accumulated enough clear glass to fill one-half of that bin.

Although they worked for four hours, there are still some papers and glass in the area that must be removed. This will probably be taken care of by public works crews at a later date.

Mrs. Gibbs Serving As Christmas Seal Chairman

Mrs. Robert C. Gibbs, 243 N. Plum Grove Rd., is serving as Palatine Christmas Seal Chairman for 1971.

A victim of tuberculosis when she was 19, Mrs. Gibbs said she can better understand the value of the Christmas Seal program, much of which goes towards treatment of TB.

This year's Christmas Seal money will also go toward the fight against emphysema, air pollution and smoking.

Ninety-two cents of every Christmas Seal dollar will be spent locally to further TB control programs, provide funds for research, public and professional education and support community action campaigns against air pollution and smoking.

The remaining eight cents goes to the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association to coordinate nationwide programs in research and education.

Mrs. Gibbs does volunteer work for the Palatine Community Combined Appeal and the Cub Scouts, and worked with the Palatine Community Council before it was disbanded. A past chairman of the Campfire Girls Leaders Association, she is now district program chairman for the Campfire Girls and an organizer of the recently formed Citizens for A Better Palatine.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war, Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 80-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Baueles as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Burringer, 40, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Illinois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller, a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Desh independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 800 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Paden, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

SCOTT NAILOR and the homemaker who has cared for him since he broke his leg in October have made paper chains and other things. Vera Smogorzewski is a homemaker for Child and Family Service of Chicago.

Mother Praises The Service

by WANDALYN RICE

Scott Nailor had ridden his bike in back of the Eagles-on-Tonne Apartments in Elk Grove Village hundreds of times, and every once in a while he would fall when he ran into the loose gravel.

But one day early in October, the boy took a spill and landed wrong — with his leg tucked under him.

After a ride to the hospital in the fire department ambulance, Scott and his mother Gloria got the bad news. His leg was broken just below the hip and he was to spend the next eight weeks in a cast from the center of his chest to the tip of his toe.

For Mrs. Nailor the news was especially bad. She has a job at Hale Engineering Co. in the village and supports Scott and her other two boys. She couldn't afford too much time off work to care for her son.

"When you have a husband around, your job doesn't mean very much," she explained. "But, when you're the provider (as she is) it's important. I didn't know what I was going to do."

AT THAT POINT Mrs. Nailor's doctor referred her to the social service agency at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and they told her about the Homemaker Service provided by Child and Family Services of Chicago.

The service will provide a trained homemaker for any family which needs temporary help because of illness, injury or other emergency and charges on a sliding scale related to income. Mrs. Nailor made the necessary arrangements and just a few days after Scott came home from the hospital "Mrs. Smokey," Vera Smogorzewski, came to work.

Since then she has taken care of Scott, helping with his homework and playing games with him. In addition, she cleans house and has the dinner ready when Mrs. Nailor gets home from work.

"It's really been a Godsend to me," Mrs. Nailor said. "I don't know what I would have done without her."

One thing she might have done, she added, was send Scott to stay with her married daughter, but that would have meant the tutor sent from Mark Hopkins School wouldn't have been available.

The Homemaker Service has been active in Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates and Streamwood since May, according to Charles Duffy, social worker for the agency.

SOMETIME NEXT year, assuming that money comes from other area United Funds, the service will be available throughout the Northwest suburbs. Duffy said the agency usually gets referrals from the hospital and other agencies when a family needs help.

In addition, he said the service is looking for more homemakers like Mrs. "Smokey." "They don't need any special training because we train them ourselves," he said.

Scott will only need Mrs. "Smokey" for another week, since he got his cast off Saturday. When she finishes the assignment she will have been with the family for nine weeks.

She and Scott, Mrs. Nailor said, "have gotten along very well. They've had their little scrapes, and she's had to be firm with him, but that's fine with me."

Scott is looking forward to getting back to school and back to the Cub Scout pack he joined while still confined to bed.

And his mother is relieved. "It seems like forever, since it happened," she said. Of course, she admits she will miss Mrs. Smokey. "Coming home and having dinner ready spoils you."

Judge Receives Jayne-Related Documents

A sealed envelope containing documents relating to the murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne yesterday was presented by assistant state's attorneys to Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald to help determine their importance to the defense in the case.

Asst. State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said in the past three months of pre-trial hearings he has turned over to defense attorneys thousands of pages of police and crime lab reports and grand jury testimony to assist them in the preparation of their case.

However, the packet of documents Motherway gave to Judge Fitzgerald yesterday in Criminal Court represents those the state would like to withhold from the defense.

A recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling requires the state and defense, through the filing of motions for discovery, to turn over prior to the trial evidence they accumulated during investigations. If one side refuses to voluntarily provide the other with particular information, the presiding judge determines its importance and whether it should be provided.

Robert D. Boyle, one of the four defense attorneys in the Jayne murder, objected yesterday to the absence of one page from a Palatine Police report that was not included with the rest of the information.

"We have no explanation of its whereabouts," Motherway told him. Judge Fitzgerald gave Motherway 10 days in which to try to locate the missing page.

Boyle also suggested Motherway submit a complete list of titles and pages of all documents given to the defense to date.

"Because of the voluminous amount of records, there could be room for error," Boyle said, suggesting the list as a safeguard to keep track of the information.

"This case, if nothing else, has to be, in terms of documentation, the most massive thing I've ever heard of," Motherway said, objecting to Boyle's idea because of the additional work it would bring his office.

"I think we have complied with the discovery motions," Motherway said. "The absence of one page should not stand as a bar to compliance."

Judge Fitzgerald said he would evaluate the documents in the sealed envelope and make his determination at a hearing set for Dec. 28. Following this, the defense attorneys would be given 20 days in which to answer the state's motion for discovery and begin handing over evidence to them.

Charged in four two-count indictments of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the death of George Jayne last Oct. 28 are George's brother Silas, of rural Elgin; Joseph LaPlaca, of 321 McClure, Elgin; Edwin Nefeld, of 22341 Sherman Rd.; and Jubus Barnes, of 7318 S. University, Chicago.

Boyle suggested yesterday a trial date be set soon on the case, which has dragged on since the arrest of the men in May.

"If a date isn't set in at least four months, this could go on indefinitely," he said.

The four have been held in Cook County Jail without bond since May. All have pleaded not guilty.

Judge Favors Development Of Howie-In-The Hills Area

by NANCY COWGER

Judge William Campbell, presiding in a Cities Savings and Loan Association liquidation hearing, indicated yesterday he prefers to see holdings of the association, including Howie-In-The-Hills, developed for housing before any payments are made to depositors in the bankrupt firm.

The defunct subdivision is located at the north end of Hoffman Estates adjacent to Palatine Road.

No distribution of assets held by the firm is possible, until the appeals on a decision by Judge Campbell giving preference to late depositors over early ones are completed, he said. But a plan for liquidation can be adopted, so that the receivership can proceed immediately once authorization is received, Judge Campbell told the depositors.

"The plan that returns the largest amount to the depositors at the earliest possible date is the plan I will adopt," said Campbell, senior judge of the U.S. District Court.

JUDGE CAMPBELL made it plain he thinks joint development of the real estate holdings of the association, including the Howie-In-The-Hills development, by the receivership and a developing firm, would return the highest amount of money.

However, he said, it would require more time than auctioning off the land now to the highest bidder.

"The real question before me is 'are you going to get the most out of this by selling it now at forced sale under the hammer . . . or by developing it with builders and selling houses on lots,'" he said.

The liquidation is not the same as a federal reorganization proceeding, said Judge Campbell, although it has many similarities, chiefly that the assets in question are real estate.

"In every reorganization I've ever had in this court, due to effective work on the part of trustees and receivers, I've been able to pay off creditors 100 cents on the dollar. That's what I want to do here. That's what I've appointed competent receivers to do," he said.

Judge Campbell instructed the depositors present, an estimated 150 persons, to write to him personally, indicating whether they would prefer immediate sale of the land or the development proposal.

THOSE WHO DO not speak English were invited to talk to attorneys representing them and the receivership. The savings house was in a heavily Polish neighborhood, and many of the depositors speak only Polish.

Judge Campbell allowed only a few questions before adjourning the session before the angry crowd of depositors. One of those was put by Harry Mazzoni, whom many of the 13,000 depositors recognize as their spokesman.

ommended the officials be prosecuted, but that Cook County and state authorities had not acted on his recommendation.

MAZZONI ACCUSED Judge Campbell of failure to grant immunity to one of the responsible persons. Judge Campbell said he did not have the power to do so.

Yesterday's session is a separate case from a Teamsters Union Pension Fund suit, pending before the Cook County Circuit Court, which alleges fraud on the part of former Hoffman Estates village officials in spreading a special assessment on the Howie-In-The-Hills development.

Santa Adds To 'Busy Schedule'

Santa Claus has added several appearances to his busy schedule in Palatine.

He will appear in the lobby of the Palatine Savings and Loan Association, 100 W. Palatine Rd., from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday. He also will be there next weekend at the same hours.

In addition, Santa will be at the Willow Creek shopping area at Route 53 and Northwest Highway at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Santa's Mailbox At Brockway, Palatine

Youngsters who would like to file a formal request with Santa Claus for holiday gifts are being given the chance this year by the Palatine Jaycees.

Letters to Santa can be deposited in Santa's Mail Box, which has been set up by the Jaycees at the southeast corner of Brockway and Palatine Road near the community affairs bulletin board.

Mail will be collected from Dec. 4 to 19. In order for Santa to answer the letters, all mail should be clearly marked with a name and return address.

Norman Knapp Is 'Jaycee Of Month'

Norman Knapp, 124 Elizabeth Ct., Palatine, has been named Palatine Jaycee of the Month for November.

He served as chairman of the Miss Palatine pageant, which was sponsored by the Jaycees.

Knapp is a supervisor in the electronic exchange engineering section of GTE Automatic Electric Inc., Northlake. He joined the Palatine Jaycees in May.

Rolling Meadows Officials Reluctant

Plan Suit To Force CCPA Recognition

by DOUG RAY

The Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA), representing 16 Rolling Meadows policemen, will file suit in Cook County Circuit Court this week in an attempt to force the City of Rolling Meadows to negotiate with the chapter's local collective bargaining agency.

Sgt. John Flood, CCPA president, told the Herald yesterday, "Our attorney has been directed to prepare a suit asking the city to bargain in good faith with local CCPA representatives."

Flood made the announcement after a Sunday meeting with the Rolling Meadows membership, and said the CCPA will intensify its effort to gain recognition for the patrolmen.

"We will use and choose any efforts necessary to make the aldermen and Mayor (Roland Meyer) change their irresponsible attitudes," Flood said.

Rolling Meadows officials refused to recognize the local CCPA chapter when it was formed in March. Present state statutes allow a municipality to decide whether to recognize a bargaining group for city employees.

Meyer said yesterday, in reply to Flood's comments, he "was waiting for them to file suit." He said he expects Flood "to make a lot of noise to show the men (Rolling Meadows CCPA membership) they are getting something for their money."

MEYER SAID the CCPA may not have sufficient funds needed to fight the city in a lawsuit. "If he has that kind of money he should have defended those men in Waukegan," Meyer said.

He was referring to a strike of CCPA policemen in Waukegan in 1970, which resulted in their firing by Waukegan officials. The Lake County courts originally, and higher courts in subsequent appeals, have upheld the policemen's dismissal.

Flood, who said he "won't be gaveled down by the mayor," plans to attend city council meetings to air the patrolmen's grievances.

"We were taking our time in Rolling Meadows," Flood said, awaiting the outcome of legislative bills which would force municipalities to negotiate with public employee organizations. But the bills are bogged down in legislative committee and another course of action is being taken, he said.

FLOOD SAID the Rolling Meadows patrolmen who belong to the CCPA "are behind the suit," in which the CCPA attorney will subpoena Rolling Meadows officials to testify.

He said Meyer and other city officials have used "psychology to try to push the patrolmen out" of Rolling Meadows. Flood suggested that he might organize pickets at city hall to demonstrate the CCPA's effort to gain recognition in Rolling Meadows.

Sixteen of the city's 20 patrolmen voted last March to join the CCPA for professional representation on economic and job conditions but were not recognized by the city council. The CCPA has been silent on the situation since May, when a final appearance before city officials failed to gain the sought for recognition.

After the incident, in which CCPA vice president Gene Wolf was not allowed to speak to city officials, a number of grievances were released including an alleged substandard salary schedule and an alleged breach of the patrolmen's contracts. The patrolmen said they were hired with the understanding they could reach the top of the salary schedule within three years but it was later changed to five years.

CCPA officials had hoped for passage of public employee bills in the state legislature during the past session, but the bills were returned to committee. Flood contends that two of the bills, House Bill No. 1 and Senate Bill No. 1113, have a chance of passage this spring.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1 "specifically grants public employee labor organizations the right to bargain collectively with public employers," according to a legislative digest. The senate bill asks for creation of an Illinois Public Employment Relations Act to set up standards for collective bargaining.

Townhouse Zoning OKd, Shelved

Zoning for a planned 2,500 unit townhouse-apartment complex in the extreme northeast corner of Palatine Township was approved by the Cook County Board yesterday, but will be pocketed pending an answer to a legal question.

The board, in a 9-6 vote, approved both the zoning change from R-3 single-family to R-6 multiple-family and a special use permit for the property known as the Bittner farm.

Before the approval is passed back to the county Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) and then to the county recorder to make the rezoning official, however, a legal opinion will be sought from the state's attorney's office. Comr. Charles S. Bonk, chairman of the board's zoning and building committee, agreed to the request of Comr. Floyd Fulle that the board seek an updated opinion on the number of votes required for the board to override an objection filed by a neighboring municipality.

The zoning change was granted for a 120-acre parcel in unincorporated area just north of the Pinehurst Manor subdivision, also in unincorporated Cook County. The "L-shaped" property is located on the northeast corner of Long Grove Road and Gardenia Lane.

THE PLANNED development will consist of about 2,500 residential units, comprising condominiums, townhouses and high-rise apartments, and 20 acres of retail shops.

Consideration of the rezoning, delayed several times in the past because of legal questions, came to the county board with the recommendation of the ZBA to approve the rezoning and special use request.

The ZBA also reportedly said in their report that the Village of Palatine had objected to the rezoning, but noted that municipality is not the closest to the property.

The Palatine boundary reportedly is about 5,500 feet from the property at its closest point. The extreme northwest corner of Arlington Heights, however, extends to within 5,000 feet of the property.

In the past, according to Fulle, State's Atty. Daniel Ward said only an objection from the closest municipality — in this case Arlington Heights — necessitates a three-fourths majority of the vote to approve. Fulle added, "Since then, former State's Attorney John Stamos gave me a verbal opinion that because of the tremendous growth in suburbia, an objection by any municipality within one-and-one-half miles would necessitate the three-fourths vote."

Fulle said this rezoning request is the first one since 1965 in which he recalls anyone pointing out that an objecting municipality is not the closest one to the property in question.

THE COMMISSIONER said he thought Arlington Heights did not object to the project because it is not in any danger of realizing increased flood problems from developments of the property.

Before the vote was taken Fulle asked the board to either delay action on the matter for at least two weeks or vote against rezoning.

Fulle said although the property is not actually in the flood plain of Palatine Township — an area he called the most critical in the county — but if taken out of "raw land" it "will affect critically the flood plain adjacent to it, including Pinehurst Manor."

Another objection — this one from the residents of Pinehurst Manor — reportedly was filed, but also apparently carried little weight.

Theoretically, according to Fulle, an objection from 20 per cent of the residents adjoining the land also makes necessary the three-fourths vote. "But the 20 per cent aspect has never been recognized by the state's attorney's office," Fulle said. "And through the board's whole history it has only recognized objections from municipalities filed with the county clerk."

The Pinehurst Manor objection may have been in vain, however, only because it was filed with the wrong office.

Paul Marcy, secretary of the ZBA, said yesterday the objection was filed with the ZBA and not the county clerk, as required, and therefore did not necessitate the larger majority.

There will be three performances. Wednesday and Thursday's performance will start at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday's performance will begin at 8 p.m. Admission is $1.

Thief Takes $600 In Cash And Gems

A Rolling Meadows couple lost more than $600 in cash and jewelry in an apartment burglary that occurred last Thursday or Friday.

Douglas M. Grezco, 4722 Arbor Dr., told Rolling Meadows police his apartment in the Meadow Trace complex was burglarized either Thursday or Friday while he and his wife were out. Grezco reported the theft Friday morning.

He said he and his wife were missing $75, a pear-shaped diamond ring worth $500, a pearl ring and several pairs of earrings.

Police said there were no signs that the apartment had been broken into, and speculated that the thief might have had a key.

The burglar bypassed a coin collection worth about $600, stereo equipment and camera equipment, according to police.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war. Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 88-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Baquero as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Barringer, 40, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Illinois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller; a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state, have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Desh independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 600 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Pong, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

The Market

Profit taking closed the door on a seven-day advance on the New York Stock Exchange. The day's widest swingers generally pointed lower and key market averages retreated. The Dow Jones Average had a net loss of 3.87 at 855.72. Of the 1,741 issues on the tape, 764 gained and 701 declined. Prices were mixed in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

No Water Source Decision Before 1973 For Village

Although Mount Prospect officials have stated continually that they think a water shortage is imminent for both the village and the Northwest suburbs, it now appears it will be 1973 before Mount Prospect chooses its future water source.

"It will be about 1973 before a decision on our future path," Mount Prospect Village Engineer Leonard H. Dicke said. "Our present well program runs through 1972."

Well water is just one of three options open to the village, Dicke said. The other two are purchasing water from Chicago, as Des Plaines does, or running a pipeline to Lake Michigan. The DAMP Water Commission (Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine) is exploring the feasibility of using lake water.

Dicke said that Mount Prospect is committed to using well water, as a $1.45 million well water system improvement program was approved in July.

However, Dicke is starting to lay the groundwork for that eventual decision on where the water will come from.

"We're going to make a street survey of Mount Prospect to indicate the types of building and occupancy (single family and so forth) and all the vacant property," Dicke said. "Then once I get a tabulation of the zoning for the vacant property, we will be able to determine — based on the present boundaries and property — how many more families will be possible to include in the village."

The engineering department will then use this projected population figure to determine the village's future water requirements.

"WE WILL THEN be able to determine if future well development could supply the necessary amount of water," Dicke said. "We will also be able to determine the cost of continuing to use wells."

At this point, an evaluation will be made on the cost and potential of the three proposals. The engineering department would then make a recommendation to the village board.

The $1.45 million water system improvement program provided for increased storage capacity, deepening of some of the present wells, and building two more wells. The action was based on a report prepared by then Acting Village Engr. Bill McManamon.

At the time the improvement of the present system was adopted, most trustees felt the program provided a solution to the immediate problem. But, some indicated they were opposed to keeping Mount Prospect dependent on wells alone for future water.

An engineering study by DAMP in 1969 has indicated that the Northwest suburban well water supply will be exhausted by 1979.

WORKING TOWARD getting water from the lake, DAMP has asked the State of Illinois for an allocation that would permit the four member towns to divert 25.9 cubic feet per second of water from the lake.

However, DAMP Chairman Robert F. Teepe of Mount Prospect has said that a source in the state's waterways division intimated it would be from two to three years before any allocations are made. He figured about another three years would be needed to construct a pipeline to the lake.

The other source, Chicago water, has been used by Des Plaines since 1965. At present, two-thirds of Des Plaines' water comes from Chicago, the rest from seven local wells. The Des Plaines city engineer, Robert E. Bowen, has said he is well pleased with the system they have worked out and would even consider phasing out Des Plaines' wells.

Agenda For Board Meeting Listed

The Mount Prospect Village Board is scheduled to discuss the following topics at tonight's meeting at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.:

- appointment of new police chief;
- liquor license amendment;
- permit application for School Street bridge;
- petition to change name of Chimney Lane;
- and extension of hours for bowling alleys.

SPEECHLESS AND surprised, 81-year-old Christian Lay, High School Marching Band for a plaque showing appreciation for their "most avid fan."

Band Honors 81 Year Old 'Avid Fan'

by KAREN RUGEN

He was thunderstruck as he opened the door on more than 75 smiling faces of the Forest View High School Marching Band.

As band member Barbara Jordan handed him the plaque dubbing him "our most avid fan," he smiled shyly. And he kept right on smiling, an embarrassed grin, as more than 75 voices called him "a jolly good fellow."

Since September, 81-year-old Christian Lay has been applauding the band during practices and football game half-time performances. Yesterday he got the applause. And he didn't know what to say.

"Were you surprised?" band director Fred Elliot asked the gentleman. "Yah," he answered looking slowly around the quiet band room.

"Did you know you were going to get this?" Elliot asked. "Nah," he shook his head, then whispered something to the band director.

"Mr. Lay tells me he isn't much of a public speaker," Elliot told his band. "He wants me to convey to you his thanks for the thoughtfulness of this plaque. He has enjoyed all your rehearsals."

As he left the band room, Lay talked about how, since he moved to the suburbs three months ago, he has almost every day walked across the lawn of the Arlington Heights high school to hear the kids practice.

"I used to even get up from my dinner to go hear," the retired baker said. "I used to be in a band — a drum and bugle corps. I quit two years ago. But I still belong to the Chicago Master Bakers Drum and Bugle Corps."

Slowly, he walked through the high school glass doors and toward his condominium apartment across Goebbert Road, clutching the plaque. He paused and said, "I think they're good. They go to be the best."

Pollution-It Depends On Nation

"I heard one African from a small country say he'd love to see smoke rising from a smokestack. Concern about pollution — it depends on the nation."

That was one conclusion reached by Fredric C. Olds, a Prospect Heights resident, who took a five-week trip to Europe recently to learn what the rest of the world had to say about nuclear energy and the environment. Olds, senior editor of "Power Engineering" Magazine attended international conferences in Paris, Geneva and Berlin.

"It depends on if you're a 'have' or 'have-not' country," said the former engineer in heavy industry and environmental control. "If you're a 'have,' you have the luxury to spend money to make sure the smoke coming from stacks is the purest. If you're a poor country, you're delighted to have any form of production for your people."

Olds made another discovery after individual interviews with nuclear authorities in government, industry, science and at universities in Munich, Brussels and Luxembourg.

"When scientists get together to talk about the environment, they tend to talk man-to-man as scientists. But in official gatherings, the subject becomes overwhelmingly political," he explained. "You find that in general the European countries are in favor of nuclear power because they are low in other fuels. But you can't get answers from the Iron Curtain countries. You ask the Russian delegates if they have enough fuel, they say they have enough. You ask them if they have any problems, they say they have none. There's no way of knowing what's propaganda and what is not."

OLDS AND HIS wife took the trip to find out more about European countries. But, almost as a bonus and with no effort, the two discovered several things they didn't know about the United States.

"In talking with those people we began to see the U.S. through their eyes and we saw a sad thing," he said. "The U.S. has established itself as a leader of the free world. And to be worthy of other countries' trust, a leader should know where it is going and how it is going to get there. But we found a bewilderment because people can't understand where we are going technologically, politically, socially and economically."

"I love this country — it's my home. And it was very painful for me to see the U.S. this way — as a nation wallowing around in their decisions, squandering our best technical brains in red tape."

Henry Busse Services Are Tomorrow

Funeral services for Henry A. Busse, a veteran officer in the Wheeling Township Republican organization, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway.

Mr. Busse served for 24 years as a Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, succeeding the late Al Volz. He retired from active political life in 1962.

He died Saturday at Northwest Community Hospital.

"Henry Busse was the young Turk of his day," recalled Rep. Eugene Schlickman who said he first met Busse in 1956 when he and his wife moved to Arlington Heights from Washington, D.C.

"He was a very sensitive individual who never wanted to hurt anyone," Schlickman said.

BORN IN Elk Grove Township in 1897, Busse was a resident of Arlington Heights for 74 years. He was the owner

E-Hart Girls Work To Aid The Needy

Nearly 175 E-Hart Girls from Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights will fill Santa Claus' bag this Christmas.

The girls are now making ornaments which will be hung on two Christmas trees for two needy families in the Northwest suburbs. The girls are also collecting packaged and canned food items which will be presented to the families.

The decorated trees and food gifts will be given to Santa Claus at the E-Hart Christmas party on Dec. 18. Santa will then deliver the presents to the two families. The party will begin at 2 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 Seegun Ave. in Mount Prospect.

"The girls wanted to do this as a gesture of friendship and as a good deed for Christmas time," said Mrs. William Strong, E-Hart leader. She said the project is a first for the group.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war. Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 94-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Baueles as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Barringer, 60, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Ill.

nois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller, a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Dosh independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 600 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Pading, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

The Market

Profit taking closed the door on a seven-day advance on the New York Stock Exchange. The day's widest swingers generally pointed lower and key market averages retreated. The Dow Jones Average had a net loss of 3.87 at 855.72. Of the 1,741 issues on the tape, 764 gained and 701 declined. Prices were mixed in moderately active trading on the American Exchange.

Deer horns, a kerosene lamp, and an old wooden wheel (from a covered wagon?) are seldom displayed in local store windows. However, they are all part of this week's "western window" at Mount Prospect's Book Nook.

Dorothy Arns, store owner, planned the display to go along with Sunday's autograph party for Richard Dunlop. "Great Trails of the West," written by the Arlington Heights author, has just been published by Abingdon Press.

During the past five years, the author and his family have explored trails which played an important part in the opening of the territory west of the Mississippi: the Santa Fe Trail, Oregon Trail, Chisholm Trail, and others.

Among the crowd at Sunday's autograph party were former Boy Scouts from the area who had accompanied the author along one of the trails.

Mr. Dunlop is a free-lance writer and president of the Society of American Travel Writers. He has written several other books and many magazine articles.

AWARDS WERE given to several local Boy Scouts at the recent Troop 153 Parent Night. Michael Plichta received his Tenderfoot award; Taras Hazek, First Class; and John Kraft, Star Scout. Merit badges were awarded to Dave Dougherty, John Kraft, Taras Hazek, Steve Booth, and Paul Prchal.

Linda Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Park, 6 Rob Rd., has been initiated into Alpha Phi social sorority at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind. She is a junior majoring in English.

Christmas songs, Negro spirituals, and Broadway tunes will be interpreted in dance this week by members of Orchestis at Prospect High School. The 50 girls in the dance group will present their Christmas concert Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Tickets are available from members of Orchestis or at the door for $1. Thursday's performance begins at 7:30 p.m., and Saturday's at 8 p.m.

Directing the concert will be Mrs. Sue Hayosh. This year's Orchestis officers are Sue Macchia, president; Joyce Jones, vice president; Karen Greist, secretary; Patti Richter, treasurer; and Jane Armenakis, historian.

TALE ENDER: "How did you manage to get an 'E' for scholarship and a '4' (needs to improve) for effort?" a local parent asked his son.

"Easy!" explained the boy. "I talk a lot while I'm doing excellent work."

Program Allows Students To Drive Off Campus For Lunch

Prospect High School students are now allowed to drive off the school campus, for lunch under the terms of a trial program which started yesterday and lasting until Dec. 22.

A faculty committee and a student council committee have been working on the plan since September. Fifty students have already signed up for the program. To participate, a student must have parent approval and a special car sticker.

"We indicated we needed careful ways of measuring the workings of the program," said Howard Sandlund, director of student activities. "The student council, after some negotiating, then came up with stipulations for the program."

Student council members have agreed to cancel the program if any of the following occurs because of the plan:

—more than 10 complaints from the faculty on noise, tardiness and truancy.

—more than five parent complaints to the administration during the trial period.

—more than five complaints from other sources such as neighbors, merchants, other schools.

—a "noticeable" increase of "undesirable" individuals on campus.

—a "noticeable" increase in traffic violations and accidents.

At the end of the trial period, the student council and faculty will evaluate the program. "I assume that if both agree it is going fine, then we'll continue the program," Sandlund said.

The committees began work on the program after a High School Dist. 214 school board permitted such driving off-campus at the choice of school officials. John Hersey High School and Forest View High Schools in Arlington Heights, and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village already have such a program.

County OKs Shop Center

The Cook County Board has approved a rezoning request that will allow construction of a service-oriented shopping center on the south side of Algonquin Road in unincorporated Mount Prospect.

The board's action last week rezoned the 2.2-acre site from general residential to general business use. The developer, Donald Geller of Northfield, said his company could now begin to lease the proposed 11 to 13 units in the center, which is about 175 feet east of Briarwood Drive.

The proposed one-story building will take up 27,000 square feet and will contain among others a television repair shop, a beauty shop and barber shop. The stores will face Algonquin Road, rather than the residential section nearby, Geller said.

According to the plans, there will be parking space for 128 vehicles, and storm sewers will run along the property.

Geller said that he has done similar centers in this area, including ones in Arlington Heights and Schaumburg. He said there is no set date for construction to begin but it would probably be some time next year.

Ethel Kolerus, an area chairman for the Wheeling Township Republicans, recalled Busse as a warm and personable individual.

"He was an outstanding man, not as aggressive as you need to be in politics today," she said.

"It was during Henry's days that the township organization really developed," Schlickman said. "During Al Voiz's time there were just the Northwest suburbs, but under Mr. Busse, the township organization developed its own identity."

Henry Busse is survived by two sons, Jon H. Busse, 510 N. Arlington Heights Rd.; and Jay H. Busse of Des Plaines.

Other survivors include three grandchildren, four sisters, Alma Taege, Tootie Petersen and Evelyn Hellers, all of Arlington Heights; and Edna Fischer of Twin Lakes, Wis.

A brother, Larry Schwartz, also lives in Arlington Heights.

Mr. Busse will be buried in Bohemian National Cemetery, Chicago. Rev. Dr. Paul L. Stumpf of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights will preside at the services.

Rock Band To Play At Christmas Ball

Revelation Inc., a rock band will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday at the annual Hersey High School Christmas ball.

The dance entitled "Twas the Nite Before Christmas" is sponsored by the senior class.

The Christmas Ball Queen will be selected by couples attending the dance from a court of Dr. Gardzewski, Patti Swartz, Nancy Morava, Sally Benson and Mary Ellen Naples.

SOS Needs Toys

Some 65 Hersey High School students in the Service Over Self (SOS) Club are collecting used toys for needy children in their second annual Christmas toy drive.

Will Kozlowski, Hersey teacher and club sponsor, said students will pick up toys, or residents may bring toys by the school through Dec. 17.

The students will check out the toys to make sure they work and will wrap the presents, he said. There also will be an attempt to personalize the presents with the names of children when names are available.

Kozlowski said toys will be distributed by Headstart and other Northwest suburban agencies.

Last year some 500 toys were collected, he said.

MOTHERS FIND relief from the rain, side to register their children for Mount Prospect Park District classes.

Long Wait In The Rain For Young Park Patrons

Some Mount Prospect residents yesterday paid a penalty for being early.

Mothers and their children stood in the rain in front of Lions Park Recreation Center waiting to register for Mount Prospect Park District ballet and preschool classes. Some arrived as early as 7:30 a.m., soggy by the time the center doors opened at 9:30 a.m. for 10 a.m. registration.

"I'm cold," a 3-year-old complained, tugging his mother's wet coat sleeve. She pulled his hood up around his ears, while one of her line-standing counterparts threatened to write the park district commissioners.

As the residents stood outside, they could see park district employees inside the building. "Why don't they let us in?"

Judge Receives Jayne-Related Documents

A sealed envelope containing documents relating to the murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne yesterday was presented by assistant state's attorneys to Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald to help determine their importance to the defense in the case.

Asst. State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said in the past three months of pre-trial hearings he has turned over to defense attorneys thousands of pages of police and crime lab reports and grand jury testimony to assist them in the preparation of their case.

However, the packet of documents Motherway gave to Judge Fitzgerald yesterday in Criminal Court represents those the state would like to withhold from the defense.

A recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling requires the state and defense, through the filing of motions for discovery, to turn over prior to the trial evidence they accumulated during investigations. If one side refuses to voluntarily provide the other with particular information, the presiding judge determines its importance and whether it should be provided.

Robert D. Boyle, one of the four defense attorneys in the Jayne murder, objected yesterday to the absence of one page from a Palatine Police report that was not included with the rest of the information.

"We have no explanation of its whereabouts," Motherway told him. Judge Fitzgerald gave Motherway 10 days in which to try to locate the missing page.

Boyle also suggested Motherway submit a complete list of titles and pages of all documents given to the defense to date.

"Because of the voluminous amount of records, there could be room for error," Boyle said, suggesting the list as a safeguard to keep track of the information.

"This case, if nothing else, has to be, in terms of documentation, the most massive thing I've ever heard of," Motherway said, objecting to Boyle's idea bethey wondered.

Because the park district staff had set the 9:30 a.m. ruling for smoother registration, according to Dale Johnson, recreation supervisor.

"This happens all the time," said Johnson. "We tell them we won't let them in until 9:30 a.m. and they come early anyway. Then once they're inside and have signed the registration waiting list, they leave. And then they're not around when their name is called."

The park district had to set a special registration day for pre-school and ballet registration because of the large number of participants. But, according to Johnson, only 200 families signed up for the programs so far. He said there are still openings.

cause of the additional work it would bring his office.

"I think we have complied with the discovery motions," Motherway said. "The absence of one page should not stand as a bar to compliance."

Judge Fitzgerald said he would evaluate the documents in the sealed envelope and make his determination at a hearing set for Dec. 28. Following this, the defense attorneys would be given 20 days in which to answer the state's motion for discovery and begin handing over evidence to them.

Incomes Under Poverty Level

by DOUG RAY

More than 10,000 persons living in six area townships serviced by the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows have incomes below the federal poverty level, according to a report by the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity (CCOEO).

The 10,520 residents with substandard incomes make up 3.23 per cent of the total population in the six townships, said Rena Trevor, vice president of the CCOEO governing board.

She said the number of persons with incomes below the poverty level, which is a maximum of $3,800 for a family of four and $600 additional for each extra family member, represents 2,630 families.

The six townships include Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg, Maine, Elk Grove and Barrington.

Arlington Heights has 533 residents with incomes below the poverty level, Palatine 268 and Rolling Meadows 83. Des Plaines has 578 in the category; Elk Grove Village, 71; Hoffman Estates, 159; Mount Prospect, 170; and Schaumburg, 156.

"The report was compiled in anticipation of the upcoming CCOEO budget," said Mrs. Trevor, who hopes the center will "get a fair share of the funding."

Mrs. Trevor is secretary of the center which receives half of its monies from the federal Office of Economic Opportunity and the remaining funds from private donations, she said.

THE MEDIAN ECONOMIC rank of all municipalities within the six townships is 53rd out of the total 193 Chicagoland suburbs, according to Mrs. Trevor, who says the economic rating is "misleading."

She said East Chicago Heights, which has been considered a low economic area, has only 298 poverty persons according to the report, while the Northwest Opportunity Center area has nearly five times that number. She said East Chicago Heights has an opportunity center similar to the one in Rolling Meadows.

The Rolling Meadows center is the lone agency servicing the needy from 15 Northwest suburban communities from Roselle to Barrington.

Plan Ice Hockey League For Boys

The River Trails Park District is organizing an ice hockey league for boys in fifth grade through high school. It will start about Dec. 23.

Games will be played behind the park district pool on Euclid Avenue from 4 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 7 a.m. to noon and 3:45 to 8:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. The registration fee is $5 per boy.

The park district has purchased equipment for two goalies, but other participants must provide their own equipment. Organizational meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Indian Grove Gym and at 4 p.m. at the Fehnanville Gym.

"The large area we serve is a problem," she said. Less than half of the poverty residents in the six townships receive aid through the Northwest Opportunity Center. About 1,200 persons have been serviced through the center this year.

"The biggest problem in raising money," she said, "is making people believe there are poor people here." She believes most people still consider the needy to be migrant workers, but she said "that is not the case."

Mrs. Trevor and other representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center will seek financial help from local municipal leaders within the next two months. She said money will be sought for "outreach workers" who contact needy families throughout the six townships.

THE CENTER'S governing board has established a list of priorities for the needy with housing atop the list. Health is the second area of concern.

Mrs. Trevor considers the six township infant mortality rate to be high compared to other areas within Cook County. She said about 21 children die within three years of birth out of every 1,000 babies born in the six local townships. The rate is compared to only 2.3 in Evanston and 35.5 in Chicago Heights.

New Villagers Get Scavenger Service

Starting Jan. 1, 1972, all scavenger service for the newly annexed area of Mount Prospect will be handled by the Barrington Trucking Co. of Barrington. Barrington currently serves the village.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said residents will be notified by the scavenger service of their trash collection day.

Eppley also said that although the village ordinance on refuse collection does not mention the use of bags for refuse, they are "acceptable and encouraged." Reading the ordinance we included with the welcoming package of information could give the impression we don't allow bags. That's not true, and I'm in the process of getting the ordinance changed," he said.

Skating lessons also will be available for $1 for ages four years through adult at an ice rink to be set up by the River Trails Park District office, 1313 Burning Bush Ln., Mount Prospect.

Hersey Concert Set

Hersey High School students will present their annual Christmas concert at 3 p.m. Sunday at the high school gymnasium.

Participating in the program will be the Concert Choir, Chamber Choir, Glee Club, Freshmen Girls' Chorus, the Symphonic Winds and the Concert Band.

Selections will include Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," "The Little Drummer Boy" and "Christmas Festival." The song, "The Snow Legend," will be mimed by members of the deaf education class.

The concert is free and open to the public. The school is at 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

Board OKs Rand Road Study — Zoning Changed

The Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night approved adoption of the Rand Road Area Study with the important provision that all land parcels designated R-5 multi-family be changed to R-3 single-family.

The board spent considerable time discussing the possible creation of a new R-P zoning classification which would fall between the high density R-5 and low-density single-family classifications.

In changing the multiple-family designations in the Rand Road Study to R-3, the board expressed an interest in eventually adopting the new R-P zoning category. However, on the advice of village Atty. Jack Selgel, the board did not include the R-P designation in its adoption of the Rand Road Study.

The change from multi-to single-family designations was the result of opposition from residents during two previous hearings on the Rand Road Study, particularly over a 20-acre site just west of John Hersey High School.

The board felt that in the interest of consistency, it had to change all multiple designations to the lower density R-3 single-family zoning.

The principle author of the Rand Road Study, Joe Kessler, said he had no vehement objections to the change and expressed a strong desire to see the R-P zoning category brought into existence.

The new zoning classification arose out of discussion by the village comprehensive plan committee. As suggested to date, it would spell out a mixed land use pattern requiring at least 40 per cent of any parcel of land be developed single-family, leaving 60 per cent for multi-family construction.

Maximum density under the R-P classification would be about nine units per acre as opposed to the 14 units per acre now allowed under R-5.

Village Trustee Frank Palmatier spoke in favor of the R-P category saying that "maybe we won't have any more R-5 zoning in this town."

Village Pres. Jack Walsh said that while he was interested in the new classification he did not feel it was appropriate for the board of trustees to consider it at this time.

Plan Unit Will Consider Rezoning For Multi-Family

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission will meet tomorrow night to consider a request for the rezoning of a small parcel of land just south of Kirchoff Road and west of Northwest Community Hospital from single to multi-family use.

The rezoning request is being opposed by the Westgate Civic Association which represents a number of single-family homeowners immediately north of Kirchoff Road.

Preliminary drawings indicate 80 apartments are planned for the site, commonly known as the Teis property, in twin, two-story buildings.

The proposed mix includes 56 one-bedroom and 24 two-bedroom apartments.

In a letter to plan commission chairman O. V. Anderson, the president of the Westgate association, Robert Sherman, listed four reasons why the homeowners' group objected to the rezoning request.

Sherman said the area adjacent to the property is all single-family dwelling units and any changes in zoning would be "an injustice to the residents who purchased their homes in good faith."

THE LETTER states that Kirchoff Road is already overtaxed with traffic, particularly during the racing season, and a multiple family development would only intensify this traffic problem.

"Arlington Heights service facilities are already inadequate for present residents," Sherman wrote citing traffic congestion, summer water shortages and school crowding as examples.

The Westgate group also said that what it termed spot zoning of the Teis property would set a "dangerous precedent" for the future development of land bordered by Kirchoff and Wilke roads which the village hopes to annex.

Sherman said he was putting the association's views in letter form because a previously scheduled Mayor's Roundtable discussion tomorrow night at Westgate School makes it impossible for him to appear at the plan commission hearing.

The hearing will begin at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., and the rezoning petition will be the first item considered.

Old 'Check-Out' Trick Is Invalid

by CINDY TEW

"But I never checked that book out."

That great escape line used by library patrons who lose or forget about library books doesn't work anymore at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton.

Cameras in the new checkout machines take pictures of your library card, the book card and the due date slip which has its own transaction number. The pictures, which are recorded on microfilm, are very easy to find to show borrowers they have materials outstanding.

The new system, initiated this summer, also makes for easy reshelfing of

IT'S EASY FOR assistant librarian Mrs. Juanita Conrad to type up overdue notices now that a photo is made of the due date slip, the book card and a library card for each checkout at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library. Mrs. Nancy MacDonald (standing), assistant librarian in charge of circulation, made the new checkout system operational.

returned books. Instead of having to find the book card to replace in the book pocket, the book card stays in the book and the due date slip is simply removed before shelving.

"We used to have so many books behind the counter that needed reshelfing that we could hardly move around," said Mrs. Nancy MacDonald, assistant librarian in charge of circulation. "What used to take up to a week now takes no longer than one day."

Overdue notices are now processed more efficiently, too. At the end of each week due date slips are sent to a computer in Skokie which puts them in numerical order and prints out a list of missing numbers. A typist need only match the missing numbers to the numbers recorded on microfilm, which lists the name and address of the delinquent borrower.

THE TECHNICAL ADVANCES aren't helping borrowers return library material any faster, however. According to Mrs. MacDonald, there are still about ten per cent of the checked out items overdue — which comes to about 450 books, records and magazines a week.

Another time-savings to library personnel with the new system is in counting checked out books each day for the state count. Before the new system, it was necessary to count the number of book cards daily. Now librarians check the transaction number on the first due date card each morning and subtract it from the last card used at night.

"There are some disadvantages," Mrs. MacDonald said. "We don't know how often a book is checked out because a date doesn't have to be stamped on it's card at each checkout. Also if borrowers lost the due date slip, the book will appear on the overdue list, which causes us some extra work."

The few disadvantages which cause a

Henry Busse Services Are Tomorrow

Funeral services for Henry A. Busse, a veteran officer in the Wheeling Township Republican organization, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway.

Mr. Busse served for 24 years as a Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, succeeding the late Al Volz. He retired from active political life in 1962.

He died Saturday at Northwest Community Hospital.

"Henry Busse was the young Turk of his day," recalled Rep. Eugene Schlickman who said he first met Busse in 1956 when he and his wife moved to Arlington Heights from Washington, D.C.

"He was a very sensitive individual who never wanted to hurt anyone," Schlickman said.

BORN IN Elk Grove Township in 1897, Busse was a resident of Arlington Heights for 74 years. He was the owner and operator of Henry's Candy and Ice Cream Parlor.

Henry A. Busse

Ethel Kolerus, an area chairman for the Wheeling Township Republicans, recalled Busse as a warm and personable individual.

"He was an outstanding man, not as aggressive as you need to be in politics today," she said.

"It was during Henry's days that the township organization really developed," Schlickman said. "During Al Volz's time there were just the Northwest suburbs, but under Mr. Busse, the township organization developed its own identity."

Henry Busse is survived by two sons, Jon H. Busse, 510 N. Arlington Heights Rd., and Jay H. Busse of Des Plaines.

Other survivors include three grandchildren, four sisters, Alma Taege, Tootie Petersen and Evelyn Helfers, all of Arlington Heights; and Edna Fischer of Twin Lakes, Wis.

A brother, Larry Schwartz, also lives in Arlington Heights.

Mr. Busse will be buried in Bohemian National Cemetery, Chicago. Rev. Dr. Paul L. Stumpf of First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights will preside at the services.

John Hill To Speak

The Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee has invited John Hill, executive director of the Alliance to End Repression, to a public meeting at 8 this evening at the Southminster Presbyterian Church, Central and Dryden streets.

Hill will talk about the activities of the alliance, including its recent efforts to change the county coroner system in Illinois.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has stressed a U.S. position of strict neutrality in the India-Pakistan war. Nixon briefed congressional leaders on fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in West Pakistan. Lawmakers will receive further briefings today.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., Virginia, was confirmed by the Senate to succeed the late Hugh L. Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The roll call vote was 89-1. Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., cast the "no" vote. William H. Rehnquist is expected to win confirmation later this week.

The administration announced the establishment of a National Corrections Academy to help overcome deficiencies that have turned prisons into what President Nixon called "colleges of crime."

Without debate or dissent, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mrs. Romana Acosta Baucos as U.S. Treasurer. The nomination had been opposed by the AFL-CIO after disclosure that U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents had seized illegal Mexican aliens at her food factory six times in the past four years.

The State

Earl Butz, newly confirmed secretary of agriculture, pledged to the American Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Chicago that he is for the small farmer and for farmers everywhere getting a fair economic return on their labor and on their investments.

Dean Barringer, 40, Anna, a political unknown but protégé and fellow townsman of State Rep. Clyde L. Choate, Ill.

nois House minority leader, has been slated by Democrats for state comptroller, a new post created under the Illinois Constitution and combining the duties of auditor and treasurer.

Granite City Steel Co. and the state have agreed tentatively to a $4.1 million pollution control settlement each party says could set a precedent for the industry.

The World

India recognized the Bangla Desh independence movement as the government of East Pakistan and claimed that Indian forces were making rapid new advances against the outnumbered West Pakistani defenders. Pakistan promptly broke diplomatic relations with India.

Two gunmen, one wielding a machine gun, planted two bombs in a carpet and linoleum factory in East Belfast. More than 600 women scrambled screaming and crying from the building minutes before the devices exploded and engulfed the building in flames.

The War

Fighting in the Indochina War is centered in Cambodia where Communists captured the key railroad town of Paden, north of Phnom Penh after two days of intensive mortar bombardment. In Saigon, the Military Command said South Vietnamese paratroopers and Rangers, backed by government helicopters and machine guns, fought North Vietnamese troops in Eastern Cambodia and Central Highlands.

Mrs. Paulsen Wins 'Dress A Doll' Contest

Mrs. Mary Jane Paulsen of Arlington Heights was named grand prize winner in the "Dress A Doll" contest sponsored by Northwest Trust and Savings Bank on South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

Her doll entry was attired in a full-skirted bridal gown with a tiny jeweled tiara that held an elbow-length net veil. The doll even wore the traditional blue and white garter on her leg.

In the contest the six individual classes and the winners were: sensible dress, Mrs. Hazel Lowell, Arlington Heights; character doll, Jeannie of "I Dream of Jeannie" television program, Lambda Delta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority; Fancy dress, Mrs. Charles Lev, Wheeling; Nationality doll, Lambda Delta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi; knit dress, Mrs. Joseph Treat, Arlington Heights; 15 and under, Julianne Daleiden, Arlington Heights.

A total of 121 dolls were dressed for the contest, all of which will be sent as Christmas gifts for children at Cathedral Shelter in Chicago. The dolls were provided by the Northwest Trust and Savings and dressed by both individuals and organizations, according to Wilfred G. Wolf, cashier. This is the first year the bank has sponsored the contest, he said.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. L. A. Hansen, wife of the Arlington Heights village manager; State Rep. Eugene Chapman of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Marge LeMelleur, owner of Marge's Apparel, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Pat Adam, Paddock Publications; Mrs. Marilyn Kane, home economics teacher at Arlington High School.

The dolls will be on display in the bank lobby through next week.

little extra work don't compare with the amount of tedious manual work that went into a library book checkout previously. Since the system was installed, a few librarians have resigned who did not need to be replaced.

IT TOOK ABOUT a year to put the new system together and make it operational. Harold J. Ard, executive librarian, with assistance from several other librarians, made a thorough search for the perfect system.

"The main problem was putting the entire system together," Ard said. "The checkout machine, the computer hookup system and the microfilm reader were separate entities we had to put together — it wasn't a package deal."

Once the components were decided on, Mrs. MacDonald made them a unified system by writing a manual and training the staff. Since its installation, the innovative system has been installed in Skokie and several other northwest suburban communities are considering its use.

Patricia McGill of Arlington Heights has been named to the 1970-71 dean's list at Colorado College in Colorado Springs.

Students who received a grade of "honors" in at least half of their courses during the school year were eligible.

Mother Praises The Service

Family Service 'A Godsend'

by WANDALYN RICE

Scott Nailor had ridden his bike in back of the Eagles-on Tonne Apartments in Elk Grove Village hundreds of times, and every once in a while he would fall when he ran into the loose gravel.

But one day early in October, the boy took a spill and landed wrong — with his leg tucked under him.

After a ride to the hospital in the fire department ambulance, Scott and his mother Gloria got the bad news. His leg was broken just below the hip and he was to spend the next eight weeks in a cast from the center of his chest to the tip of his toe.

For Mrs. Nailor the news was especially bad. She has a job at Hale Engineering Co. in the village and supports Scott and her other two boys. She couldn't afford too much time off work to care for her son.

"When you have a husband around, your job doesn't mean very much," she explained. "But, when you're the provider (as she is) it's important. I didn't know what I was going to do."

AT THAT POINT Mrs. Nailor's doctor referred her to the social service agency at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and they told her about the Homemaker Service provided by Child and Family Service of Chicago.

The service will provide a trained homemaker for any family which needs temporary help because of illness, injury or other emergency and charges on a sliding scale related to income. Mrs. Nailor made the necessary arrangements and just a few days after Scott came home from the hospital "Mrs. Smokey," Very Smogorzewski, came to work.

Since then she has taken care of Scott, helping with his homework and playing games with him. In addition, she cleans house and has the dinner ready when Mrs. Nailor gets home from work.

"It's really been a Godsend to me," Mrs. Nailor said. "I don't know what I would have done without her."

One thing she might have done, she added, was send Scott to stay with her married daughter, but that would have meant the tutor sent from Mark Hopkins School wouldn't have been available.

The Homemaker Service has been active in Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates and Streamwood since May, according to Charles Duffy, social worker for the agency.

SOMETIME NEXT year, assuming that money comes from other area United Funds, the service will be available throughout the Northwest suburbs. Duffy said the agency usually gets referrals from the hospital and other agencies when a family needs help.

In addition, he said the service is looking for more homemakers like Mrs. "Smokey." "They don't need any special training because we train them ourselves," he said.

Scott will only need Mrs. "Smokey" for another week, since he got his cast off Saturday. When she finishes the assignment she will have been with the family for nine weeks.

She and Scott, Mrs. Nailor said, "have gotten along very well. They've had their little scrapes, and she's had to be firm with him, but that's fine with me." Scott is looking forward to getting back to school and back to the Cub Scout pack he joined while still confined to bed.

And his mother is relieved. "It seems like forever, since it happened," she said. Of course, she admits she will miss Mrs. Smokey. "Coming home and having dinner ready spoils you."

Public Invited: Change The System

The public is invited to Thursday's Arlington Heights Form of Government (FOG) meeting to present views on changing the system. Though all FOG meetings are open to the public, this meeting will be exclusively for public participation.

Three subcommittees were formed at last Thursday night's FOG meeting to meet with representatives of three nearby villages and professional experts on village government. The subcommittees will meet with their various groups early in January.

Subcommittee members Sidney Rosenfeld, Eugene Griffin, and Robert Stenzel will meet with Louis Ancel, a Chicago lawyer and specialist in village government. They will also discuss the advantages and disadvantages of Park Ridge's 14 trustees plus a mayor system with election by district, with the mayor, village manager and some trustees of the village.

Mrs. Russell Gardner, Robert Nilson and J. Burton Thompson form the second FOG subcommittee, and will interview Dr. Milton Rakove, political science professor at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus. They also will discuss government with the mayor, city manager and some trustees of Rolling Meadows, which has 10 trustees and a mayor as well as election by district.

Roland Ley, Mrs. Frederic Marks and James Keelon make up the third FOG subcommittee. They will interview Dr. Louis Masotti, director of the Center for Urban Affairs at Northwestern University. They will also meet with Evanston's mayor, city manager and a few trustees. Evanston has 18 trustees and a mayor and district representation.

BEFORE FOG begins writing their recommendation early in February, they plan to consult Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Jack Siegel, village attorney.

The three specific questions about which FOG is seeking comments from the public, as well as other villages and experts in the field, are:

—Whether district or at-large representation is best for the community and the optimum number of trustees needed to best serve the community.

—Whether the village clerk should be elected or appointed and whether it should be a full-time or part-time job.

—An evaluation of the responsiveness of our present government at all levels and the effectiveness of its communications with the citizens of Arlington Heights.

St. Peter Orchestra To Present Concert

The annual Winter concert of the St. Peter School orchestra will be presented in the St. Peter school auditorium, 111 Olive St., Arlington Heights, Thursday at 7:45 p.m.

This year's concert featuring Christmas songs is entitled "Joy to the World." The senior and junior orchestras will perform along with the newly formed honors orchestra.

General admission for the concert is $1.25 for adults, 25 cents for grade school students and 50 cents for other students. Tickets may be purchased from orchestra members or the evening of the concert at the school auditorium door.

Nominate 7 For Chamber's Board

The nominating committee of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce has selected seven persons to fill vacancies on the chamber's board of directors.

Nominated were: Earl Auge, Lattof Motor Sales Co.; Tony Bartolini, Honeywell Corp.; Marge Flanders, Paddock Publications; John Grabowski, Douglas Savings & Loan; Harold Harvey, North Point State Bank; Walter Schreiber, Village Pipe and Cigar Shop; and Anne Sluka, Art Gallery Inn.

Chamber members wishing to make additional nominations may do so by submitting a petition with at least five signatures to the chamber's executive director, Earl Johnson, by Dec. 10.

Ballots with all nominations will be mailed out Dec. 15 and should be returned by the end of the month, Johnson said.

Proposal For Low, Moderate-Income Housing Rejected

The Des Plaines City Council last night rejected proposals for construction of low and moderate-income housing. No alderman voted in favor of the proposals.

Most of the 180-member audience, which had jammed into the city council chambers, applauded as the aldermen, in a voice vote, accepted a council committee recommendation to "dismiss and take no further action on" the proposals because "no substantial fact and support" had been presented last month at a public hearing.

Aldermen also moved towards creation of a special blue-ribbon commission to study city housing problems.

Joseph Botte, chairman of the Des Plaines Citizens Opposed to Low-Income Housing, termed the rejection a "total victory." The Rev. John Petersen, Des Plaines spokesman for the group which had made the proposal last summer, said the rejection and the move toward the blue-ribbon commission is a "limited success" for his group.

THE COUNCIL had acted without comment on recommendation for rejection by its health and welfare committee, headed by Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd). This committee had decided that speakers for and against low-income housing "stirred up emotions" at the public hearing, but had not presented facts which the council could "rationally" decide in favor of the proposals.

The Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee (CMCC), a Chicago area group which has campaigned for low and moderate-income housing in Arlington Heights, presented proposals last summer which asked that special zoning be created to encourage construction of low and moderate-income units, in non-high-rise buildings, on scattered city sites.

The CMCC, which had gained support for its proposals from the Des Plaines

Human Relations Commission and clergymen from all of the largest city churches, also had asked that the city seek all available federal funds for housing and confer with minority groups in planning.

The council accepted Sherwood's recommendation to authorize City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi to draw up a resolution for council consideration Dec. 30 which would establish a temporary building problems commission.

BOTTE, WHO with his group had presented almost 2,500 petition signatures against the housing proposal, said last week he favors the commission if it will include only residents and it has a fair balance between advocates and opponents of low-income housing.

His group would not support the commission if it seeks to supply housing for non-residents or use federal funds, he said. The Des Plaines Citizens favor senior citizen housing with federal aid, because seniors "deserve aid."

Rev. Petersen, who was among those advocates of low-income housing heckled at the public hearing, said the CMCC would meet tonight to decide what stand it would take on the commission.

Ald. Sherwood said he would meet this week with Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel, who is expected to return from his vacation today, to discuss the composition of the new commission.

He said the new commission could study sub-standard city housing, possible sites for senior citizen apartment buildings and the need for a city housing authority. Sherwood also said the commission should have as members a lawyer, a banker, a builder and other residents. He said the commission would probably have no more than nine members, the maximum number of members on existing city commissions.

HEART ATTACK PATIENTS at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge are aided in recovery by a team of nurses, dieticians, social workers and chaplains who meet with them daily to answer questions about how they must change their lifestyles to avoid having another heart attack. Here chaplains and a nurse discuss the effects of heart attack on the human body with patients and their spouses. The discussion groups are unique to area hospitals and patients say they help to calm many of their fears about returning to normal life.

Heart Victims Learn 'New Life'

by VICKI HAMENDE

A heart attack victim's recovery depends on his acceptance and understanding of the ways his life must change... his heart has been weakened and he must learn to protect it.

Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge helps its heart patients achieve this acceptance and understanding with a series of five daily discussions about heart anatomy, diets, health guidelines, family and life goals and stress.

They are conducted by hospital nurses, dieticians, social workers and chaplains for patients able to sit up an hour a day and who have their doctors' permission.

The Rev. Robert Stromberg, chaplain in Lutheran General's coronary care department, said the discussions supply heart patients with health information, give them the opportunity to help themselves in recovery, provide them with a sounding board for questions and concerns and allow patients to support each other.

By discussing common concerns in groups, Rev. Stromberg said, "we can serve more patients in less time." He added, "Our goal is for the patients to be completely informed and prepared to go through a recuperation period."

Rev. Stromberg stressed that the discussion leaders "don't try to be doctors." Their function, he explained, is to provide information and guidelines for recovery and to answer general questions. "We refer them back to their doctors for specific medical information," he said.

THE DISCUSSIONS BEGAN in 1968 and have served an average of 300 patients a year or six patients a week, Rev. Stromberg said.

They run consecutively Monday through Friday so that a heart attack victim can begin attending any day of the week. They last about an hour, with one third of the time used for lecturing and two thirds for questions and discussions.

Monday's session deals with anatomy. A nurse explains to the heart attack victims what happens to a heart during an attack and what physical side effects can be expected.

"By showing the patients the full picture of what has happened to them, we hope to convince them that they must recover slowly and strictly," Rev. Stromberg said.

A dietician meets with the heart patients Tuesdays to discuss recovery diets, eating habits, buying groceries, eating at restaurants and other related dietary matters.

"Why was my sugar cut?" is a common question asked of the dietician. "When I saw only two ounces of meat on my plate it really scared me. Why have they cut my meat?" is another.

According to Rev. Stromberg, the dietician answers such questions and supplies heart patients with future eating tips.

Patients are told to avoid bulky meals and foods they know cause them stomach distress. They are told to regulate their diets to avoid constipation. They are told to be selective when buying in a grocery store or eating in a restaurant. They are told to follow strictly the diet prescribed by their doctors.

"Oh no, there go my favorite foods," a patient jokes. "No salami, no pastrami. You can't win!"

ANOTHER PATIENT JOKES, "I was on jello so long the highlight of the day was guessing if it would be red, yellow or green!"

Another adds, "When I first heard about my new diet I thought what good is tuna without mayonnaise? Now I know what's good—it's better for my health and it tastes pretty good."

The dietician also recommends books published by the American Heart Association on recovery recipes.

On Wednesdays a nurse meets with the Maine East Debaters Score Double Victory

Maine East High School's debate team scored a double victory at a recent Glenbrook South High School debate tournament, winning the varsity and junior varsity levels.

The varsity team of Bob Feldhake of Des Plaines and Neil Blumenfeld of Morton Grove took first place with a record of four wins and no defeats. The victory stretched their winning streak to 11 straight debates, establishing them as prime candidates for next year's state championship tournament, according to Maine East debate coach Robert Swanson.

The two also shared the award for top speaker in the tournament, totaling 104 points each out of a possible 120.

Maine East's other entry in the varsity division, Lynne Hofmeister of Park Ridge and Harvey Morris of Morton Grove, won a third place trophy.

ON THE JUNIOR varsity level, the team of Ray Rittenhouse of Des Plaines and Judy Berrigan of Niles took first place out of 36 teams competing. Their 4-0 record and total speaker points led all other teams.

Maine East's other junior varsity two-some, the team of Mike Ginsburg and Tom Laman of Morton Grove, tied for fourth place with a record of three wins and one loss.

In all, Maine East debaters scored 15 wins and one loss at the Glenbrook South Tournament.

On the novice level, the team of Keith Gershon of Morton Grove and Paul Karr of Park Ridge won all four of their rounds, extending their winning streak to seven victories without a loss.

After a debate tournament in Champaign, Swanson said Maine East debaters will travel Dec. 10-11 to Peoria, Wheaton, Chicago and Lake Forest to compete in tournaments.

Charge Youth On 'Pot' Count

A Park Ridge youth was charged with possession of marijuana Saturday night by Des Plaines police.

According to police reports, the youth, Gary Wood, 19, of 1348 Hamlin, Park Ridge, was arrested after he and two companions were questioned and searched when police responded to a complaint of a disturbance in the 900 block of Mason Lane.

Police said they found no disturbance, but noticed a youth standing next to an auto in front of 917 Mason Ln. When officers approached to question the youth, Keith Feisenthal, 20, of 1025 Knight, Park Ridge, they noticed Wood and John Kopec, 2220 Ballard, Niles, in the back seat of the auto, police said.

The three were searched after police said they found beer cans next to and inside the auto. During the search, according to police, a glass jar containing six grams of marijuana was found behind Wood.

In addition to the marijuana charge placed against Wood, all three youths were charged with accepting liquor. They will appear Jan. 6 in Des Plaines court.

'Human Gestures' Is Art Show Theme

"Human Gestures" is the theme of an Oakton Community College student art exhibit which will be on display through Dec. 17 in building four of the campus: 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove.

Faculty members sponsoring the student project include art teachers James Kangles and Robert Stanley and photography teacher Bernard Krule.

The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Post Office To Cost $1.7 Million

The new Des Plaines main post office will cost $1.7 million to build and will contain almost 51,000 square feet of space, according to the U. S. Postal Service.

In the first official statement on the cost and size of the new post office, Richard Monett, postal service program manager in Washington D. C. also indicated in a letter to city officials that planning for the facility at Oakton Street and Executive Way would begin before July.

Spokesmen for the Army Corp. of Engineers, which may build the new post office said yesterday that construction would begin within nine months after planning starts.

The Army engineers have not been notified when to begin planning or whether the new post office will be constructed by their division or by private builders, spokesmen said.

Postal service spokesmen have told the Herald they hope for the completion of the new post office by Christmas, 1973. The post office will replace three present facilities in Des Plaines and one in Rosemont.

City officials received notice last month of the postal service decision to build on the federally owned, 231,000 square-foot, Oakton-Executive site.

Ald. Charles Bolek (3rd) has led opposition to construction on the Oakton-Executive site, claiming that it would cause traffic congestion, noise and reduce property values of nearby homes.

In his letter to the city, Monett said the postal service plans "to construct a modern facility that should aesthetically enhance the community, provide better environmental working conditions for employees, and provide more efficient service to all citizens of Des Plaines."

John Schufman, regional assistant postmaster general, informed the city last month that the new post office would be shielded from the surrounding area by trees and shrubbery.

He also stated that the operations at the new facility would be limited at night to prevent noise. The most concentrated activity would be at 9:30 a.m., a time when most children are in school.

Schufman also said the new post office would have a "contemporary" concrete and glass design.

The new facility would replace postal operations at 622 Graceland Ave., 1022 North Ave., 1801 Oakton, and 6124 River Road.

These offices now handle 122 million pieces of mail each year, and receive an income from postage sales of $4.5 million, postal spokesmen have said.

Monett said that the "transportation patterns and mail volumes" show a "critical need" in the Des Plaines area for a new post office.

Des Plaines Postmaster John Koulenes has estimated that a new post office would be the headquarters for 288 postal employees, and would house 86 motor vehicles.

PTA Notes

South School PTA will present its annual holiday music program Tuesday, Dec. 14, in the school gym, 1535 Everett St., Des Plaines. All children in grades two, four and six will sing holiday songs, followed by selections sung by the fifth grade chorus. The program will be concluded with a staging of the traditional poem "Twas The Night Before Christmas," set to music and performed by the sixth grade chorus.

Colors will be presented by Cub Scout Pack 63 and refreshments will be served in the cafeteria by the second and fourth grade room mother hostesses.

South School PTA will also treat the school children to ice cream at their annual Christmas room parties.

Preceded in death by his wife, Clara, survivors include two sons, Walter K. Brown of Miami, Fla., and Robert G. Brown of Des Plaines; and four grandchildren.

How Kemper Insurance policyholders will benefit from the new Illinois Modified No-Fault Auto Insurance Plan.

Starting Jan. 1, 1972, Illinois private passenger automobile policyholders insured under the Kemper Flag will enjoy expanded protection, plus faster payments for expenses resulting from bodily injury. The new Illinois Modified No-Fault Auto Plan makes these improvements possible. The Plan deals mainly with the way persons injured in auto accidents are paid. Property damage coverage remains unchanged.

While the Illinois Plan does provide improved protection for Illinois motorists, it will not affect the rate reductions recently announced by two of the Kemper companies—Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company and American Motorists Insurance Company. Those reduced rates will remain in effect.

Here is a digest of important benefits provided to Kemper policyholders under the new Illinois Modified No-Fault Insurance Plan:

1. Virtually everyone injured will be paid for hospital and medical expenses, regardless of who is at fault. Kemper pays you and your passengers directly, without delay. The Basic Personal Injury Protection coverage provides hospital and medical payments up to $2000 per person.

2. Most wage earners injured and unable to work will be compensated for loss of income. Under the new Illinois Plan, Kemper provides basic benefits of 85% of wages lost (up to $150 a week maximum) for up to 52 weeks.

3. Loss of services of a non-wage earner, such as a housewife, are also covered. Under the new Illinois Plan, Kemper will repay the cost of essential services for outside help (such as cooking or housework), up to $12 a day for up to 365 days.

4. Every Kemper policyholder has the option to purchase Excess Personal Injury Protection coverages. This means additional hospital and medical expenses, survivors benefits, and up to 5 more years of income continuation and loss of services benefits are available—up to $50,000 per person and $100,000 per accident.

Remember, the Basic Personal Injury Protection benefits are being provided to Kemper's Illinois auto policyholders at no increase in price.

If you're not a Kemper auto policyholder and want to take advantage of lower Kemper rates, look in the Yellow Pages for the name of the nearest independent agent who offers auto insurance under the Kemper Flag. He'll be happy to tell you how Kemper can protect you better while you drive.

Warrior Matmen Register Split

Preparing for this weekend's Central Suburban League opener with Deerfield, Maine West's wrestling team split a pair of non-conference meets over the weekend.

The Warriors lost to Oak Park 26-21 on Friday night but came back to whip Morton West 38-18 on Saturday.

Bill Tramel, at 98 pounds, lost 16-2 against Oak Park but won via pin in 1:44 against Morton West. Fred Gano, at 105 pounds, recorded a 4-0 victory against Oak Park and won by pin in 5:08 against Morton West.

At 112 pounds, Ed Rappe lost 7-2 against Oak Park and was pinned in 5:40 against Morton West. Bruce Winschlecker lost 11-0 against Oak Park and 5-0 against Morton West at 119 pounds.

Gary Gunderson posted two victories, 6-0 against Oak Park and 8-7 against Morton West at 128 pounds. Dave Gano, at 132 pounds, recorded a pair of pins, winning in 3:20 against Oak Park and winning in 5:12 against Morton West.

Rick Veith, at 138 pounds, lost 5-2 against Oak Park but came back to win 2-1 against Morton West. At 145 pounds, Craig Barringer was a 4-2 victor against Oak Park and a 10-7 winner against Morton West.

Dave LeFavour, wrestling at 155 pounds, won 4-0 against Oak Park and defeated his Morton West foe 7-0. Carl Sjostrand, at 167 pounds, lost by pin in 5:11 against Oak Park and lost 4-0 against Morton West.

Leon Wilkins, at 185 pounds, won 10-3 against Oak Park and lost by forfeit against Morton West. Heavyweight Kevin Richardson lost by pin in 5:40 Friday and lost by pin in 1:32 Saturday.

The Warrior junior varsity team defeated Oak Park 41-21 and lost to Morton West 37-24. The Warrior sophomores lost to Oak Park 32-23 and defeated Morton West 27-24. The freshmen from Maine West won 48-12 against Oak Park and lost to Morton West 36-22.

Maine West will open its Central Suburban League season against Deerfield at home at 8:30 p.m. The Warriors will travel to Wheeling for a non-conference meet on Saturday at 12:30 p.m. The Warriors are 2-1 thus far this season.

Martino Only West Winner In Gymnastics

Chuck Martino, competing on the rings, was the only Maine West first place finisher as the Warrior gymnasts lost to Waukegan 119.6 to 80.3 in a non-conference meet Friday night.

Martino's score was 6.0 for the victory. Maine West's highest score of the meet was turned in by John Lear, a 7.05 on the trampoline, good enough for second place.

Steve Schwab was third with 6.5, Lear fifth with 4.15 and Steve Holmbeck sixth with 3.6 in free floor exercise. On the side horse, Robin Ruediger was fourth with 5.35, Bill Lumpp fifth with 4.95 and Holmbeck sixth with 1.55.

Holmbeck was third with 5.95, Tom Fulham fifth with 4.65 and Kevin Kerner sixth with 3.25 on the horizontal bar. Lear was second on the trampoline and Schwab was third. Schwab had a 4.35.

On the parallel bars, Holmbeck was fourth with a 5.4, Phil DaPrato was fifth with 3.2 and Schwab was sixth with 2.65. Kerner was fifth on the rings with 3.8 and Holmbeck was sixth with 3.5.

Waukegan won the frosh-soph meet, 56-49.

The Warriors will go against Proviso West Saturday at 2 p.m. at home in another non-conference meet.

Netzel Sets Two Records

Don Netzel set two school swimming records but Notre Dame lost to Niles North 54-41 as the Dons, who won six events, could only come up with one second place finish.

Netzel set new Notre Dame records in the 200-yard individual medley and in the 100-yard freestyle. His clocking in the 200-yard individual medley was 2:15.4 and his time in the 100-yard freestyle was 52.7.

Other individual first place finishes were recorded by Mike Borman in the 100-yard butterfly and John Stoesser in the 50-yard freestyle. Notre Dame won the 200-yard medley relay with Bill Brennan, Dan Boshold, Borman and Stoesser. The Dons also won the 400-yard freestyle relay with Steve Sawka, Joe Lunkes, Stoesser and Netzel.

Brennan garnered Notre Dame's only second place finish and that came in the 100-yard backstroke. Third place finishes went to Brennan in the 200-yard freestyle, James Zimniewicz in diving, Lunkes in the 400-yard freestyle and Boshold in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Notre Dame lost the frosh-soph meet to Niles North 60-35. Tim Thompson won the 100-yard butterfly and Doug Seanson won the 400-yard freestyle for the Dons.

Notre Dame will swim at West Leyden Friday at 7 p.m.

Fouls Hurt; Maine North Suffers Tough 53-51 Loss

by JIM STUART

Maine North emerged from their locker room at halftime holding a one-point lead over Niles North Friday night.

One minute later the Norsemen still held that lead. But forget the scoreboard, because it was that minute that cost them the ball game.

It was the crucial minute that saw Marty DiFlavio and Tom Michaelson, two thirds of Maine's front line, exit to the bench with four fouls. And with them went the Norse rebounding advantage.

Maine North managed to make a game of it in the end, losing only 53-51 on their home court in their first Central Suburban League action ever. But with DiFlavio and Michaelson in there, they looked like a winner.

Not that their substitutes did a bad job. In fact the two of them, Bob Allen and Dave Schulz, accounted for the next seven Maine points after replacing the two foul-laden starters and led the Norsemen to a 36-30 lead midway through the third period.

But without the board strength the lead was short-lived. Niles clipped away by going to the basket and coming up with three easy baskets, and by the end of the quarter the Vikings were within a point at 39-38.

Harold Taylor, the only remaining starter on the Maine front line, clicked on two free throws to open the final stanza, but then the nightmare began for the home team.

Niles reeled off the next 10 points in succession, with none of the field goals coming from more than five feet out, and suddenly Maine was looking into the eye of a seven point deficit with less than five minutes remaining.

Coach Jerry Nelson, his mind no longer on foul trouble, rushed his starters back into the game and right away things turned around dramatically. DiFlavio started the comeback with a three-point play on a drive, and moments later guard Doug Werhane followed suit with another three-pointer on a nifty drive.

Niles' lead was now only one point, but Viking center Matt Menze made it three when he picked up a loose ball and laid it in. But Frank Yurriago connected from the outside for his first and only fielder of the evening, and again it was a one-point affair.

That point looked awfully good to Niles, however, because with only two minutes left the foul-conscious Norsemen had to come out to get the ball. And the one who finally picked up the foul with 1:17 left was the one who least needed it, DiFlavio.

The free throw was missed, but Kent Schirmer put in the rebound to give the Vikes a 52-49 lead. That one was quickly countered, however, when Michaelson drive for a Maine two-pointer with 56 seconds to play.

It was even more exciting a few seconds later for the home crowd when Niles turned over the ball on a traveling call, but that excitement quickly died out when the Norsemen missed their field goal attempt and Michaelson followed DiFlavio to the bench with his fifth foul.

A desperation foul with a second left was all Maine could offer, and Menze's free throw gave Niles its final two-point margin.

DiFlavio was the high scorer for Maine with 17 points, the only Norseman in double figures. Werhane and Michaelson each had nine, while Joel Chernoff of Niles North led all scorers with 20.

Maine East Crushes Two Wrestling Foes

Maine East's wrestling team demolished a pair of non-conference foes over the weekend, whipping Addison Trail 34-9 and Maine South 57-2.

Against Addison at 98 pounds, Jay Check lost 4-2. Paul Board was in a 4-4 draw at 105 pounds while Jim Sylverne posted a 9-1 victory at 112 pounds. After Louie Capozzoli tied 9-9 at 119 pounds, Tom Bullis won via pin in 5:20 at 126 pounds.

Maine East won the next five matches with Tony Raschillo at 132 by a 6-5 score, Scott Perlman at 138 by 9-0, Frank Martello at 145 by 12-0, Scott Vaughan at 155 by 4-2 and Mike Kan by 157 by 7-1.

Marc Grant drew 1-1 at 185 pounds and Ed Kleckner won 3-1 in the heavyweight match.

Using the same wrestlers at the same weights, Check won by pin in 5:32, Board won 11-5, Sylverne won by pin in 1:49, Capozzoli won by forfeit, Bullis won by pin in 3:12, Raschillo won by pin in 5:50, Perlman won 9-3, Martello lost 3-0, Vaughan won by pin in 3:13 as Maine South lost a team point for slugging. Kan won 4-1, Grant won by pin in 3:21 and Kleckner won by forfeit.

The Demon junior varsity squad lost to Addison Trail but defeated Maine South. The sophomores defeated Addison Trail but lost to Maine South. The freshmen won both meets.

The Demons, who have a 3-0 record, will compete in a quadrangular meet with East Leyden, East Aurora and Riverside-Brookfield Saturday at 12 noon at East Leyden. East Leyden recently defeated DeKalb, which finished second in the state last year, in a dual meet.

"I guess we'll find out how good we really are this weekend," said Demon coach George Jurinek.

Forest View won a close one, St. Viator lost a close one. Elk Grove kept surprising people and Harper kept blowing people right off the court.

FOREST VIEW 64, FREMD 63

In a most thrilling manner, Forest View opened its 1971-72 Mid-Suburban League basketball season by nipping Fremd, 64-63, in overtime. It was Fremd's first overtime loss in its history after 10 overtime victories.

Forest View jumped out to a 22-12 lead in the first quarter and still held a 10-point lead at halftime, leading 35-25. In the third period, Fremd staged a rally to close the gap to 52-50 and at the end of regulation time, the score was knotted at 62-62.

Inevitability

As was bound to happen, someone came up with a nickname for the University of Missouri's Nigerian placekicker, Aloysius Ntuk. A fan sent a note to the school suggesting Ntuk be dubbed "Nip."

Really Bad Day

Sept. 24, 1950 must have been a frustrating day for Chicago Cardinal quarterback Jim Hardy. The Philadelphia Eagles' intercepted eight of his passes that day to set a pro football record.

All of Forest View's overtime points were by free throws as Rick Haaning came through in the clutch with four of them. Jay Hedges tossed in the other.

Don Woodsmall and Tom Mueller shared the scoring honors for the Falcons with 18 points each. Rick Hoyt had 13 points. Haaning, a reserve forward, tallied eight points and led Forest View with 13 rebounds. Woodsmall had nine rebounds before fouling out.

Forest View is 2-1 overall.

ELK GROVE 66, FENTON 50

The Grenadier momentum kept rolling along over the weekend as Elk Grove dumped Fenton in a non-conference contest Saturday night, 66-50. On Friday night, Elk Grove came up with one of the biggest upsets in Mid-Suburban League history as the Grenadiers topped Wheel-

PICK THE COWBOY. Jeff Heist of Maine West dribbles freely toward the basket with the aid of a perfect pick (or screen) by teammate Mark Tuttle. Trying to defense on the play is New Trier West's Al Bartelstein.

Against Fenton, nine Grenadiers reached the scoring column with Steve Chernick leading the way with 18 points. Bob Prince and Ken Politz tallied 10 points each.

Fenton took a 19-16 lead in the first quarter but Elk Grove came back to grab the lead by halftime at 32-25. The Grenadiers led 54-36 at the end of three periods.

HARPER 101, ELGIN 79

Jeff Algaier threw in 31 points and Kevin Barthule had 22 to pace Harper to its third win of the season against one loss, this time beating Elgin 101-79.

The Hawks jumped out to a 60-34 halftime lead, dominating all the way. Scott Feige contributed 19 points to the Harper cause while Terry Rohan had 14.

PALATINE 63, ST. VIATOR 60

Another rally fell short.

St. Viator, which rallied from 11 points down at halftime to come within two points in a 64-62 loss to Notre Dame on Friday night, staged a second half rally against Palatine on Saturday night but lost 63-60.

St. Viator trailed the Pirates 22-13 at the end of the first quarter and fell behind 40-25 by halftime.

The Lions roared back, however, outscoring Palatine 21-11 in the third period to close the gap to 51-46. In the fourth quarter, St. Viator outscored the Pirates 14-12 but the rally barely fell short in this nonconference game.

It was St. Viator's second loss of the season against one victory. In the Suburban Catholic Conference, the Lions are 0-1. In the annual contest with Palatine, St. Viator owns five wins while Palatine owns two.

Mark DiMuzio and Ed Foreman tallied 17 points each while John Lohse had 13 points against Palatine.

In other games around the area over the weekend, Hersey whipped Conant 68-48 before losing to Maine South 61-58, Arlington outscored Schaumburg 93-70 and Barrington 75-69. Prospect downed Palatine 84-66 and Libertyville 81-54, Conant clipped Lake Park 62-58, Fremd clobbered Downers Grove South 83-61, West Leyden topped Schaumburg 67-52 and Wheeling was crushed by Lockport Central 81-58.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Joel Gaines, the inventor of Bridgette, the two-handed bridge game that is achieving great popularity, is also a very good player at bridge itself.

Here we see Joel sitting East with his brother Jud sitting West.

We hold no brief for South's bidding. The four-spade contract is not unreasonable and would make against ordinary defense.

Jud opened the queen of clubs and Joel won the trick with his ace. There was no trouble about analyzing the lead, but a review of the bidding was most instructive. South probably held exactly three diamonds. In that case Jud, sitting West, would hold a doubleton. If he also held a trump trick something nice might develop for the defense.

Could Jud hold a singleton diamond? Possibly, but not probably. He might well have opened a singleton.

How could Joel beat the contract? If West held exactly two diamonds and three trumps to the ace or king.

After all this thought it was easy for Joel to lead a low diamond. South went up with his king and led trumps, but it didn't matter whether Jud won the first or second lead of the suit. He was able to lead his other diamond to Joel's ace and

VIVACIOUS SANDY Duncan had the toughest break of the season when a serious eye ailment necessitated an operation midway through production on her CBS series, "Funny Face." This was one of the few new network programs that apparently was catching on. The network felt that she should have a long convalescence, so has discontinued the program for the present, expressing the hope that she will return next season.

AUTHOR OF "The Glass House," adaptation of a Truman Capote-Wyatt Cooper story, which is due on "The New CBS Friday Night Movies" series is Tracy Keenan Wynn, son of actor Keenan Wynn and grandson of the late great comedian, Ed Wynn.

CO-HOSTS FOR Miami's annual Orange Bowl parade, to be televised Dec. 31 by NBC, will be singer Anita Bryant and spieler Joe Garagiola.

DANNY THOMAS, a video absentee this season so far as a regular series is concerned, will star in an ABC special Dec. 21, at 10 p.m. The theme of the music-comedy hour is advantages and disadvantages of city versus country living. Guests will include Milton Berle, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Florence Henderson and Anne Murray.

CBS WILL telecast play on late holes of the last two rounds of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Invitational golf tourney at Los Angeles on Jan. 8 and 9.

WARNER BROS. Television is producing a pilot for a possible 1972-73 NBC series in which Darren McGavin stars as a widower-judge, father of six, who has problems both at home and in the courtroom. His marriage to an actress doesn't help much. "Father on Trial" is the title of the item.

NBC's "MEET the Press" network television's oldest regularly scheduled program, began to talk its way through its 25th year on Nov. 7. Producer-panelist Lawrence E. Spivak started the prime interview program on radio in October, 1945 to promote the American Mercury magazine, which he published, and shifted to television two years later.

The Doctor Says

'Pink Water' Can Often Be 'Cure'

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have been reading about the B vitamins and how effective they are in promoting a sound nervous system. I decided to try the B complex, as I have been under considerable pressure in my work.

It may be my imagination, but I found they seemed to help calm my nerves some. As I do not want to even take a mild tranquilizer, I was wondering whether B vitamins really do any good or harm if taken for a long period of time. How about the one-a-day supplement vitamins that contain all vitamins and minerals and also include the B complex? Would it be harmful taking the B complex vitamin I already have plus the one-a-day? I would like some information on this before I decide to continue to take any kind of vitamin.

Dear Reader — If a person is eating a balanced diet with all the essential food components, he is not likely to need supplemental vitamins. With so many refined foods, such as sugar, that contain no appreciable amounts of vitamins or minerals, and the need many people have to diet, especially if they are not active physically, it is easy to have a deficient diet. Older people, who live alone, are prone to eat an inadequate diet. Under these circumstances, added vitamins are helpful.

Unless taken in really huge doses, there is no evidence that taking vitamins, even if you don't need them, will cause any harm — except vitamins A and D. All other vitamins you take in excess amounts are simply eliminated by the body. Thus, taking the B complex vitamins you already have plus a one-a-day brand won't hurt you but it won't help you either.

In plain language, take one or the other or you will just be throwing your money away.

Now you say you feel better after taking vitamins. That is fine, but don't be so sure it is the vitamins. Doctors have known for centuries that giving a patient any medicine, even pink water, often makes a patient feel better. This is especially true if the patient has nervous symptoms. The confidence the patient has in the pink water and the doctor lifts his spirits out of the doldrums, he regains his energies and feels better. A lot of feeling bad is related to one's emotional outlook. A person can truly be "warmed up."

You might be shocked that a doctor would give his patient pink water. Fifty years ago, without antibiotics, and many

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has blocked a plan to require election of judges under political party labels, opening the door to legislation providing for non-partisan elections.

The governor vetoed legislation, passed in the closing hours of the General Assembly's autumn session, which provided that judicial candidates be nominated by political parties and run under their banners. The bills were opposed by bar associations and the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Pending in the legislature is opposing legislation which would provide for all judicial candidates to be listed on the ballot without party labels in the primary election. The two top vote-getters, under that legislation, would then run for the office in the general election.

"By drawing judicial candidates into the party primary election process," Ogilvie said in his veto message, "this bill would intensify the practice of treating the judiciary as part of a party's structure."

"It would intensify the practice of regarding the judiciary as functioning within the party structure and of regarding judges as being obligated to their party for judicial office."

WHEELING Township Independent Democratic Coalition voted Sunday to work for the election of Dan Walker in his primary campaign against Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, picked as the gubernatorial candidate over the weekend by state Democratic statemakers.

The vote was taken following an appearance by Walker before members of the organization at the home of H. Robert Powell in Arlington Heights.

Coalition spokesmen said they enlisted more volunteer workers in the last Wheeling Township election than the regular Democratic organization. The group plans a cooperative effort with the Walker organization.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Young Americans for Freedom will sponsor its second Youth Political Action Conference from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 18, in the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn.

of the medicines we have today, the doctor had little else to give some of his patients except hope, and hope came in a little bottle full of pink water. Phenobarb was the only tranquilizer he had and when pink water worked, it was wonderful. Moreover, it didn't cause any complications, like dependence upon drugs. Pink water, spiritual music, health spas, copper bracelets and other devices have brought relief to millions. The human mind is a strange and wonderful mechanism.

The conference will be directed by Paul Mueller, secretary of the YAF chapter. It was organized by Mueller and George K. Busse, chapter chairman.

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will be the featured speaker at the conference.

Also scheduled to appear are conservative philosopher James Evans; Rev. Henry Mitchell of the North Star Missionary Baptist Church; Dr. Elisio Vivas, former professor of moral and intellectual philosophy at Northwestern University; John Jensen regional director of YAF; and Mike Maggio, managing editor of the Mount Prospect Times.

Young Americans for Freedom, founded under the auspices of conservative columnist William F. Buckley Jr., is the nation's largest political organization for youth. Its national advisory board includes such conservative figures as Sen.

Paul H. Simon

Barry Goldwater, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, actor John Wayne, and Crane. It now claims 821 chapters, mostly on college campuses.

IMMEDIATELY AFTER his slating by Republicans as candidate for clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Northbrook attorney Robert L. Sklodowski began a tour of newspaper offices throughout the county to lay the groundwork for his campaign.

Sklodowski, 36, indicated he will emphasize the huge patronage operation of the office of the present clerk, Democrat Matthew J. Danaher, who commands more than 2,000 political workers.

The Park Ridge trial lawyer is a former assistant Illinois attorney general. He originally sought slating as candidate for state's attorney, which was given to Bernard J. Carey, who narrowly lost the election for county sheriff in 1970.

4-Man GOP Primary In 3rd

Republican candidates for the state legislature in the new 3rd district appeared headed for a four-member primary election Saturday after failure of party leaders to select two favorites for the Illinois House of Representatives.

Maine Township Republican committeeman Floyd T. Fulle, head of a screening committee for the district, reported "no consensus" among party leaders attempting to choose two candidates from four seeking party backing for the legislature.

Fulle said he will attempt again to secure agreement among the committeemen on two candidates. "If we can't reach agreement by Monday, I, as chairman, will call for an open primary," Fulle declared.

Seeking party endorsement are Schaumburg Township Committeeman Donald L. Totten; Arlington Heights Village Trustee James T. Ryan; Mrs. Virginia MacDonald, former constitutional convention delegate from Arlington Heights; and Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer.

TOWNSHIP committeemen on the screening committee include Carl Hansen of Elk Grove Township; Richard A. Cowen of Wheeling Township; Totten, and Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township.

The committeemen agreed in advance to a weighted voting system, based on the Republican turnout in the last primary election in the portion of the 3rd District represented by each committeeman. According to that ratio, Hansen controls 4,100 votes; Cowen, 2,400; Totten, 2,066; Pedersen, 1,400; and Fulle, only 200.

Ryan received the backing of a majority of precinct captains in Wheeling Township for the Republican nomination, but failed to win the necessary 60 per cent majority for a formal endorsement. Mrs. MacDonald ran behind Ryan in the Wheeling balloting, but has had tenacious support of a number of party veterans.

Totten, in addition to being committeeman, has strong support throughout his township; and Meyer claims the backing of five of six mayors in the new district.

State Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mt. Prospect, is running for the state Senate, creating one of two vacancies for the Republican nomination.

Heart Victims Guided Toward Changed Life

The nurse urges heart attack victims to become familiar with the medication their doctors have prescribed and with possible side effects.

"Don't become a robot. . . know what you're taking," the nurse advises. "Keep your doctor appointments and take the tests he needs."

The nurse talks about different types of heart attacks. "They are so individual. Your doctor must gear your own guidelines just for you. He has his own philosophy about your treatment," the nurse explains.

SHE ALSO ENCOURAGES patients to make a list of questions they have about their recovery program to discuss with their doctors before they are discharged from the hospital.

A heart attack victim's family and life goals are discussed on Thursdays. A social worker from the hospital staff exposes patients to changes they must adjust to in their former lives and reactions from those around them they must expect and understand.

The social worker discusses role changes in terms of spouses, children and extended families. He discusses dependency and fear and a heart patient's possible reluctance to reenter community activities or the working world.

"What should I tell my friends? When can I start work?" are questions answered by the social worker.

"I'm an optometrist. I handle 40 patients a day. I've commuted two hours back and forth by car for nine years. Can I keep it up?" a patient asks. "Can I have sexual relations? Will I be treated like an invalid?"

Rev. Stromberg said heart patients' families are encouraged to attend all of the discussions, particularly the ones with the social worker since many of his topics relate directly to families.

The final Friday discussion, lead by a chaplain, deals with stress — physical, mental and emotional stress caused by the wear and tear of life and dangerous to the heart attack victim.

The chaplain urges heart patients to conquer stress by finding a healthy meaning in life, accepting physical limitations caused by the heart attack, balancing work with recreation, understanding the sources of undue stress and living one day at a time.

"WILL I DIE? How will I handle finances? Will I be able to work?" are some of the questions answered by the chaplain.

Stitchin' Time

Christmas Stocking Gifts To Sew

by JOANE SCHRIEBER

Christmas stockings are a favorite gift-to-sew. They are quick and uncomplicated, they don't go out of style, they last practically forever, and they are always appreciated.

There's still plenty of time to stitch up a batch of felt stockings. And, in case you're tired of the strictly traditional approach, here are some ingenious new ideas from Necchi Sewing Machines of Italy, all designed to be made with the fancy embroidery stitches on your sewing machine, plus felt appliques, buttons, sequins and other whimsies.

Each stocking is made of two pieces of 12-inch-square felt, cut to a stocking shape about 7 inches along the foot and 12 inches from heel to boot top. Cut them good and wide, so they'll hold plenty.

Here are a few decorating suggestions for your basic stockings. Remember to do the fancy work before sewing the two sides together.

— MAKE GIFT BOXES of small squares of colored felt, using your zigzag stitch to simulate the ribbons and secure the boxes.

— Write "Merry Christmas" with machine embroidery stitches; accent with felt balloons secured in the center by a decorative stitch. Use gold buttonhole thread for the balloon strings.

— Silver paper or aluminum foil backed with Pellon can be stitched just like fabric. Stitch each letter of "Merry Christmas" on one of 14 stars, scatter over a blue felt stocking and secure with a loose satin stitch.

— Show off your machine's talents with a stocking decorated entirely in row after row of fancy stitching in different colors and designs.

— TAKE A VARIATION on the basic theme and make a lady's boot. Cut the felt to shape, applique a contrasting heel section and add a high-button trim with real machine-made buttonholes and bright buttons.

— Embroider green holly leaves with red berries on a white felt stocking; accent with a decorative outline stitch.

— Applique a snowman, complete with scarf, boots, cap and broom.

— Make a stylized Christmas tree of green felt branches, and a center trunk of stitched-on green braid.

If there's a new baby on your Christmas list, make his own special Christmas stocking as a present for his first Christmas. Newlyweds will appreciate a matched pair of stockings. Tiny Christmas stockings can decorate the tree or a Christmas wreath, and you could even stuff a stocking with kapok for a Christmas pillow.

Possibilities are endless — so pick up a supply of felt squares, some trimming materials, and turn on your imagination to stitch up the stockings.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Brochure Lists Special Programs

More Adult Women Resuming School

by HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Labor Department says there is a growing interest on the part of "mature" women in the country to return to college.

For adult women interested in going back to school part-time or for evening classes in a wide range of subjects, the Women's Bureau has published a pamphlet listing colleges and schools with special programs for women, state by state.

The brochure — "Continuing Education Programs and Services for Women" — may be purchased from the Government Printing Office in Washington for 70 cents.

"There is widespread realization that additional education can bring deeper personal enrichment as well as job skills useful in the working world," it said.

COLLEGES THROUGHOUT the nation are offering refresher courses, as well as new courses to teach job skills in professions where there have been scientific and technological advances.

In 1969 there were 30.5 million women workers 16 or older, compared to 18.4 million in 1950.

The chances of a woman's getting a job can be expected to increase with the level of her formal education, the bureau said.

The courses being offered are not all satisfactory according to the pamphlet. It said that some women with recent experience in university courses were critical of the methodology and content of the classes, feeling they were aimed strictly at teenagers. "Such courses do not satisfy women with considerable life experience," it said.

The most frequent request of the surveyed alumni was for individual counseling.

"SUPPORT OF continuing education programs for women is consistent with the principles of our democratic society that foster freedom of choice and personal fulfillment," the booklet said. "Such programs make it possible for women to engage in activities that use their individual abilities and satisfy their yearning for self-development and expression."

It said that mature women who find they have more free time and want to share "in the excitement and responsibilities of the economic world need to obtain suitable occupational skills."

It said that as more women return to college, they need to make known their interests and requirements for education and training.

In turn, it said that university and college officials should review their current courses to be sure that education is available to mature women at suitable times and places in a manner appropriate to adult experience and patterns of life.

The courses are varied and are offered both with and without college credits.

Actresses Visit Local Stores

Two female stars will appear in person this week in two area stores.

Thursday 2:30 p.m. Eva Gabor will visit Wieboldt's Randolph Store to present her line of Dynel wigs.

Models in formal dress will show the many variations of the Eva Gabor wig, one in her exact shade of blonde, styled as she wears her hair.

Next Saturday, Ginger Rogers will appear at Penney's in the Woodfield Shopping Mall in Schaumburg. She will arrive at 11 a.m.

Ginger Rogers has been selected by the J. C. Penney Co. to act as a fashion spokeswoman for the company's line of Gaymode Pantyhose.

It's Official: Buffalo Grove Adds Juniors

A new club has been officially added to the rolls of 7th District Juniors in the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

At the District's fall meeting Nov. 18, Buffalo Grove Junior Woman's Club was welcomed into membership, and a president's pin went to Mrs. Robert Bogart. The club was chartered in August.

The new group brings the total to 400 Junior members in 7th District, in clubs which include Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove, Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Streamwood.

A report on the second annual Shuffle and Shop was given by Mrs. Rudolph Schneider, showing a net profit of $739.

Hostess clubs at the meeting were Arlington Heights and Streamwood Juniors.

No More 'Boys Only' In Public Education

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has signed two bills passed by the Illinois General Assembly this fall that would prohibit sex discrimination in admission to public schools.

One bill applies to Chicago public schools and the other to all other public schools in Illinois. Under the new legislation schools may not exclude any student for reason of sex.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, D-3rd, was one of the most active lawmakers on behalf of this legislation.

Next On The Agenda

EXTRA CARE CLUB

Extra Care Club, an organization for wives of flight officers employed by United Air Lines, will hold a luncheon Saturday at Floyd's Restaurant, Carpentersville.

The luncheon will be served at 1, followed by a program on handwriting analysis by Mrs. Harold Jenkins. Members will also be bringing cookies for a cookie exchange.

Mrs. L. Carter, 695-0479, is taking reservations.

DAR

The spirit of Christmas will pervade the home of Mrs. William R. Jacobs, 810 Woodlawn St., Des Plaines, when the Park Ridge Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, gathers there on Monday, Dec. 13 at 12:45 p.m.

The Girls' Chorus from Maine South

High School, led by Irwin Bell, will present a program of Christmas music emphasizing American heritage.

As a special project for veterans at Great Lakes Hospital, the Veteran Patient Committee will collect money for table games, models and toilet articles. This committee previously collected money for veteran patients to call home, and also collected over 900 Christmas cards, blank and stamped for veterans' use.

A Christmas stocking will be filled with money donations for Tamassee and Kate Duncan Smith Schools, owned by the National Society, DAR. These schools serve Appalachian mountain children in the Tamassee, S. C. and Grant, Ala. areas.

Assisting with the arrangements for the Christmas party are Mrs. Luther R. Williams, Mrs. John W. Pullen, and Mrs. Roland J. Benjamin.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: With winter and its attendant colds, I'm wondering if it isn't important to add a disinfectant to the laundry to kill any germs. I especially worry when I use the laundromat. And what about cold water soap washes? Are the germs all wiped out in this method? —Mildred H.

It takes 3-5 minutes at 212 degrees or 20 minutes at a water temperature of 140 degrees to kill the common staphylococci germs. As it isn't possible to control temperatures and washing times so precisely, it's a good idea to use a disinfectant. Researchers recommend chlorine bleach for fabrics that can take it or disinfectants on the order of pine oil.

Dear Dorothy: Don't know why anyone should have trouble storing onions so they won't spoil. They freeze beautifully. I peel and chop some fine for frying and cut others in larger pieces for other dishes, then place them in plastic freezer bags. The needed amount can be easily shipped out. —Mrs. Josephine Solomon.

There's one caution here — be sure the container holding the onions is not porous. Certain plastic containers do a good job, but the onion odor might go through even a double plastic bag. Once stored rose potpourri in a double plastic bag designed for freezing — the drawer soon developed a beautiful fragrance. Most people would have a fit if they put frozen onion in the freezer and the odor penetrated to other things.

Dear Dorothy: I notice that when I add a teaspoon of lemon juice to the water when cooking cauliflower it seems to help keep the vegetable nice and white — and you can't taste the lemon juice. —Hazel W.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

CHRISTMAS IS A TIME for giving. Mark Sager and Michelle and Renee Hoagland are following the spirit of the season and choosing the name of one of 2,300 children from the Northwest Opportunity Center, Rolling Meadows, to whom they will be sending a Christmas gift. Clothing or toys (ranging in price from $2-$5) will be delivered to the children, who are members of Spanish-speaking migrant workers, Dec. 17, by the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines, sponsors of the "Choose a Child — Buy a Smile For Christmas" project. Interested persons may contact Mrs. Frank Sager, 298-4791, for further information.

Here's How To Announce Engagement In The Herald

With the summer rush of engagements, Paddock Suburban Living department is again besieged with calls from those seeking information on submitting announcements for publication. We print the following for the reader's information and help!

The announcement of an engagement is always made by the parents of the engaged girl, who may either fill out an engagement form at our office or submit their own information along with a wallet sized picture of the bride-to-be.

If a wallet sized picture is not available in Arlington Heights or our Des Plaines office.

Parents not using one of our forms may either write or type the information. If the announcement is submitted in hand-writing we ask that all names be printed to avoid errors. We also request that a phone number accompany the signature at the bottom of the announcement.

A glossy picture is preferable although a dull finish is often acceptable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors depending on contrast and depth of color.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. They will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

Show Childbirth Film At Hospital Friday

A film on the Lamaze method of childbirth will be shown Friday evening in the hyperbaric theater at Lutheran General Hospital, 1775 W. Dempster, Park Ridge. Entitled "A Shared Beginning," the film is sponsored by Northern Illinois Chapter of the American Society for Psycho-Propylaxis in Obstetrics. It will be shown at 8 p.m.

An open discussion will follow the movie.

All interested couples are invited to see the film. They may obtain more information from Mary Tyska, R.N., 332-3641; Gloria Berger, R.N., 537-3786; or Mary Ann Conrad, R.N., 366-3385.

English Boutique Tomorrow Night

An unusual English boutique will be held tomorrow evening by the Daughters of the British Empire, Des Plaines Chapter, at St. Martin's Episcopal Church, Thacker and Margret, Des Plaines at 6 p.m.

The boutique will feature an English booth where antiques will be displayed. Gene Murphy will greet guests, dressed in an authentic Beefeater suit which was flown in from England for the bazaar.

Another booth will have homemade baked goods for sale and as refreshments including mince meat pie, tea and other English foods.

Brass rubbings, silk screens and other arts and crafts will be offered for sale by the members, and a white elephant booth will be included.

Proceeds will go to Brookfield Home for the Elderly, according to Mrs. Yvonne O'Tolle, chairman, Des Plaines. Members of the organization are from the northwest suburbs. Those interested in further information can contact Mrs. Jill Thornton, 824-1006.
